PREFACE

For the third time a volume of The Genealogist has appeared during the greatest War known in history. The readers will, I feel sure, realize the great difficulty of carrying on an antiquarian magazine at a period when the whole of the English speaking race is engaged in a struggle for the liberty of the World, and will pardon the necessary delay which has occurred in the issue of the quarterly numbers. Notwithstanding the considerable increase in the cost of paper and printing, the price of The Genealogist has not been raised, and if only a large number of persons who are readers of the magazine at Public Libraries or at their Clubs, will continue to subscribe, there is good hope that we may be able to continue over this anxious and critical time and preserve the journal as we all trust will be a long period of universal peace that which may still claim to be the leading periodical on the subject of genealogy and heraldry in the English language.

I am glad to have been fortunate enough to secure for the magazine the revised Calendar of Lambeth Wills. As Mr. Challenger Smith has explained in his introduction, the index to these interesting wills printed in the old series of The Genealogist during the editorship of the late Dr. H. W. Marshall, was inaccurate and imperfect, and a new version was much needed. It will be found equal in thoroughness and clarity of arrangement to the first volume of the Calendar of P. O. C. Wills by the same writer, and that is saying a great deal. All the articles in this volume are of much interest, but that of Mr. G. W. Wason on Fitz Pier and de Say deserves some special mention, for the charters contained in it throw a new light on some most interesting feudal families. I believe I am right in saying that for

PREFACE.

For the third time a volume of The Genealogist has appeared during the greatest War known to history. Our readers will, I feel sure, realize the great difficulty of carrying on an antiquarian magazine at a period when the whole of the English speaking race is engaged in a struggle for the liberty of the World, and will pardon the necessary delay which has occurred in the issue of the quarterly numbers. Notwithstanding the considerable increase in the cost of paper and printing, the price of The Genealogist has not been raised, and it only the large number of persons who are readers of the magazine either at Public Libraries or at their Clubs, will enroll themselves as subscribers, there is good hope that we may be able to tide over this anxious and critical time and preserve for what we all trust will be a long period of universal peace that which may still claim to be the leading periodical on the subject of genealogy and heraldry in the English language.

I am glad to have been fortunate enough to secure for the magazine the revised Calendar of Lambeth Willis. As Mr. Challoner Smith has explained in his introduction, the index to these interesting wills printed in the old series of The Genealogist during the editorship of the late Dr. G. W. Marshall, was inaccurate and imperfect, and a new version was much needed. It will be found equal in thoroughness and clarity of arrangement to the first volume of the Calendar of P. G. O. Willis by the same writer, and that is saying a great deal. All the articles in this volume are of much interest, but that of Mr. G. W. Watson on Fitz Piers and de Say deserves some special mention, for the charters contained in it throw a new light on some most interesting feudal families. I believe I am right in saying that for the first time the father of Geoffrey Fitz Piers, Earl of Essex, the founder of the second line of the great house of Mandeville, has been discovered, and it has also been proved that Aveline, the second wife of Geoffrey, belonged to the illustrious race of De Clare.

I am glad to see that greater use has been made during the past year of our Notes and Queries column. I have always felt that it might be made of great assistance as a means of communication between antiquaries, and shall be pleased to receive short notes upon subjects of genealogical and heraldic interest. These give little trouble to the contributor, who may, perhaps, be too busy to write a long article, and they frequently are most helpful to others who are working on the same lines.

For the frontispiece this year a photograph has been chosen of a very interesting tomb in Ledbury Church, Herefordshire. This photograph was taken by Mr. G. W. Watson in 1888 and has been kindly lent by him. The monument is, by local tradition, supposed to be that of Catherine, wife of Nicholas Audley, sometimes called St. Catherine Audley, of whom there is an account in The Genealogist N.S., Vol. xxx, p. 190. The Audley fret does not, however, appear upon the tomb, the arms thereon being:—two lions passant, for Lestrangle; three lions passant, for Gifford of Brimpsfield, and three lions rampant, probably intended for Pauncefoot, or Herbert. It would, therefore, seem more likely that the lady commemorated was by birth a Lestrangle, and it is worthy of notice in this connection that Margaret, sister of Catherine Audley, was wife of Fulk Lestrangle, of Whitchurch, and that Catherine and Margaret were daughters of John Gifford, of Brimpsfield.

The Genealogist.

CHAPMAN OF HERTFORDSHIRE AND LONDON.

Several families of the surname of Chapman are to be found bearing the Arms here shown, viz. :—Per Chevron Argent and Gules a Crescent counterchanged on a Chief of the Second a Unicorn's head couped between two Leopards' faces Or, and it is to be presumed that these families were connected, but I have not, as yet, been able to trace the common ancestor, so that any information which will help to find him will be much appreciated.

The family here dealt with have depicted on their Coat a Mullet Sable above the crescent indicating a cadency mark for the third house, and for Crest, on a wreath of the colours, issuant from a

Crescent parted per pale Argent and Or a Unicorn's head Gules armed, crined and guttée of the Second.

The genealogy, as far as I have it, begins with two brothers, Thomas and William Chapman, which

WILLIAM CHAPMAN was of Therfield, co. Herts. By his will, dated 23 December 1511, wherein he desires to be buried in the churchyard of St. Mary of Therfield, he bequeaths, inter alia, 3s 4d for the repair of the highway to Royston, 10 quarters of malt to his servant Alice, 4 quarters of malt to his servant William Wood, to every inhabitant of Therfield and Kelsey not having barley growing there one measure of malt. To Joan his wife he gives half an acre in Daneshott for her life and after her decease to the same use and intention as the land which John Boteman¹ lately gave to the village of Therfield. William Chapman's will was proved at Lambeth 5 February 1511-2 (P.C.C.) by Joan the widow, William Game and Robert Gayler the executors. He had issue :—

John Chapman, under 18 in 1501, mentioned in his father's will and in that of his uncle Thomas.

Alice, under 18 in 1501, mentioned in the will of her uncle Thomas.

THOMAS CHAPMAN (brother of the above-mentioned William) was of Barley, co. Herts. By his will dated 24 October 1501 and proved at ¹ The will of "John Botman of Sandon," proved in 1508 (P.C.C.) throws no light on this genealogy.

Among other bequests he leaves 10s. for the repair of the highway between John Grenell's gate and Thomas Gate-wood's gate. To John, son of William Chapman, the younger,² 40s. at the age of 18, and if he die before that age the said sum to be disposed of for a priest to chant for the souls of testator, of his wife and of his father and mother. To Alice, daughter of William Chapman, 20s. at the age of 18 and if she die before that age to John, her brother. Residue at disposition of executors, namely, William Chapman of Therfield, his brother, and John and Thomas Chapman his (testator's) sons. Sir Richard Poule, priest, a witness. Among other charitable legacies he leaves 20s. to six poor folk dwelling in Barley to be distributed by William Chapman dwelling there. Residue to his wife Anne and all his children alive equally between them and she to be executrix and his "brother" James Hawes,³ overseer, who, with Philip Gunter and his (testator's) "cousin," William Towerson,⁴ are witnesses. John Chapman and THOMAS CHAPMAN of St. Michael, Cornhill, Citizen and Draper of London, born in Barbey aforesaid. By his will, dated 14 September 1561, commission to administer 28 October following (P.C.C.) he desires to be buried in the Church of St. Michael, Cornhill. Among other charitable bequests he leaves 20s. to six poor folk dwelling in Barbey to be distributed by William Chapman dwelling there. Besides to his wife Anne and all his children alive equally between them and she to be executrix and his "brother," James Hawes, overseer, who, with Philip (father and his (testator's) "cousin," William Towson, are witnesses. He was buried in St. Michael, Cornhill, 15 September 1561, where also his widow, Anne, was buried 26 July 1583. Commission to administer her effects was granted to her sister Elizabeth, wife of the said James Hawes, 26 July 1563 (P.C.C.). She, the said Anne Chapman and her sister Elizabeth, or Avery, Hawes, were daughters of John Copwood of Tottenham, co. Herts. (by a 1st marriage from the better part of the evidence in West's Index) of another child between two Hawes (deceased Nov. 1403). Thomas and Anne had issue with other children who may have been Philip, Martha, Rose and Margaret, baptized at St. Michael, Cornhill, a son.

THOMAS CHAPMAN, Citizen and Scrivener of London, Writer of the Court's letters, who after a long residence in London was elected Sheriff in 1619, but "in regard of his infirmity of body and declining age

* It can be inferred that this William Chapman, the younger, was the testator's brother, and if this was the case then there must have been a William Chapman, the elder, who may have been father or uncle of these brothers.

* James Hawes afterwards Sir James Hawes, Lord Mayor of London (Visitation of London, Harl. Soc. Pub. No. 307).

* William Towson of London, Merchant Adventurer, married 15 January 1550-51 at St. Michael, Cornhill, Mary Hawes. On the same day and at the same church Thomas Withford married Elizabeth Hawes. These ladies were two of the daughters of the said Sir James Hawes, although the former does not appear in the pedigree recorded at the Visitation of London, 1558. By a grant dated 21 January 1561-2, William Towson, Mayor, granted to Towson the family Arms and granted an augmentation of a Lion's passant guardant with a ship, viz.:—Gules a Lion between two bars, argent, argent on a Canton of the second a ship sable. The grant is interesting in that it notes the achievement of the grantor.

* In the year the parish of St. Michael expanded the plaque.

according to ye Custome of the Citty he fyned for not serving ye same" (Funeral Certificate). He was born in St. Michael, Cornhill, and baptized at the parish church 16 February 1549-50. Married first at St. Pancras Church, Soper Lane, 8 July 1572, Rhoda, baptized there 18 September 1552, daughter of Hugh Robinson (per pale Azure and Or a Cross patonce counterchanged a Chief quarterly of the first and second in the first and fourth quarters two Bezants in the second and third a Lion passant of the first). She died in 1605 and was buried in St. Pancras Church 24 May. He married secondly Katherine sister of William Penyfether (per fesse Or and Gules a Bend Ermine) and relict of . . . She had daughters Elizabeth Page and Morgan, mentioned in her husband's will, 1615-6.

Thomas Chapman died at his house in Soper Lane 15 August 1620, and was buried 14 September following in St. Pancras Church, the funeral taking place from Mercers Chapel attended by William Camden, Clarenceux, and John Philipot, Rouge Dragon, acting for Samson Lennard, Bluemantle. He is mentioned as a generous benefactor to the Church of St. Pancras,⁶ and in his will, dated 11 March 1615-6, proved 15 August 1620,⁷ among other charitable bequests he left an annuity to poor scholars of the name of Chapman in Barley, where his father was born. By his first wife he had issue, all baptized at St. Pancras:—

1. Thomas, bapt. 4 January 1580-1, died young.
2. THOMAS, son and heir.
1. Mary, bapt. 11 October 1573, buried at St. Pancras 19 February 1574-5.
2. Elizabeth, bapt. 18 February 1574-5 and married at St. Pancras 15 July 1593 to John Beckman, Parson of Little Burstead in Essex, who died 13 December 1628, aged 68. She predeceased her husband, having died 21 August 1611, aged 36. Both buried at Little Burstead.⁸ They had issue four sons and four daughters, of whom John, Rhoda and Elizabeth are mentioned in the will of their uncle Thomas Chapman, 1626.
3. Mary, bapt. 16 February 1577-8, died before 1620.
4. Katherine, bapt. 30 November 1579, married Nicholas Hicks, Citizen and Vintner of London. She was buried in her father's vault in St. Pancras Church 6 December 1643.

* "Survey of London," 1720, book 3, pp. 28, 29. The church was destroyed in the Great Fire and not rebuilt, but the ruins were used for burial purposes for many years after. Stow and his successors record inscriptions that survived the fire, but do not mention any relating to the Chapmans. The history of this church has yet to be written. A remnant of the site of the church or churchyard exists in Pancras Lane off Queen Street.

⁸ Monumental Inscriptions there. Her brother, Thomas Chapman, in his will, 1626, directed that a gravestone be laid over her corpse in the Church of Little Burstead, with an inscription thereon "in memoriall" of her parentage and children.

5. Rhoda, bapt. 28 October 1584, married first John Mason, secondly, Israel Ellis, by whom she had a son William, mentioned in the will of his grandfather Thomas Chapman, 1615; and thirdly, William Wilkinson of London, by whom she had a daughter Anne, aged 14 in 1634. She was buried in Mercers Chapel.⁹
6. Susan, bapt. 27 November 1590 and buried in St. Pancras Church 29 June 1609.

THOMAS CHAPMAN, son and heir of Thomas and Rhoda, was Citizen and Draper of London, and of Wormley, co. Herts. Born in his father's house in Soper Lane 25 July 1586, bapt. at St. Pancras 31 same month, he married Jane, daughter of James Cox (Or three bars Azure on a Canton Argent a Lion's head coupé Gules), sometime Recorder of Monmouth. Like his father he was a bountiful benefactor to the Church of St. Pancras and also made an addition to the annuity left by his father for educating young scholars of the name of Chapman in Barley, where his grandfather was born.¹⁰ He died at his house at Wormley on Thursday, 7 September 1626, his remains being conveyed to London where his funeral took place from Drapers Hall to St. Pancras Church on Thursday, 5 October following. The Officers of Arms who ordered and directed the interment in St. Pancras were Henry St. George, Richmond Herald, serving for Clarenceux, and George Owen, Rouge Dragon (Funeral Certificate). His will, dated 6 September 1626, was proved 9 same month (P.C.C.). Besides four sons who died infants, the eldest of whom, Thomas, is mentioned in his grandfather's will, 1615-6, he had issue three daughters and coheirs:—

1. Rhoda, born 1617, buried 11 October 1686, at Aynho, co. Northampton,¹¹ having married first Thomas Hussey of Caythorpe, eldest son of Sir Edward Hussey of Honnington, co. Lincoln, Baronet, at St. Mary Woolnoth, London, 11 December 1633. He died in his father's lifetime in 1642, æt. 29. By him she was mother of:—
 - i. Sir Thomas Hussey, Baronet, ob. s.p.m.¹²
 - ii. William Hussey, merchant of London, who married Mary, daughter of John Buckworth of London.

6. Rhoda, bapt. 28 October 1681, married first John Mason, secondly, Isaac Mills, by whom she had a son William, mentioned in the will of his grandfather Thomas Chapman 1616; and thirdly, William Wilkinson of London, by whom she had a daughter Anne, aged 14 in 1634. She was buried in Mercer's Chapel.
 7. Anne, bapt. 27 November 1596 and buried in St. Pancras Church 29 June 1607.

THOMAS CHAPMAN, son and heir of Thomas and Rhoda, was Clerk and Treas. of London, and of Worcester, co. Here. How in his father's house in Roper Lane 25 July 1586, bapt. at St. Pancras 31 same month, he married Jane, daughter of James Cox (or Cox's date here on a Canon of York's head copied 1625), sometime Recorder of Monmouth. Like his father he was a devoted benefactor to the Church of St. Pancras and also made an addition to the running lode by his father for educating young scholars of the name of Chapman in Barley, where his grandfather was born. He died at his house at Worcester on Thursday 7 September 1626, his remains being conveyed to London where his funeral took place from Drapers' Hall to St. Pancras Church on Thursday 5 October following. The Officers of Arms who ordered and directed the interment in St. Pancras were Henry St. George, Richmond Herald, serving for Gloucester, and George Owen Rogers (London Herald). His will, dated 6 September 1626, was proved 9 same month (P.C.C.). Besides four sons who died infants, the eldest of whom Thomas is mentioned in his grandfather's will, 1616-6, he had three daughters and coheirs:—

1. Rhoda, born 1617, buried 11 October 1686, at Aynho, co. Northampton, having married first Thomas Halsey of Aynho, eldest son of Sir Edward Halsey of London, co. Lincoln, Baronet, as Sir Mary Woodhouse, London, 11 September 1633. He died in his father's lifetime in 1643, at 29. By him she was mother of:—

i. Sir Thomas Halsey, Baronet, ob. s.p.m.
 ii. William Halsey, merchant of London, who married Mary, daughter of John Blackwell of London.
 2. Rhoda, married John Amory of Aynho, co. Lincoln, at Courtham, co. Lincoln, 20 February 1633, and had issue Rhoda, wife of Sir Thomas Brightwell, Baronet.

2. Rebecca, bapt. at St. Pancras 18 July 1622, died in London 23 March 1686, æt. 64, buried at Aynho. Her will dated 7 January 1685-6 was proved 20 April 1686 (P.C.C.). She married first Thomas, only son of Sir William Playters of Sotterley, co. Suffolk, Baronet, who died in his father's lifetime in 1651 without issue at Messina in Italy (Will proved 24 September 1651).¹⁴ She married secondly Richard Lucy, son and heir of Francis Lucy and nephew of Sir Richard Lucy of Broxbourne, co. ¹⁵ G.E.C. in his Complete Baronetage (vol. i, p. 113) has blindly followed previous statements as to Rebecca Chapman's second marriage. She did not marry Sir Richard Lucy, Baronet, who, however, did marry twice as evidenced by his will. His will is mentioned by G.E.C., who apparently did not consult it or read the monumental inscription to the said Rebecca printed in Baker's Northamptonshire (vol. i, p. 554). Sir Richard Lucy in his will mentions his brother Francis and the said Francis' grandson, Playters Lucy. The M.I. at Aynho records that Rebecca married secondly Richard, s. and h. of Francis Lucy of the ancient family of Charlecote, co. Warwick, and that she had issue by him Playters Lucy.

iii. Mary, married William Raffe of Maresfield, co. Devon, at St. Paul's, Covent Garden, London, 10 July 1688, and left issue.¹²

She married secondly, as second wife, at St. Giles in the Fields, London, 18 October 1616, Ferdinando, Lord Fairfax of Campton, who died at Denton, co. York, 13 March 1617 &
by whom she had an only child:—

7 January 1685-6 was proved 20 April 1686 (P.C.C.).
She married first Thomas, only son of Sir William Playfere of Sooterley, co. Suffolk, Baronet, who died in his father's lifetime in 1681 without issue in America in Italy (Will proved 24 September 1681).¹³ She married secondly Richard Lucy, son and heir of Francis Lucy

Herts, Baronet, by whom she had an only son:—

Knebworth; will dated 28 September and proved 12 Novemchild:—

previous statements as to Rebecca Chapman's second marriage. She did not marry Sir Richard Lucy, Baronet, who, however, did marry twice as evidenced by his will. His will is mentioned by G.E.C., who apparently did not search it or read the monumental inscription to the said Rebecca printed in Baker's Northamptonshire (vol. i. p. 664). Sir Richard Lucy in his will mentions his brother Francis and the said Francis' grandson, Playfere Lucy. The M. in Aynho records that Rebecca married secondly Richard, a and h. of Francis Lucy of the ancient family of Chittenden, co. Warwick, and that she had issue by him Playfere Lucy.

PEDIGREE OF IRELAND, OF THE HUTT, IN HALEWOOD, CO. LANCASTER.

This pedigree, which was copied in the year 1894 from the original at Hale Hall, Lancashire, is on very old paper, measuring ten feet in length by eleven and a half inches in width; it was at one time of greater length, but the upper part has been torn off. The unusually large shields of arms, lozenges, and crests are very well drawn in colours; the crests are at the side. The writing of the pedigree is in a clear text, each name is surrounded by a green marginal circle, and the leading lines are in vermillion. The pedigree was apparently drawn for John Ireland, who, in the year 1583, married Katherine, daughter of Peter Leycester of Nether Tabley,¹ and died without issue on the 17th October 1614.²

The Irelands entered pedigrees at the Lancashire Visitations of 1567, 1613, and 1664-5. The family ended with Sir Gilbert Ireland, whose tomb at Hale Church is inscribed:—

PART VII.

Liverpool was set free from the rule of Chester and made a free port in 1647. It sent out its first small vessel in 1709 on a voyage to Africa, and thence to the West Indies. In the same year the building of a dock was authorised. This dock, afterwards known as the "Old Dock," was the first constructed, not only in Liverpool, but in the United Kingdom. With these events Liverpool's era of progress may be said to have commenced, and the growing importance of the town began to attract people from all round. In 1700 it was an insignificant place of about 5,000 inhabitants, in 1800 there were 77,000 people there, and in 1900 the population had almost reached 700,000. Surely a very remarkable development.

It would have been curious indeed if amongst this large influx of people into Liverpool there had been no members of the Aspinwall and Aspinall families, and no extensive search is required to show that both names were represented there from the beginning of its history. They are to be found in the "Earliest Registers of the Parish of Liverpool" between 1660 and 1674²⁰⁰; the Wills at Chester include nearly fifty commencing from about the same time²⁰¹; and names may also be found in various other Liverpool records.

In 1766 the first Liverpool Directory was published.²⁰² This volume, being a first attempt, was a small one of twenty-nine pages only, and the names were few, but even in it we find—

Aspinwall and Orred, Attornies at Law, Cable Street.

James Aspinall, plumber and glazier, South Side, Old Dock.

By the beginning of the nineteenth century several subsequent directories had been issued, each one larger than its predecessor, and each one containing additional Aspinwall and Aspinall names.²⁰³ It is occasionally possible to identify new arrivals, as for instance, John Aspinall & Sons, grocers, 5 Derby Street & 40 Castle Street, who first appear in the Directory for 1796 and who came from Blackburn about this time; and Nicholas Aspinall, merchant, Brunswick Street, who first occurs in 1807, and who was, no doubt, the same Nicholas we have already met with in the Standen pedigree.

²⁰³ The early Liverpool Directories were only issued at intervals, and not year by year. In the references to them which follow, it must be remembered that the numbers of the houses, etc., were very frequently changed, owing to the rapid growth of the town. The numbering of any given house is rarely the same in two consecutive directories.

¹⁰³ The only Liverpool Directories were only issued at intervals, and not year by year. In the references to those which follow, it must be remembered that the numbers of the houses etc., were very frequently changed, owing to the rapid growth of the town. The numbering of any given house is rarely the same in two consecutive directories.

It is, however, of James Aspinall, of South Side, Old Dock, and of his descendants, that we now have to give an account. Some of these descendants have taken distinguished positions in the life and history of Liverpool and Lancashire, and in the legal world. For more than a century the family has held the reputation of being one of Liverpool's most respected families; and it never held that reputation more firmly than it holds it to-day.

In presenting the records of this family, the writer first desires to acknowledge the valuable help given by Miss Isabel Aspinall, a grand-daughter of John Bridge Aspinall, Recorder of Liverpool,²⁰⁴ who has very kindly offered her own collection of notes for inclusion in this article.

Amongst the information collected by Miss Aspinall is found the earliest knowledge which has been traced of the family. In some correspondence with members of the Tobin family (with which family the Aspinalls contracted several marriages about the beginning of the nineteenth century) are three lists of names giving information based upon records made in three family bibles. These bibles, at the time the correspondence took place, were in the possession of the Rev. Frederick Tobin, grandson of Sir John Tobin, and then of Charlecote Vicarage, Warwickshire. Upon his decease they passed into the possession of his sister, Mrs. Emily M. Dunn, the wife of the Rev. Oliver J. Dunn, lately of Acrise Vicarage, but now residing at Ealing. The lists are given below. The names relating to James Aspinall and his family appear to have been copied into the Tobin family bible from an older bible, but Mrs. Dunn is not able to give any information on this point—

James Aspinall, a plumber and glazier resided, and carried on his business (it was afterwards conducted under the firm of John and James Aspinall); he was the Father of Mr. John Bridge Aspinall, who lived there many years, and afterwards resided in Duke Street, and was a member of the council."

The Port of Liverpool was at this time principally engaged in the West African trade. In some tradesmen's accounts which have been collected in connection with the fitting out of the privateer "Enterprise,"²⁰⁷ which sailed on its first voyage in 1779, James Aspinall, glazier, presented accounts for £2 4s. 0d. for the first, 16s. 6d. for the second, and £18 1s. 0d. for the third voyage. This is the first reference, which has been found connecting the family with the African trade, in which several of James Aspinall's sons were afterwards actively engaged.

James Aspinall died about 1788. His will is preserved at Chester,²⁰⁸ and an abstract of it has been obtained:—

JAMES ASPINALL, OF LIVERPOOL, MERCHANT, 12 May 1787, proved 14 April 1788. After discharge of debts, etc. To wife Betty my household goods, plate, linen, etc. absolutely. To my sons John Bridge, James, and William, whom I appoint exors, my four messuages or dwelling houses situated on the north side of College Lane in Liverpool with the warehouse and stable at the back and the outbuildings and appurtenances thereto belonging, in the several holdings and occupation of Dr. John Lyon, Mr. James Grierson, Mr. . . . Woodward, and Mr. Stephen Ford, on trust to receive the rents on behalf of my wife for her life. And then to my son John Bridge Aspinall my messuage in the occupation of Dr. Lyon for rest of my term of the same, on condition that he pays to my son Thomas Aspinall £400. To my son James the messuage and warehouse in the occupation of Stephen Ford for my term of the same, subject to the payment of £200 to my grandson Thomas Brancker, son of my daughter Hannah Brancker, on his attaining the age of 21. To my son William my messuage in occupation of James Grierson together with the yard or vacant ground running lineally and of an equal breadth with the front of the same messuage as far to the northward as my property there extends. It being my will that the communication between the houses in the occupation of Dr. Lyon and James Grierson shall be destroyed after the death of my wife, and that my said son William shall have liberty to pass in and out of the said messuage devised by me through the entry or passage into Manesty's Lane. To my son Edward the messuage in the occupation of . . . Woodward together with the stable at the back now occupied by Stephen Ford during my interest therein, and my mind is that the communication between the said stable and the premises in the possession of Stephen Ford shall likewise after the death of my wife be destroyed, and my son Edward shall have liberty to pass in and out of the said messuage through the said entry into Manesty's Lane. And as I have already advanced to my daughter Hannah upon her marriage with Peter Whitfield Brancker £500 I bequeath to her a further £1,500. And as I have advanced to my daughter Martha upon her marriage with Ralph Fisher £500 I bequeath to her a further £1,500. To my son John Bridge Aspinall the messuage wherein he now dwells and the warehouse and shop belonging thereto situated on the south side of the old Dock in Liverpool, estimating the same at £1,200, and my seat or pew in the North Aisle of St. Thomas's Church in Liverpool, reserving a seat in the same for my wife for her life, and also my seat or pew in the West Gallery of St. Paul's Church in Liverpool, marked No. 37, estimating the two pews at £100, and I bequeath a further £200 to complete his full immediate share. To my son James my messuage No. 75 in my own possession situated on the south west side of Duke St. in Liverpool for my term, estimating the same at £1,300, and I bequeath to him £700 to complete his full share. And whereas I have advanced to my son William £500 I bequeath to him £1,500 more. To my son Edward £2,000 and to each of my daughters, Mary, Betty, Beatrice, and Sarah £2,000. And whereas I have already advanced to my son Thomas £1,200 I give him a further £800 which with £400 before made payable from my son John Bridge Aspinall will complete his full share. Legacies to younger children, Betty, Beatrice, and Sarah to be paid at 21 or marriage. If any of younger children die before receipt of legacies such to be divided among all surviving children and their representatives if dead.

An abstract of another will, that of William Aspinall of Liverpool,²¹⁰ gentleman, who died in 1806, has also been obtained. The directories for 1796 and 1800 show that he was then living at Shaws Brow, and that for 1805 that he had removed to 10, Gill Street. He must not be confused with William Aspinall, the son of James Aspinall, who is shown in the same directories at quite a different address, and who continues to be shown for many years after 1806.

WILLIAM ASPINALL, of Liverpool, Gentleman, 6 May 1806, proved 18 Octr. 1806. An abstract of another will, that of William Aspenwall of Liverpool gentleman, who died in 1806, has also been obtained. The directions for 1795 and 1804 show that he was then living at St. James's Row and that for 1805 that he had removed to 10, Hill Street. He must not be confused with William Aspenwall, the son of James Aspenwall, who is shown in the same direction at quite a different address, and who continues to be shown for nearly years after 1806.

William Aspenwall, of Liverpool, gentleman, 6 May 1795, proved 18 April 1806. James Aspinall's death in 1788 seems to have brought about a number of changes in his family's arrangements, for the directory for 1790²¹¹ contains several entries, none of which had appeared in the issue for 1781:—

in Green's Directory Liverpool 1790.

The Mayor of Liverpool in 1801-2 was Peter Whitfield Brancker,²¹² who had, it will be remembered, married Hannah, James Aspinall's eldest daughter. In Colquitt Street "lived that true-hearted man of the old school, Peter Whitfield Brancker, one of the worthiest among the worthies of the days we write of. He was one who eschewed anything like nonsense, and was highly gifted with common sense. What he said he meant, and what he did he did with all his heart and soul. Few thought that he had so much kindness beneath his somewhat blunt and bluff bearing; and many called him selfish, when he laid up for his family what others threw away upon vanity and ostentation. We always looked upon him as one of the best men of the day; and, although he was a silent man in general company, he was far before most of our merchant princes in reading and intellectual attainments."²¹³ He also lived for a number of years in Duke Street, and during the Napoleonic wars, as Major Brancker, he commanded a local company of artillery. His son Thomas was a lieutenant in "Bolton's Invincibles," another local regiment formed in Liverpool about the same period; at a later date he also was a Mayor of Liverpool. "Sir Thomas Brancker, quiet citizen as he now looks, used to wear, to us, a most formidable aspect, when an officer in Bolton's Invincibles. Occasionally he would act as adjutant to the regiment, and, if our memory does not fail us at this distance of time, we once saw him . . . ride at a troublesome boy, who would intrude within the line of sentinels, and leap his horse clear over the head of the terrified urchin. We also recollect a Hurry and an Aspinall, officers in this regiment."²¹⁴ The Aspinall here referred to was an Ensign,²¹⁵ but he has not yet been identified.

John Bridge Aspinall was born in 1759, and the earlier years of his life were spent at the old row or block of houses beside the Old Dock, as we have seen. He became without doubt a keen business man, and we have good evidence to show that he did not confine his energies to one line of trade only. His father's business, after his death, was transferred to Park Lane, where it was carried on under the style of "John and James Aspinall, plumbers and glaziers," until 1807. In 1810 a removal took place to Manesty's Lane, and again in 1813 to Henry Street, and there it remained for many years afterwards.²¹⁶ The firm was also engaged in the West Africa trade, for in a "List of Guineamen belonging to the Port of Liverpool which sailed for Africa, from the 5th of January 1798 to the 5th of January 1799, with owners and commanders names, and the complement of slaves allowed to each," we find that the ship Jack Park, Captain John Little, owners

The Mayor of Liverpool in 1801-2 was Peter Whitfield Brammer,²²² who had, it will be remembered, married Hannah, James Aspinwall's eldest daughter. His son Thomas was a lieutenant in "Botton's Invincibles," another local regiment formed in Liverpool about the same period; at a later date he also was a Mayor of Liverpool. "Sir Thomas Brammer, quiet citizen as he now looks, used to wear, to us, a most formidable aspect, when an officer in Botton's Invincibles. Occasionally he would act as adjutant to the regiment, and, if our memory does not fail us at this distance of time, we once saw him . . . ride at a troublesome boy, who would intrude within the lines of sentinels, and leap his horse clear over the head of the terrified man. We also recalled a thirty and an Aspinwall officer in this regiment."²²⁴ The Aspinwall here referred to was an Aspinwall,²²⁵ but he has not yet been identified.

John Bridge Aspinwall was born in 1758, and the earlier years of his life were spent at the old row or block of houses beside the Old Dock, as we have seen. He became without doubt a keen business man, and we have good evidence to show that he did not confine his energies to one line of trade only. His father's business, after his death, was transferred to Park Lane, where it was carried on under the style of "John and James Aspinwall, painters and glaziers," until 1807. In 1810 a removal took place to Manesty's Lane, and again in 1813 to Henry Street, and there it remained for many years afterwards.²²⁶ The firm was also engaged in the West Africa trade, for in a "list of merchants belonging to the Port of Liverpool which sailed for Africa, from the 6th of January 1798 to the 6th of January 1799, with owners and commanders names, and the complement of slaves allowed to each," we find that the ship Jack Park, Captain John Little, owners

Under a charter granted by George II in 1750, a Company of Merchants trading to Africa had been established at Liverpool. A list of the merchants who formed the Company, dated June 24th 1752,²¹⁸ includes no Aspinalls, but a footnote appended to it tells us "There are 135 merchants free of the African Company in London, and 157 in Bristol, whereas their trade to Africa is not so extensive as the Merchants of Liverpool." Another list of later date is headed: "A List of the Company of Merchants trading to Africa (established by an Act of 23 of George II, Cap. 31, entitled 'An Act for Extending & Improving the trade to Africa 1750, for the Port of Liverpool') in 1807."²¹⁹ In this list are included the names John Bridge Aspinall, James Aspinall, William Aspinall, P. W. Brancker, Thomas Brancker, Thomas Earle, William Earle, and many others of the best known Liverpool merchants of this time.

John Bridge Aspinall had been for a number of years a Freeman of Liverpool, and his name appears in the List of Freemen who voted in 1784, with a note, "two votes, Gascoyne & Tarleton."²²⁰ About the beginning of the nineteenth century he became prominent in the affairs and politics of his native city, and in the year in which his brother-in-law was Mayor he was made one of the two Mayor's Bailiffs. About this time he was also a Vice-President of the Union News Room, opened in 1801, a Commissioner of Dock and Light Duties, and a Proprietor of the Liverpool St. George Fire Office.²²¹ In November 1803, when there was an appointment of fifty additional trustees, he was made a Trustee of the Liverpool Blue Coat Hospital, his name appearing third on the list.²²²

In 1804, as recorded in the Municipal Records,²²³ he was made Mayor of Liverpool: "1804, May 21st. John Bridge Aspinall was elected Mayor for the remainder of the Municipal year." The circumstances which resulted in his being made Mayor in the middle of a municipal year are explained by the following paragraph:—

"A trial took place in 1804 to determine the right of Mr. William Harper, who had been elected Mayor, to hold the office. Mr. Harper had, in October 1802, contested the election with Mr. Jonas Bold, and had been defeated. He was then elected by the council one of the bailiffs. In October 1803 he was again proposed for Mayor, and elected without opposition. By the constitution of the borough under the charter of Charles I, the Mayor, when elected, was to be sworn in the presence of his predecessor and of the two bailiffs. In the present instance the Mayor had been chosen from the bailiffs, and therefore he was of necessity sworn in his own presence. No instance of the kind had occurred before. The question was brought before the Court of King's Bench by a writ of quo warranto. On May 11th it was decided by the Court that the defendant was not eligible to the office. A judgement of ouster was thereupon pronounced, and a proclamation made at the exchange for a new election. Mr. J. B. Aspinall was elected for the remainder of the municipal year, and on St. Luke's day Mr. Harper was again installed in the civic chair."²²⁴

After 1804 we find Mr. Aspinall mentioned occasionally as an Alderman or as a Magistrate of Liverpool.²²⁵ In 1815 it is on record that, on May 29th, "the friends and admirers of the political sentiments and conduct of the late Right Hon. Wm. Pitt, sat down to a splendid dinner at Liverpool, in celebration of the anniversary of the birth of that illustrious Statesman; at which J. N. (sic) Aspinall, esq., presided."²²⁶ On the 8th of October 1812 the Tory candidate, General Gascoyne, was nominated by Mr. John Bridge Aspinall, and this occurred on two subsequent occasions, on the 18th of June 1818 and the 8th of March 1820.²²⁷ "Mr. John Bridge Aspinall must have thought better than his son did of General Gascoyne, or he valued Tory principles highly enough to prefer an inferior representative of them to a good man who held them not. At any rate he proved himself a consistent supporter of the Blue candidate. On several occasions his house in Duke Street was used as Gascoyne's headquarters."²²⁸ In connection with these elections we have one instance in which his name appears in a political squib²²⁹ :—

The "glorious cause" was the election of Canning and Gascoyne.²³⁰

quite a quarter of a century.²³¹ “. . . Duke Street, one of the most fashionable streets in the town at that remote period, and for some years afterwards. Here lived Mr. Whitehouse, and Mr. Peter Ellames. A little higher up resided a glorious old soul, Mr., afterwards Sir William Barton, as hearty a true Briton as ever walked on shoe-leather, and who had many experiences to tell of the West Indies. . . . A few doors from Barton lived John Bridge Aspinall, a man much esteemed by all in his day, princely in his hospitalities, and with a heart and hand open to every call of charity.”²³² Amongst other neighbours, at least during some part of his long residence there, were Thomas Lake, W. C. Lake, P. W. Brancker, Colonel Bolton, and his brother William Aspinall.²³³ And amongst his numerous circle of friends, one, the Mr. Blundell of Ince of that day, “presented one of the Mayors of Liverpool, Mr. John Bridge Aspinall, with a portrait of himself, half-length, and an admirable likeness. It hung for many years in the drawing-room of the gentleman in Duke Street. Side by side with it was a splendid painting of Prince William of Gloucester, also a gift from His Royal Highness to Mr. Aspinall. Where they are now we know not.”²³⁴

At Duke Street most, if not all, of his children were probably born. He had married Ann Clarke, as we may learn from a Clarke pedigree which has been published.²³⁵ The pedigree is preceded by an introductory note, and such parts of this as are relevant to our subject are given below, with a portion of the pedigree:—

“The earlier part of the annexed (Clarke) pedigree was compiled from old letters and notes in the possession of my grandmother Isabella Yates (see the P.R., ii, 340), god-daughter of Mrs. Susannah Butler, née Clarke, her mother's first cousin; my grandmother spent most of her time as a girl with her godmother at Kirkland Hall and was the playmate of Mrs. Butler's only son, Thomas Butler, who was about her own age. He was born 11 Nov. 1795, as recorded in an old book, Burkett's 'New Testament,' now at Kirkland Hall, and became heir to his great-uncle, Alexander Butler, of Kirkland Hall and Beaumont Cote on condition that he took the additional name of Cole. This he did on the 16 Dec. 1817, by permission of the Prince Regent. . . . He afterwards married Louisa, daughter of John Grimshaw, of Preston, but died without issue 25 Jany. 1864, having devised his estates in succession to Thomas Butler, son of his late uncle Alexander Butler of the Isle of Man, surgeon, Major Charles Edmund Thornton, son of his cousin William Thomas Thornton, and grandson of his aunt Jane Thornton, Capt. Henry Rose Clarke of Etwall in the County of Derby, son of his uncle, Henry Clarke, and his eldest son, the Revd. Henry Clarke, for their respective lives, with remainder to the Revd. Thomas Foster Clarke, second son of Henry Rose Clarke, and his son in tail male, and failing issue to his own right heirs. . . .

"The dates of the births of the children of John Clarke, of whom Mrs. Butler was one, are taken from entries in the book, Burkett's 'New Testament,' before mentioned, and the death of Thomas Clarke, his eldest son, is recorded in the family bible of the Pickering family of Walton-le-dale, now in my possession. This Thomas Clarke by his will left legacies to his aunt, Mary Pickering, née Barns, and her daughters, Jane, wife of James Forshaw (my grand-mother), and Ellen Pickering, afterwards the wife of Hugh Becconsall of Ashton on Ribble. . . .

"John Bridge Aspinall, by his wife Ann (Nanny) Clarke, had several children. Of the sons, one, the Revd. James Aspinall, M.A., was incumbent of St. Luke's, Liverpool, and wrote Liverpool a Few Years Since, by an Old Stager. He afterwards became Rector of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, where he died; he was the father of John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool, Clarke Aspinall, Coroner of Liverpool, Butler Aspinall, Q.C., and other children. Of the daughters, one, Betty, was the wife of Richard Addison of Liverpool, and from this marriage the Birley family of Bartle Hall and Millbanke Kirkham descends. There is a portrait, half-length, of John Bridge Aspinall, now at Bartle Hall, presented to him when Mayor of Liverpool by Mr. Blundell of Ince of that day; side by side with it is a splendid painting of Prince William Frederick of Gloucester, nephew of George III a gift from his Royal Highness to Mr. Aspinall.

John Bridge Aspinall spent the later years of his life at Bath, and there, on the 3rd of May 1830, he died. In the Liverpool Mercury for the 7th May there appeared the following obituary notice: "On Monday, 3rd inst., at his residence at Bath, John Bridge Aspinall, Esqr., one of the Aldermen of this Borough." The same paper, in its account of the Council Proceedings, states: "The Mayor announced the death of Mr. Alderman Aspinall, and that the vacancy would as a matter of course be filled up at the next Council." Exactly similar notices appeared in the Liverpool Times for May 11th, with the addition, in the editorial column, of: "We are sorry to see announced in our Obituary of this week the death of our highly respected and venerable townsman John Bridge Aspinall, Esqr. This of course causes a vacancy in the Council."

The Bath and Cheltenham Gazette for the 10th May 1830 also contains an obituary notice: "May 3rd, at his house in Green Park Place, John Bridge Aspinall, Esqr., of Clehonger Hall, Cheshire." A similar notice appeared in the Bath Chronicle for the 13th May. It is understood that the only file of this paper is kept at the Royal Pump Room Hotel.

There are, on the walls of Bath Abbey, memorials to the memory of John Bridge Aspinall and his wives. They were presumably all buried at the entrance to the Abbey, for it is there that the tombstone is to be found. The inscriptions are as follows:—

Sacred to the Memory of Nanny, Wife of John Bridge Aspinall Esqre, of Liverpool, who departed this life in Bath, 16th November 1810, aged 50 years.

To Relations kind, to the poor a friend.

She never was, nor made an enemy.

Her afflicted husband caused this monument to be erected.

A portion of a quotation from Brooke's Liverpool 1775 to 1800 has been given above. The quotation continues: "... John Bridge Aspinall, who lived there many years, and afterwards resided in Duke Street, and was a member of the Council. He was elected a member of the Council on the 7th of October 1801, in the room of Mr. William Rowe, and was Mayor of Liverpool in 1803. During a considerable part of his life he was a merchant, but had retired from business, and resided in Cheshire some years before his death. He was much respected, and was a charitable, kindhearted and benevolent man.

"He was a strong Tory (the word Conservative not being then used in a political sense), and was a warm supporter of General Gascoyne, at the Liverpool elections; was accustomed to act as Chairman of the Committee for conducting his elections; and was Chairman of the True-Blue Club, established in 1818, for electioneering purposes.

"Many of the readers must recollect Mr. John Bridge Aspinall presiding at public dinners connected with the elections of General Gascoyne; and when in the chair, on those occasions, wearing in his buttonhole a gold medal of the Pitt Club, of which he was a member, and though no orator, he generally managed to get through the duties of chairman to the satisfaction of the company assembled."

A copy of the will of John Bridge Aspinall, which has been obtained from Somerset House, is given below:—

SIR JOHN MASON ; AND THE MASONS OF HAMPSHIRE.

By V. C. SANBORN, of Kenilworth, Illinois, U.S.A.

Much of value has been printed (largely in the form of desultory notes)¹ concerning this Tudor knight, whom Lloyd called "the greatest lay-statesman that was a scholar, and the greatest lay-scholar that was a statesman."² A sketch of his life appears in that repertory of English worthies, the Dictionary of National Biography. But the problem of his parentage still remains unsolved, and some confusion still exists as to his heirs and collateral descendants.

Anthony a Wood, basing his account on the writings of one Francis Little,³ says that the father of Sir John was a cowherd of Abingdon, and his mother the sister of a monk there. The Dictionary of National Biography accepts this statement, and suggests (perhaps without sufficient consideration) that the "monk of Abingdon" may have been the last Abbot, Thomas Rowland or Pentecost. This Abbot Thomas, whose arms appear in the Visitation of Berkshire in 1532 (he being then the Abbot of Abingdon) was he whom the Visitors, Layton and Leigh, charged with gross immorality, and these charges, though not proven, have been printed in detail by Bale and Speed.⁴ After his abbey was surrendered in 1537, Abbot Thomas retired to Cumnor Place with a yearly pension of £200; and his will of 1540 was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.⁵

This lowly birth is questioned by critics, perhaps because of the arms borne by Sir John⁶—Or, a lion ramp. with two heads Azure, gutté de sang; quartering (1) Quarterly Gules and Argent, a lion rampant counter-changed, (2) Argent, a chevron Gules between three snakes nowed Sable, a crescent for difference. But, whoever was his father, there seems no doubt that Sir John, born in 1503, was a native of Abingdon, for which market town he obtained a charter in 1566, having previously (in 1553) founded Christ's Hospital there of which he was the first Master.

Nor is there any doubt as to his ability. Fellow of All Souls, Oxford, B.A. in 1521, M.A. 1524-5, he became King's Scholar at Paris 1525-31, and was presented to the living of Kyngeston in the diocese of Sarum 13 Feb. 1531-2. Abandoning the Cloth, he became Secretary to Sir Thomas Wyatt in 1537 and took up a diplomatic career. Clerk to the Privy Council in 1542, Dean of Winton in 1549, Envoy to France in 1550, Master of Requests in 1551, Chancellor of Oxford University in 1552, Envoy to Brussels 1553-6, Chancellor of Oxford again in 1559; this list would grace a noble ancestry, and is truly remarkable if his origin were humble.

problem of his parentage still remains unsolved, and some confusion will exist as to his heirs and collateral descendants.

Anthony a Wood, basing his account on the words of one Francis Little, says that the father of Sir John was a canon of Abingdon, and his mother the sister of a monk there. The Dictionary of National Biography accepts this statement, and suggests (perhaps without sufficient consideration) that the "monk of Abingdon" may have been the last Abbot, Thomas Howard or Becketon. This Abbot Thomas, whose name appears in the Visitation of Hampshire in 1533 (he being then the Abbot of Abingdon) was he whom the Visitors, Layton and Leigh, charged with gross immorality, and whose charges, though not proven, have been printed in detail by Hale and Speck. After his abbey was surrendered in 1537, Abbot Thomas retired to Guttery Place with a yearly pension of £100; and his will of 1540 was proved in the Exchequer Court of Canterbury.

This lowly birth is questioned by critics, perhaps because of the name borne by Sir John:—Of a low rank with two heads, I have galled the ears; quivering (1) Quivering I take and I grieve, a lion rampant counter-changed (2) I grieve, a chevron gules between three maces argent fimbrié, a coronet for difference. But whether was his father, there being no doubt that Sir John, born in 1505, was a native of Abingdon, for which market town he obtained a charter in 1560, having purchased in 1553, founded Christ's Hospital there of which he was the first Master.

Not as there may doubt as to his ability. Fellow of All Souls, Oxford, B.A. in 1521, M.A. 1524-5, he became King's Scholar at Eton 1525-31, and was presented to the living of Ryegate in the diocese of Sarum in 1531. Abandoning the Chair, he became Secretary to Sir Thomas Wyatt in 1537 and took up a diplomatic career. He was in the Navy Command in 1542, then of Winton in 1543, then to France in 1544, Master of Hospitals in 1551, Chancellor of Oxford University in 1552, Mayor of London 1553, Chancellor of Oxford again in 1559; in 1562, he was a noble investor, and is truly remarkable if the origin were humble.

Knighted on the accession of Edward VI, Sir John married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Isley, of Sundridge in Kent, and widow of Richard Hill, sergeant of the cellar to Henry VIII, but left no surviving issue. He was one of the Commissioners for Hampshire at the Dissolution, and, besides serving on the Privy Council, he represented Southampton in Parliament from 1554 until his death in April 1566 at the age of 63. He was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, and his will of 1566 was proved in P.C.C. (Stonarde 2).

Anthony Weekes, or Wikes, Fellow of New College, Oxford, from St. Margaret's, London, and admitted B.A. of New College on 16 April 1561, was a nephew of Sir John, being a grandson of Mason's mother by her second marriage.⁷ He took the name of Mason, was adopted by Sir John, and is said to have been his principal heir. Perhaps Weekes represented Salisbury in the Parliament of 1562-3⁸; and he was certainly Clerk of the Parliament in 1574. This latter post he asked permission of Lord Burghley on 14 Feb. 1595 to transfer to Robert Bowyer of the Middle Temple, "being unable to exercise it on account of my infirmities."

He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Isley, of Manns in Bredgar, Kent, and is said to have left a numerous progeny. Apparently his later years were spent in Hampshire, where he was at first tenant of the manor of Elvetham.⁹ In 1571 Dame Elizabeth Mason gave him in exchange for his interest in Elvetham the manor and advowson of Hartley Wintney, five miles north-east of Odiham.⁹

Anthony Weekes also inherited from Sir John Mason the manor of Winchfield¹⁰ in Hants, midway between Odiham and Hartley Wintney. Both of these manors were sold by Anthony's son and heir, John Mason. Hartley Wintney was sold to the eleventh Lord Zouche, circa 1601⁹; and Winchfield was sold in 1591 to James Rudyard, the father of Sir Benjamin Rudyard.¹⁰

⁷ The Dictionary of National Biography refers to a Wikes pedigree in the College of Arms. Philpot I, 81, fo. 17.

⁸ This is not certain, for there was another Anthony Weekes in Salisbury at this time.

The will of Anthonye Weekes of the City of New Sarum, Brewer. Dated 15 Feb. 14 Elizabeth [1572]. "To my nephew Chrofer Weekes, the sonne of my sonne Xpofer Weekes, two tenements in Winchester Street in New Sarum. Proved 27 Apr. 1573. (P.C.C. 14 Peter.)

Knighted on the accession of Edward VI. Sir John married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Isley, of Southdown in Kent, and widow of Richard Hill, sergeant at law to Henry VIII. but left no surviving issue. He was one of the Commissioners for Hampshire at the Dissolution, and, besides serving on the Privy Council, he represented Southampton in Parliament from 1554 until his death in April 1560 at the age of 83. He was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, and his will of 1560 was proved in P.C.C. (Stonards 2).

Anthony Weekes, or Weeks, Fellow of New College, Oxford, from St. Margaret's, London, and admitted B.A. of New College on 16 April 1561, was a nephew of Sir John, being a grandson of Mason's mother by her second marriage. He took the name of Mason, was adopted by Sir John, and is said to have been his principal heir. Perhaps Weekes represented Salisbury in the Parliament of 1563-7⁶, and he was certainly Clerk of the Parliament in 1574. This latter post he asked permission of Lord Burghley on 14 Feb. 1595 to transfer to Robert Boyer of the Middle Temple, "being unable to exercise it on account of my infirmities."

He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Isley, of Mansain Brodgar, Kent, and is said to have left a numerous progeny. Apparently his later years were spent in Hampshire, where he was at last tenant of the manor of Elvetham. In 1571 Dame Elizabeth Mason gave him in exchange for his interest in Elvetham the manor and advowson of Hartley Winney, five miles north-east of Osington.

Anthony Weekes also inherited from Sir John Mason the manor of Windfield¹⁰ in Hants, midway between Osington and Hartley Winney. Both of these manors were sold by Anthony's son and heir, John Mason. Hartley Winney was sold to the eleventh Lord Xochob, c. 1601; and Windfield was sold in 1591 to James Rudyard, the father of Sir Benjamin Rudyard.¹¹

⁷ The Dictionary of National Biography refers to a Weekes position in the College of Arms. Ibid. vol. I. pt. II.

⁸ This is not certain, for there was another Anthony Weekes in Salisbury at this time.

Taken at Basingstoke, co. South. 22 July 5 James I [1607]. Before the death of Anthony Weekes, alias Mason, Esquire, John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife were seized in their demesne as of fee, and in right of the said Elizabeth, of the manor of Hartley Wintney in the co. afsd., and of the site of the priory of Wintney, and of the rectory of Hartley Wintney, and of the advowson of the vicarage there. A fine was levied on the octaves of St. Hilary 2 Elizabeth [20 Jan. 1560] between Ethelbert Burdett, gent., and John Croker, gent., plffs.; and the afsd. John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife, def.; by which the sd. premises including rents &c. in Hartley, Sutton and Winchester, were quitclaimed to the sd. Burdett and Croker, who granted them to the sd. John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife for their lives with reversion to the sd. Elizabeth and her heirs. The sd. John Mason Knight died at Hartley Wintney 9 Elizabeth [1566-7]. Thereafter, by deed dated 14 Sept., 13 Elizabeth [1571], in consⁿ that the sd. Anthony Weekes alias Mason granted all his interest in the manor and Park of Elvetham to her, the sd. Elizabeth sold the reversion of the sd. manor of Hartley Wintney &c. to the sd. Anthony and his heirs. The sd. Anthony, by deed dated 15 May, 32 Elizabeth [1590], granted to his son and heir John Mason the sd. manor of Hartley Wintney &c., to which grant the sd. Elizabeth attorned. The sd. Elizabeth died at Hartley Wintney 10 Feb. 36 Elizabeth [1594]. The sd. Anthony died there 12 July 39 Elizabeth [1597]. The afsd. John Mason, son and heir of the sd. Anthony was aged 31 at the date of his father's death. The sd. manor &c. are held of the King by the tenth part of a Knight's fee, and are worth £5 yearly.

Besides this eldest son John, Anthony Weekes alias Mason had a second son, Thomas Mason, vicar of Odiham in Hants. New England genealogists have an interest in tracing his line.

This Thomas Mason is identified by the Dictionary of National Biography with him who was matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford, 7 Jan. 1594-5.¹² He is said by Anthony a Wood to have been "born of plebeian parents in Hampshire, became a servitor of Magdalen College in 1594, aet. 14, left without a degree, and, through some petit

We may certainly discard 1 and 3 as the Vicar of Odiham, and I incline to believe that 2 was the Rector of North Waltham and Weyhill (vide post).

Anthony Weekes, alias Mason, died at Hartley Winney, 12 July 29 Elizabeth [1597]. An abstract of his Inquisition Post Mortem follows:—

Taken at Basingstoke, co. Southampton, 22 July 3 James I [1607].
Before the death of Anthony Weekes, alias Mason, Esquire, John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife were seized in their demesne as of fee, and in right of the said Elizabeth, of the manor of Hartley Winney in the co. said, and of the site of the priory of Winney, and of the rectory of Hartley Winney, and of the advowson of the vicarage there. A fine was levied on the octave of St. Hilary 2 Elizabeth [30 Jan. 1580] between Elizabeth Burdett, govt. and John Croker, gent. & sirs; and the said John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife del.; by which the said premises including rents &c. in Hartley, Barton and Winchester, were quitclaimed to the said Burdett and Croker, who granted them to the said John Mason, Knight, and Elizabeth his wife for their lives with reversion to the said Elizabeth and her heirs. The said John Mason Knight died at Hartley Winney 9 Elizabeth [1587]. Thereafter, by deed dated 14 Sept. 13 Elizabeth [1571], in conso. that the said Anthony Weekes alias Mason granted all his interest in the manor and Park of Wootton to her, the said Elizabeth, sold the reversion of the said manor of Hartley Winney &c. to the said Anthony and his heirs. The said Anthony by deed dated 15 May, 32 Elizabeth [1590] granted to his son and heir John Mason the said manor of Hartley Winney &c. to which years the said Elizabeth attorney. The said Elizabeth died at Hartley Winney 10 Feb. 38 Elizabeth [1594]. The said Anthony died there 12 July 39 Elizabeth [1597]. The said John Mason, son and heir of the said Anthony was aged 21 at the date of his father's death. The said manor &c. are held of the King by the tenth part of a Knight's fee, and are worth 15 yearly.

Besides this eldest son John Anthony Weekes alias Mason had a second son Thomas Mason, vicar of Othman in Hants. New England genealogists have an interest in tracing his line.
This Thomas Mason is identified by the Dictionary of National Biography with him who was matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford 7 Jan. 1584-5.¹ He is said by Anthony a Wood to have been "born of Jewish parents in Hampshire, became a convert to Christianity in 1594, and left without a degree, and through some poetic

² There were three Thomas Masons at Oxford before 1600: 1. Thomas Mason of St. John's matriculated 1594, "At 44.5. York, aet. 17"; 2. Thomas Mason of Magdalen College, matriculated 1596, "At 44.5. Hants, aet. 14"; 3. Thomas Mason of Lincoln College, matriculated 1615, "At 44.5. York." employments became minister of Odiham in his own county."¹³ At Odiham he was vicar from 1614-9, and probably died circa 1620, for in 1621 his widow Helen obtained a license to republish his abridgment of Fox for the benefit of herself and her children.¹⁴

Thomas Mason was a theological writer of some distinction. His first work was the abridgment of Fox's Martyrs referred to supra. It was published at London in 1615 under the title of Christ's Victory over Sathan's Tyranny, with the sub-title, "Wherein is contayned a Catalogue of all Christ's Faithfull Sovldiers, that the Divell, either by his Grand Captaynes the Emperovrs, or by his most Deerly Beloved Sonnes and Heyres the Popes have most Cruelly Martyred for the Truth." In his preface to this tract, Mason styles himself "Preacher of God's Word in Odiham in the county of Southampton, whose Father was Heire to Sir John Mason, sometime a Privy Councelor to Queen Elizabeth." By the wording of his preface, Mason apparently identifies himself as that Thomas, the second son of Anthony Weekes, alias Mason, who is shown on the Wikes pedigree referred to supra.

Mason's second published tract was A Revelation of the Revelation (London, 1619), concerning which I have no special information.

It is not known who were these children of Thomas Mason, for whose benefit his widow Helen desired to republish the first tract; but one of them was certainly the first wife of the celebrated Richard Dummer of Newbury in New England.

In Aspinwall's Notarial Records, p. 333, appears the certificate, dated in 1650, that Shubael Dummer¹⁵ was "the son and heir of Richard Dummer¹⁶ of Newbury [in New England] by his wife Jane, daughter of Mr Thomas Mason, sometime Minister of Odiham in Hampshire." The name of this first wife of Richard Dummer was unknown to Colonel Chester, who published a monograph on the family of Pyldren, alias Dummer, in 1881.¹⁷

It seems possible that this widow of Thomas Mason, whose name is thus known to have been Helen, may have married for her second husband Stephen Bachiler, that "notorious inconformist" of Wherwell in Hampshire, the founder of Hampton in New England.¹⁸ Bachiler's second wife, who died circa 1644, was named Helen, and her ancestry employment became minister of Otham in his own county." At Otham he was vicar from 1611-3, and probably died c. 1620, for in 1621 his widow Helen obtained a license to republish his obituary of Fox for the benefit of herself and her children."

¹⁵ This was the ill-fated Shubael Dummer, who graduated at Harvard College in 1656, was ordained at York, Maine, in 1672, and was killed by the Indians there in 1692. He left no descendants.

Thomas Mason was a theological writer of some distinction. His first work was the abridgement of Fox's Martyrs related to England. It was published at London in 1616 under the title of Christ's Martyrs and Satan's Tyranny, with the subtitle, "Wherein is contained a Catalogue of all Christ's Faithful Servants, that the World either by his General Synodes, the Emperours, or by his most bloody persecutors and Heresies the Popes have most Cruelly Martyred for the Truth." In his preface to this tract, Mason styles himself "Brother of God's Word in Otham in the county of Southampton, whose Father was Vicar to Sir John Mason, sometime a Privy Counsellor to Queen Elizabeth." By the wording of his preface, Mason apparently identifies himself as that Thomas, the second son of Anthony Mason, often named as that Thomas, who is shown on the Wilson pedigree related to above.

Mason's second published tract was A Declaration of the Association (London, 1619), concerning which I have no special information. It is not known who were these children of Thomas Mason, for whose benefit this widow Helen desired to republish the first tract; but one of them was certainly the first wife of the celebrated Richard Bannister of Newbury in New England.

In Aspinwall's New-england Records, p. 323, appears the following, dated in 1630, that Richard Bannister was "the son and heir of Richard Bannister" of Newbury (in New England) by his wife Jane, daughter of Mr. Thomas Mason, sometime Minister of Otham in Hampshire. The name of this first wife of Richard Bannister was unknown to Colonel Chester, who published a monograph on the family of Bannister in 1881.

It seems possible that this widow of Thomas Mason, whose name is thus known to have been Helen, may have married for her second husband Stephen Bachiler, that "notorious impostor" of Wiltshire in Hampshire, the founder of Hampton in New England. Bachiler's second wife, who died c. 1641, was named Helen, and her ancestry and family history have never been traced. A relationship certainly existed between Richard Dummer and the Bachilers, for in writing to the grandson of Stephen Bachiler in 1673 Dummer addressed him as "my Cossen nathaniel bachelor of Hampton."¹⁹

Besides these Masons, and in addition to the well-known Captain John Mason,²⁰ there were several of the name in Hampshire, whom I do not connect with the line of Sir John.

RICHARD MASON, of Sydmonton, who bore the two-headed lion in his coat, and whose daughter and heir Joan married Thomas Wither of Manydown.²¹

ROBERT MASON (1571-1635), of Lincoln's Inn. Steward of the Hundred of Basingstoke, Chancellor of the Diocese of Winchester, and Recorder of London.²² Said by the Dictionary of National Biography to have been a native of Shropshire, but identified by C. W. Both Robert Mason and his son were buried in Winchester Cathedral. The arms on the tomb of his son's wife are those of the Shropshire Masons: (Or.) a lion with two heads (Azure).²⁴

Perhaps these notes will lead some fellow genealogist to elucidate still further the Mason pedigree. It is worth mentioning that in his will Sir John Mason refers to certain deeds of his dated 20 Dec. 1558, disposing of his lands. These deeds may be enrolled on the Close Rolls, and it is perhaps because of them that no Inquisition is found for Sir John.

¹ Jean Darassus bore his part in a synod convoked, with the Duke of Savoy's permission, by Lord Galway in 1694 at Vigliano to provide for the better regulation of the morals of the army. It consisted of seven ministers and twenty-four elders, Lord Galway sitting as one of the latter. Of the seven all but one were Army Chaplains. M. Durant, who acted as Moderator, was chaplain to the régiment d'Aubussargues, four others being the chaplains of the régiments of de Loches (Biossets), de l'Isle Marais, de Vioçose, and de Montauban.

The Colonel of the first-named regiment, Jacob de Vergeze Seigneur de Daubussargues, who died in 1721 a Major-General in H.B.M. army, had, it may be noted, a mixed record of military services. He had in the first instance withdrawn to Brandenburg, and there received the command of a Company of the Grands Mousquetaires.

In the will of Jean Darassus we find a curious record of two abortive wills—one intended to be operative in his own favour, and the other in that of his eldest son. Anthony Darassus had devised to him, by a will made in London on 16 Sept. 1698, the land he possessed at Montauban. And by will, dated at Dublin 24 Dec. 1697, Colonel de Romagnac had devised his fief of Romagnac, etc., to Charles Peter Darassus, who was to take his grandfather's name.

² Colonel de Romagnac was in the Huguenot Cavalry regiment raised by the Duke of Schomberg in 1689—known, after his death in 1690, as Ruvigny's Horse. We find a blunder, not unnatural under the circumstances, in an useful little work entitled Les Montaubanais et le Refuge, where at p. 496 he is described as, in 1689, "assistant . . . à Greenwich dans le Comté de Kent à l'enterrement de duc de Schomberg." It seems that he must have attended the funeral of Lord Galway's father, the old Marquis de Ruvigny, who settled at Greenwich and there died in July 1689, though the actual interment found place in the French Savoy Church. With Lord Galway he was probably on intimate terms, since two of his grandchildren, John and Henrietta Darassus, appear in the Earl's will of 1730 as legatees each of £100.

⁶ Mary Terson, of Dublin, spinster, in her will of 1765 (P.C.C. 11-2, Rushworth) among many small legacies leaves £100 to Elizabeth Darassus, as her cousin.

A GENEALOGICAL AND HERALDIC HISTORY OF THE PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE. By [the late] Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster King of Arms, and Ashworth P. Burke. Seventy-ninth Edition, 1917. London (Harrison & Sons).

This edition of Burke's Peerage is fully up to the high standard of former years and great credit is due to the Editor for the accuracy of its details in a year which beyond all others must have taxed his powers to the utmost. "The huge and ever-increasing flow of honours" is, he tells us in the Preface, one cause of the delay in the issue of the work, and it is indeed surprising that it should have appeared so soon considering the enormous mass of facts which have had to be noted, including, alas! the deaths of many of Britain's noblest sons on the battlefield. Advantage has been taken of this enforced delay to add many particulars which would otherwise have had to be left over until another year, including some of the new honours conferred last January, and the deaths of the Dukes of Atholl and Norfolk. The marriages have not been quite so carefully kept up to date; for instance, that of Lord Loughborough which took place as long ago as 1915 is not to be found either in the body of the work or in the Addenda. The Knightage and Companionship contains the names of knights and companions of every order and members of the Privy Council with a full account of their services, but the separate lists of the orders of knighthood with the illustrations of their insignia, so familiar to readers of Burke, have been omitted this year, as also the names of holders of the Victoria Cross.

A GENERAL HISTORY OF THE HISTORY OF THE PEASANT AND HANDBOOK, BY [the late] Sir Bernard Burke, Ulster King of Arms, and Ashworth P. Burke. Seventy-ninth Edition, 1917. London (Harrison & Sons).

This edition of Burke's Peasants is fully up to the high standard of former years and great credit is due to the Editor for the accuracy of its details in a year which beyond all others must have taxed his powers to the utmost. "The huge and ever-increasing flow of honours," as he tells us in the Preface, one cause of the delay in the issue of the work, and it is indeed surprising that it should have appeared so soon, considering the enormous mass of facts which have had to be noted, including also the deaths of many of Britain's noblest sons on the battlefield. Advantage has been taken of this enforced delay to add many particulars which would otherwise have had to be left over until another year, including some of the new honours conferred last January, and the deaths of the Duke of Atholl and Norfolk. The mistakes have not been quite so carefully kept up to date; for instance, that of Lord Loughborough which took place as long ago as 1915 is not to be found either in the body of the work or in the Addenda. The Knights and Companions contains the names of knights and companions of every order and members of the Privy Council with a full account of their services, but the separate lists of the orders of knighthood with the institutions of their chapters, so familiar to readers of Burke, have been omitted this year, as also the names of holders of the Victoria Cross.

The size of this already bulky volume would have had with further to be increased had it not been for the fact that one of the sixteen new peers (excluding of promotions) and thirty-two baronets who have received their honours since the last edition, the lineage of eight peers and twenty baronets is not recorded for more than two generations.

In our notice of last year's volume we ventured to call attention to the lavish way in which Baronies by Writ have recently been called out of abeyance. Since then no less than five additions to the Peerage have been made in this way; all these Baronies have passed through five or six families in the female line, and one of them, that of Strabolgi, through nine, namely Percy, Burgh, Brooke, Boothby, Thorp, Disney, Lund, Leatham and Kenworthy. It is an instance of the arbitrary methods adopted by the advisers of the Crown in these matters that though the Baronies of Cobham, Strabolgi and Burgh all vested in the co-heirs of Mary Thorp of Nottingham, who married Gervase Disney and died in 1789, her senior co-heir has received the Barony of Burgh, which dates only from 1529, though the two other dignities awarded to the junior co-heirs have a precedence of two hundred years earlier. One awkward result of the termination of these abeyances is the duplication of titles which it involves; there are now two Lords Cobham, and two Lords Dudley, to say nothing of Lord De Lisle and Dudley. There are at the present time no less than thirty-nine of these Baronies by Writ, nine of them being merged in higher titles.

Two dormant Scottish Baronetcies have been added to the Roll during last year, Dunbar of Baldoon, and Sharp, now Sharp-Bethune. The account given of the last-named title hardly does justice to the romantic circumstances which for two generations caused it to be regarded as extinct, and which were fully narrated in the public press quite recently.

The baronetcy of Filmer has since the last edition become extinct or dormant, and as a male heir to this ancient family may yet be discovered, it is a pity that the lineage has been omitted, so that to trace out the line of a possible claimant it is necessary to refer to last year's volume.

Another interesting event that has taken place during last year is the restoration to the Earldom of Berkeley of the historic Berkeley Castle, which had been separated from it since the death of the fifth earl in 1810, all the male descendants of that earl by Mary Cole, whose marriage gave rise to the celebrated Berkeley Peerage Case, having now become extinct by the death of the late Lord Fitzhardinge.

The Marquisate of Clanricarde has become extinct, and the House of Lords is the poorer by the deaths of four of its most distinguished members, Earl Kitchener, the Duke of Norfolk, Earl St. Aldwyn, and the Earl of Cromer, the tragic fate of the first-named having greatly added to the grief of his fellow-countrymen for his irreparable loss.

DERBYSHIRE PARISH REGISTERS. MARRIAGES. Vol. xiv. Edited by Thomas M. Blagg, F.S.A., and I.L. Loyd Simpson. London (Phillimore & Co., Ltd., 120, Chancery Lane).

The Marriages celebrated at six Derbyshire parishes are included in this volume, Longford, Etwall, Denby, Shirland, Stanley, South received their honours since the last edition, the lineage of eight peers and twenty barons is not recorded for more than two generations.

In our notice of last year's volume we ventured to call attention to the lavish way in which Baronies by Writ have recently been called out of obscurity. Since then no less than five additions to the Peerage have been made in this way: all these Baronies have passed through five or six families in the last half and one of them, that of Strathclyde, through nine, namely Torcy, Bampf, Brooke, Boothby, Throp, Hensley, Lamb, Posthum and Kenworthy. It is an instance of the arbitrary methods adopted by the advisers of the Crown in these matters that through the Barons of Cobham, Strathclyde and Bampf all vested in the co-heirs of Mary Throp of Nottingham, who married Gertrude Hensley and died in 1789, her senior co-heir has received the Barony of Bampf, which dates only from 1529, though the two other dignities awarded to the junior co-heirs have a precedence of two hundred years earlier. One awkward result of the termination of these baronies is the duplication of titles which it involves; there are now two Lords Cobham, and two Lords Bampf, to say nothing of Lord de Lisle and Bampf. There are at the present time no less than thirty-nine of these Baronies by Writ, nine of them being merged in higher titles.

Two dominant Scottish Baronies have been added to the Roll during last year, Dunbar of Halldoun, and Sharp, now Sharp-Bartholomew. The names given of the last-named title hardly does justice to the romantic circumstances which for two generations earned it to be regarded as extinct, and which were fully narrated in the public press quite recently.

The barony of Bampf has since the last edition become extinct or dormant, and as a whole but to this ancient family may yet be discovered it is a pity that the lineage has been omitted, so that to trace one line of a possible claimant it is necessary to refer to last year's volume.

Another interesting event that has taken place during last year is the restoration to the Roll of the Barony of the historic Berkeley Castle, which had been separated from it since the death of the fifth Earl in 1810. All the male descendants of that Earl by Mary Cole, whose mortgage gave rise to the celebrated Berkeley House Case, having now become extinct by the death of the late Lord Fitzhardinge.

The barony of Fitzhardinge has become extinct, and the House of Lords is the poorer by the death of one of its most distinguished members, Earl Fitzhardinge, the Duke of Norfolk, Earl St. Albans, and the Earl of Gwent, the tragic fate of the first-named having greatly added to the grief of his fellow-countrymen for his irreparable loss.

TRANSYLVANIAN PARISH REGISTERS. MANRATON. Vol. xiv. Edited by Thomas M. Bagg, F.S.A., and J. Lloyd Simpson. London (Pulford & Co., Ltd., 120, Chancery Lane).

The Manraton registers, extending to six Transylvanian parishes are included in this volume, Longford, Ewell, Denby, Stinchard, Stanley, South

Wingfield and Pentrich. A new departure is made in that the particulars given in the headnotes are more exact, having been drawn up on an admirably arranged plan in accordance with instructions from Mr. Blagg, the general Editor of the Series. The number and size of the leaves in the earlier parchment registers are given; the dates covered by Baptisms and Burials as well as Marriages are stated and all missing periods carefully noted. The hamlets, chapelries or townships within each parish are also named. Information is thus provided which will serve as a guide to genealogists, and help to identify any portion of the registers which may in the future be lost. At South Wingfield and Pentrich a selection of the more important Baptisms and Burials is added, and the Protestation Oath Rolls of 1641, which have been preserved in the registers of both these parishes, are given in an Appendix.

The Marriage entries have in all cases been quite rightly printed to 1837, the year of the commencement of civil registration, but the earlier portion of all these six registers is far more interesting from an historical point of view than the later period, as many of the ancient Derbyshire families seem to have disappeared in course of time from the district. At Etwall took place several marriages of the Cottons of Bellaport, co. Salop, who acquired Etwall Hall at the close of the seventeenth century by marriage with the heiress of the family of Sleigh. In the headnote to the Denby marriages there are some notes on John Flamsteed, the first Astronomer Royal, who was born there 19 August 1646, though the entry of his baptism is unfortunately missing.

LINCOLNSHIRE PARISH REGISTERS. MARRIAGES. INDEX TO VOLS.

I-VI. Compiled by the Rev. Reginald C. Dudding. London (Phillimore & Co., Ltd., 124, Chancery Lane).

It will be remembered that last year the laborious but very necessary task of indexing the Marriages in Phillimore's Parish Register Series was commenced by an Index to some of the volumes relating to Cornwall. That now issued contains over sixty thousand names and refers to thirty-two Lincolnshire parishes. The issuing of these Indexes removes the only real objection which has been urged against the scheme set on foot by the late Mr. Phillimore and carried on with so much energy by his successor Mr. Blagg. The Rector of Saleby, by whom this Index has been compiled, has added an Introduction dealing chiefly with the derivation of Lincolnshire patronymics. This is full of interest, though we cannot always agree with some of the derivations, e.g., Basker from the Danish "baske, to slap," and Beal from "belia, to bellow." Of the forty-six names selected from Guppy's list of surnames of practically exclusive Lincolnshire origin, many are common in other and far off counties. In the abbreviations "An." is used for Annis as well as for Ann, but Annis is not a variant of Ann.

A useful Index of Places has been added at the end of the volume.

Wingfield and Poutch. A new departure is made in that the particulars given in the booklets are more exact, having been drawn up on an admirably arranged plan in accordance with instructions from Mr. Hogg, the general editor of the series. The number and size of the leaves in the various parchment registers are given; the dates covered by Baptisms and Burials as well as Marriages are stated and all missing periods carefully noted. The parishes, chapels or townships within each parish are also named. Information is thus provided which will serve as a guide to genealogists, and help to identify any portion of the registers which may in the future be lost. At South Wingfield and Poutch a selection of the more important Baptisms and Burials is added, and the Protestant Oath Book of 1641, which have been preserved in the registers of both these parishes, are given in an Appendix.

The Marriage entries have in all cases been quite rightly printed to 1837, the year of the commencement of civil registration, but the earlier portion of all these six registers is far more interesting from an historical point of view than the later period, as many of the ancient Dorsetshire families seem to have disappeared in course of time from the district. At Blandford place several marriages of the 15th and 16th centuries are noted, who occupied Blandford Hall at the close of the seventeenth century by marriage with the heiress of the family of Slough. In the booklets to the family marriages there are some notes on John Blount, the first Astronomer Royal, who was born there 19 August 1561, though the entry of his baptism is unfortunately missing.

Lancashire Parish Registers. Marriages. Index to Vols.
1-71. Compiled by the Rev. Richard G. Budd. London
(Pillinger & Co., Ltd., 125, Chancery Lane).

It will be remembered that last year the laborious but very necessary task of indexing the Marriages in Pillinger's Parish Register Series was commenced by an index to some of the volumes relating to Cornwall.
That now issued contains over sixty thousand names and refers to thirty-two Lancashire parishes. The issuing of these indexes involves the only real objection which has been urged against the scheme set on foot by the late Mr. Pillinger, and carried on with so much energy by his successor Mr. Hogg. The Index of Slough, by whom this index has been compiled, has added an introduction dealing chiefly with the derivation of Lancashire place-names. This is full of interest, though we cannot always agree with some of the derivations, e.g., "Baker" from the Danish "bakke to ship," and "Bent" from "belle to follow."
Of the forty-six names selected from Guppy's list of surnames of practically exclusive Lancashire origin, many are common in other and far off countries. In the abbreviations "Ab." is used for Anne as well as for Ann, but Ann is not a variant of Ann.
A useful Index of Places has been added at the end of the volume.

His widow published in 1898 his notes on "The Whartons of Wharton Hall" (Oxford University Press, published by Henry Frowde, London), and on page 15 gives a list of the MSS. he compiled of the various families of the name that he met with in his researches, which are as follows:—

CALENDAR OF LAMBETH WILLS.

During the removal of the Probate Registry from Doctors' Commons to Somerset House in August 1874, it was necessary to close, for two or three days, the Department for Literary-Enquiry of which I then had charge, so, with the permission of the Archbishop, I occupied that interval in making a transcript of the official index to the Wills and Administrations at Lambeth. Dr. Marshall reproduced my copy in The Genealogist, but I realized subsequently that this index was very inaccurate and inadequate, and have therefore prepared a revised edition of it.¹

It is difficult to say what jurisdiction the series represents. There are grants which were made in the "Peculiar" Courts (such as the Deanery of Bocking²), others of which probate issued from the Court of Audience² or during Visitations.³ A preamble at fo. 21 Arundel ii implies that the wills which follow it had been proved before the Commissary of the Prior and Chapter of Canterbury upon whom the Archbishop's jurisdiction was wont to devolve during a voidance of the Metropolitan See. There are, again, wills of several persons who fell in the war with France, temp. Henry V. Such wills may be associated with an "Immediate Jurisdiction" which the archbishop exercised in "the Parts of Calais." But the majority of the series were incidental to "sede vacante" business and represented the testamentary authority of the archbishops consequent upon vacancies of suffragan sees within the province.

Inasmuch as there must have been, at any rate for a time, a registry common to the various Courts within the archbishops' control, it is not quite impossible that there are P.C.C. wills amongst those at Lambeth. Clearly the transcripts of some of the earliest P.C.C. wills remained for a time in unbound quires and in the introduction to the index⁴ I have described the careless manner in which the quires or leaves were mis-sorted when they were put together to form the bound register "Rous." I also pointed out that the volume undoubtedly contains two leaves of the Lambeth register "Courtenay," in which there is a hiatus at the period. On further examination I have come to the conclusion that "Rous" embodies a good deal more of book "Courtenay." Again, register "Blamyr" (P.C.C.) has quires that pertain to register "Deane" (Lambeth),⁵ and P.C.C. registers

CALENDAR OF JAMBERT WILLS

During the removal of the Probate Registry from Doctors' Commons to Somerset House in August 1874, it was necessary to close for two or three days the Department for Literary Property of which I then had charge, so, with the permission of the Archbishop, I occupied that interval in making a transcript of the official index to the Wills and Administrations at Lambeth. Mr. Marshall requested my copy in the Genealogist, but I realised subsequently that this index was very inaccurate and incomplete, and have therefore prepared a revised edition of it.¹

It is difficult to say what jurisdiction the series represents. There are grants which were made in the "Prelate's" Court (such as the Inventory of Bookings), others of which probate issued from the Court of Audience² or during Visitation³. A preliminary to fo. 51 A reads it implies that the will which follows it had been proved before the Commissary of the Prior and Chapter of Canterbury upon whom the Archbishop's jurisdiction was wont to devolve during a vacancy of the Metropolitan See. There are again wills of several persons who fell in the war with France, temp. Henry V. Such wills may be associated with an "Immediate Jurisdiction" which the archbishop exercised in "the Parts of Calais". But the majority of the series were incidental to "several vacant" business and represented the testamentary authority of the archbishops consequent upon vacancies of archiepiscopal sees within the province.

Inasmuch as there must have been, at any rate for a time, a registry common to the various Courts within the archbishop's control, it is not quite impossible that there are P.C.G. wills amongst those at Lambeth. Clearly the transcripts of some of the earliest P.C.G. wills remained for a time in unbound quires and in the introduction to the index⁴ I have described the careless manner in which the quires or leaves were disordered when they were put together to form the bound register "Rome". I also pointed out that the volume undoubtedly contains two leaves of the Lambeth register "Canterbury". On further examination in which there is a hiatus at the period. On further examination I have come to the conclusion that "Rome" embodies a good deal more of book "Canterbury". Again, register "Blaisy" (P.C.G.) has quires that pertain to register "Berno" (Lambeth)⁵ and P.C.G. registers

"Logge" and "Thower" also seem to include wills that should be with the Lambeth series.⁶ Conversely there may be P.C.C. wills enrolled in the Lambeth registers.

The supposition that a portion of book "Rous" belongs properly to register "Courtenay" is borne out by what one finds in regard to the wills of bishops previous to c. 1465. Such wills—there are about seventy of them—were registered systematically in the Lambeth books; the only exception to the rule is that three bishops' wills (c. 1395) are entered in that part of book "Rous" which I imagine to belong to book "Courtenay."

From c. 1465 the wills of bishops are registered in the P.C.C., none at Lambeth. Wills of earlier archbishops down to the time of "Deane" are in the records of the Prior and Chapter of Canterbury, but the will of Cardinal Morton and that of Abp. Deane are to be found likewise in the P.C.C. series in which Court the wills of succeeding archbishops are recorded. The Kent Archaeological Society, Record Series, vol. iii, has printed some of the wills of the earlier primates and, in the same volume, an index to all the wills in the books of the Prior and Chapter of Canterbury.

On the assumption that an unfortunate mistake will be rectified, I have included in this index references to the wills in register "post mortem Poli." Within recent years this volume has been transferred from its proper and convenient custody at Lambeth to the comparatively inaccessible registry of the Dean and Chapter at Canterbury (where it is now known as the algebraic quantity " U^2 "). The fact that the contents of this book relate to the province, and not merely the diocese, of Canterbury must have been overlooked.

It is hardly possible to exaggerate the manifold interest and value of the wills in this Lambeth series; a large number of them would justify verbatim printing.

The value of the privilege bestowed upon the community by the Archbishop in allowing unrestricted access to his records is much enhanced by the patient kindness and wide knowledge of his Librarian, the Rev. Claude Jenkins, F.S.A.

EXTRACTS FROM DUNTROON PAPERS.

(FIRST BUNDLE.)

I have occupied a portion of a period of leave from my military duties at the Front in going through and making extracts from some original documents connected with Duntroon, which recently came into my possession, and as these may be of interest I offer the extracts herewith. I have only to add that they chiefly concern the time when Duntroon was passing out of the hands of its original possessors into those of the Campbells of Oib (see The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxviii, p. 27). For purposes of future reference I shall call these documents "Duntroon Papers."

HERBERT CAMPBELL.

On 28 Sept. 1668 the Earl directed John Glas in Kilmahon in Glasgow to give him assign, reserving Dunteron's right of redemption. The debt (with interest) now amounts to £300 marks, which Neil G., late Provost of Inverary, has paid to the debtor; and the latter now passes the assign to him, undertaking to indemnify him in the lands in breach of term for a redemption of 14 years. Some thieves had been arrested and sent to the laird of Duntroon by the Justices of Kintyre, one of whom was a servant of John McAlester (?), "my brother in law." The thief's name was John McCallum. Lamont pleads that he may be released on bail on the ground that "there is a little boy, one Duncan McCallum, yet under age," who was tortured "contrary to all law and humanity" and therefore has suffered very much already.⁴

⁸ She was the widow of Niall Campbell, who was laird of Duntroon in 1648 (see The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxvii, p. 199).

Signed 10 April 1894 before John Spens, scrivener to the said Ronald Campbell, Alexander C., writer in Edinburgh (who drew up the receipt), and Donald Cameron, messenger there.

42. Homing and Forbearing (with inhibition) at the instance of John Campbell, eldest lawful son of Donald C., cousin german to Nath C. of Duntoon, against Patrick C., now of Duntoon, as cautioner for the said Nath, on a bond for 8,000 marks, dated 8 Nov. 1893 (Patrick then being bar of this). There is mention of Mary McNeill, sister of the said Nath C., undaunted of Duntoon and now spouse of Archibald Campbell of Inverawe, and of Barbara Erskine, spouse of the said Nath. Dated 30 March 1894.

43. Caption at the instance of John Campbell, eldest lawful son of Donald C., who was cousin german of deceased Nath C. of Duntoon, against Patrick C., formerly bar of the now of Duntoon. Dated 6 May 1897.

44. Disposition by Angus Campbell of Fife, heritable proprietor of the lands concerned, with advice and consent of Sir Duncan C. of Auchinbreck and James C., his son, late thereof, Separators of the said lands, for the love and affection borne by the said Angus to John C., surgeon in Greenock, and also "for the well, utility and profit and better

* Such a sum would be as token with a gear relative of what we may describe as a kind of the second marriage. We can only suppose that the father was Patrick's younger brother and that he had married a daughter or sister of Nath McNeill.

† The signature of this John is quite different from the numerous specimens we have of the signature of John Campbell in Aberdeen (see Nos. 19, 20 and 21 above). It is possible, however, that the John may be identical with the surgeon in Greenock, who occurs here.

* She was the widow of Nath Campbell, who was laid of Duntoon in 1842 (see The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxvii, p. 199).

standing of my family in the person⁹ of the said John Campbell," of the 4 merk land of Daltot in Knapdale, to the said John and his heirs male lawfully to be procreated of his body, which failing, to Angus' own heirs male "mentioned in my originall rights and infettments." The liferent use of the lands are reserved to Angus and his wife, Helen Campbell, and John is burdened with the payment of 900 merks to Angus' eldest daughter, Mary C., immediately after her marriage, and of 300 merks to his youngest daughter, Elizabeth C. It is also stipulated that, if any heir male is born to Angus by this or any subsequent marriage, John is to surrender the lands. Dated at Kilmichael, in Glassary, 1 Oct. 1697. Witnesses: John C. of Knap, John C., brother german to Alexander C. of Kirnan, James Pollock in Kilmichael, Gavin Stenhouse, writer in Edinburgh, and Archibald Walker, son of Donald Walker in Inveraray, who drew up the deed. Auchinbreck and his son sign at Kilmichael on 6 Oct. before Archibald Mac-lachlan of Craiginterrive, Archibald Mac-lachlan of Kilonuchanach, Alan Mac-lachlan of Dunad, Archibald Campbell of Danna and Angus Mac-lachlan of Barnagade. . . . (?)

45. Discharge by John Campbell, surgeon in Greenock, for £146 13s. 4d., annualrent on 4,000 merks due him by Patrick C. of Duntroon. Dated at Slockmhullein, 11 Nov. 1699.

46. Tack for 11 years of the 2 merk lands of Crinan and 1 merk land of the 3 merk lands of Tilliger "being the Griananmoni," with all the land of Tilliger south of the burn of Innermore and the two isles known as Glaish-isle and Scairghirr, all in the parish of Kilmartin, by Patrick Campbell of Duntroon to John C., surgeon in Greenock. There is mention of a bond by Patrick to John for 4,000 merks (with annualrent of 240 merks) secured upon the island of Ellanmackasken, dated 26 June 1697; also of a sum of 500 merks lent by John to Patrick at Martinmas 1709. The total annualrent on these debts is 270 merks, and it is agreed that John shall retain that sum yearly out of the rent due by him for the tack. The exact rent is not stated, but it was probably 270 merks—though the wording is very loose. The tack-deed was written by Alexander Campbell of the University of Glasgow, and was signed at Duntroon 28 June 1710 before Mr. Patrick Pollock student of theology at Duntroon, John Wedderspoon, "glazenwright," at Glasgow, and the said Alexander C.

47. Disposition by Lt.-Col. Alexander Campbell of Finab to Patrick C. of Duntroon (for payment of £1,060) of an apprising obtained on 27 March 1666 by deceased William Anderson, elder portioner of Newtown, and John, James and George Anderson, his sons, against deceased Patrick and John Campbell of Duntroon, John McNeill of Taynish, Archibald Mac-lachlan of Craiginterrive and James Campbell of Kilmun.

⁹ This somewhat conflicts with what is suggested in The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxviii, pp. 201 and 202. It is clear that Lergnachunzeon acquired Daltot somehow; but I now suspect that the precept obtained by him from Auchinbreck in 1697 was in respect of a wadset. In any case, the surgeon must have been a very near relative (in the male line) to the laird of Daltot. I find he was a cousin of Duntroon: see Argyll Sheriff Court Books, vol. x, reg. 6 March 1734.

standing of my family in the person" of the said John Campbell," of the 4 merk land of Duntroon in Knapdale, to the said John and his heirs male lawfully to be possessed of his body, which failing to Angus, own heirs male "mentioned in my original rights and indentments." The silent use of the lands are reserved to Angus and his wife, Helen Campbell, and John is burdened with the payment of 300 merks to Angus' eldest daughter, Mary C., immediately after her marriage, and of 300 merks to his youngest daughter, Elizabeth C. It is also stipulated that, if any heir male is born to Angus by this or any subsequent marriage, John is to surrender the lands. Dated at Kilmichael, in Glasgow, 1 Oct. 1687. Witnesses: John C. of Knap, John C. of Knap, brother german to Alexander C. of Knap, James Pollock in Kilmichael, Gavin Stenhouse, writer in Kilmichael, and Archibald Walker, son of Donald Walker in Inveraray, who drew up the deed. Auchinbrock and his son sign at Kilmichael on 8 Oct. before Archibald Macleachan of Craigintrevor, Archibald Macleachan of Kilmichael, Alan Macleachan of Duntroon, Archibald Campbell of Duntroon and Angus Macleachan of Bannagachan. . . . (3)

45. Discharge by John Campbell, surgeon in Greenock, for 1140 13s. 4d., annuities on 4,000 merks due him by Patrick C. of Duntroon. Dated at Stockholm, 11 Nov. 1699.

46. Tack for 11 years of the 2 merk lands of Ginnan and 1 merk land of the 3 merk lands of Thigge, "being the Ginnanman," with all the land of Thigge south of the burn of Innesmore and the two lakes known as Glashale and Sautgill, all in the parish of Kilmartin, by Patrick Campbell of Duntroon to John C., surgeon in Greenock. There is mention of a bond by Patrick to John for 4,000 merks (with annuities of 340 merks) secured upon the island of Ellanmashagan, dated 28 June 1687; also of a sum of 500 merks lent by John to Patrick at Martinmas 1705. The total annuities on these debts is 370 merks, and it is agreed that John shall retain that sum yearly out of the rent due by him for the tack. The exact rent is not stated, but it was probably 370 merks—though the wording is very loose. The tack- deed was written by Alexander Campbell of the University of Glasgow, and was signed at Duntroon 28 June 1710 before Mr. Patrick Pollock, student of theology at Duntroon, John Wedderburn, "glasgowwright," at Glasgow, and the said Alexander C.

47. Disposition by J.C. Col. Alexander Campbell of Fife to Patrick C. of Duntroon (for payment of £1,000) of an apportion obtained on 27 March 1668 by deceased William Anderson, elder partner of New- town, and John James and George Anderson, his sons, against deceased Patrick and John Campbell of Duntroon, John McNeill of Tynish, Archibald Macleachan of Craigintrevor and James Campbell of Kilmun.

* This somewhat conflict with what is suggested in The Genealogist, N.B., vol. xxviii, pp. 201 and 202. It is clear that James Macleachan acquired Duntroon, but I now suspect that the group obtained by him from Auchinbrock in 1697 was in respect a widow. In any case, the annuities have been a very great relief to the estate (in the land of Duntroon). I had in a copy of Duntroon, see Argyll Sheriff Court books, vol. x, reg. 8 March 1734.

The disponee gives a bond for the amount, his cautioners being Alexander C. of Kilmartin and Dugald C. of Nether Rudill. The deed is written by Archibald Walker in Inveraray and is signed there on 17 August 1710 before Mr. James Campbell of Stonefield, Sheriff Depute of Argyll, Mr. Alexander Campbell, advocate, Archibald C., writer in Inveraray, and the said Archibald Walker.

48. Receipt by John Campbell, surgeon in Greenock, for the annual-rent on 4,500 merks from Martinmas 1709 to Martinmas 1710, due by Patrick Campbell of Duntroon. Dated at Duntroon 19 May 1711.

49. Decreet obtained by Niall Campbell of Duntroon against Ann Campbell, relict of Niall McNeill of Arichonan, and (blank) McNeill, now of Arichonan, his eldest son and heir, on account of various small debts. Issued at Edinburgh 7 Feb. 1781.

50. A collection of letters and receipts, dated between 1798 and 1804, concerning the estate of Oib, owned by Captain James Campbell and later by Captain Niall Campbell. The letters are mostly from the factor of Oib (John Campbell, schoolmaster at Kilmartin) to John Campbell, W.S., St. James' Square, Edinburgh, and are written from Prospect (or Prospect Hill), the postmark showing Lochgilphead. Some are written by the factor from Barslischach. A few facts may be gleaned from them as follows:—

(a) On 19 Feb. 1801 the McTavish family had got back the estate of Dunardery.

(b) On 25 Dec. 1799 the factor acknowledges receipt of the news of the "death of Capt"—(name omitted, but he must have meant James Campbell, as he talks of the succession of the new owner)—"who fell in the action the 2d. Sept'r." On 29 Feb. 1800 he writes that "it pleased the Almighty to call Capt. James off this stage."

(c) The estate is sometimes called "Oib Campbell." Laggan had previously been joined to it, but had been sold shortly before the correspondence begins. The schoolmaster had been factor of both places.

(d) On 18 April 1801 the factor has heard that Capt. Niall C. proposes to sell Oib.

(e) On 5 March 1803 there is mention of Mr. John Campbell at Ashfield,¹⁰ who is later called "of Ashfield."

51. Minute of Arbitration, at Gairoib, 17 Jan. 1800, by Mr. John Campbell, tacksman of Ashfield,¹⁰ and Duncan McBrayne, tacksman of Barnakill, to assess the losses suffered by the tenants in Gairoib.

The discharge gives a bond for the amount, the cautioners being Alexander C. of Kilmartin and Donald C. of Wester Kilduff. The deed is written by Archibald Walker in Inventory and is signed there on 17 August 1710 before Mr. James Campbell of Stonefield, Sheriff Depute of Ayr, Mr. Alexander Campbell, advocate, Archibald C. writer in Inventory, and the said Archibald Walker.

48. Receipt by John Campbell, surgeon in Greenock, for the annual rent on 4,500 merks from Martinmas 1708 to Martinmas 1710, due by Patrick Campbell of Dunstons. Dated at Dunstons 12 May 1711.

49. Deed obtained by John Campbell of Dunstons against Ann Campbell, sister of John McNeill of Arishoban, and . . . (Woods) McNeill, now of Arishoban, his eldest son and heir, on account of various small debts. Dated at Edinburgh 7 Feb. 1781.

50. A collection of letters and receipts, dated between 1708 and 1801, concerning the estate of Oib, owned by Captain James Campbell and later by Captain John Campbell. The letters are mostly from the factor of Oib (John Campbell, schoolmaster at Kilmartin) to John Campbell, W.S., St. James' Square, Edinburgh, and are written from Prospect Hill, the postmark showing Lockhart. Some are written by the factor from Bannockburn. A few facts may be gleaned from them as follows:—

(a) On 12 Feb. 1801 the McNeill family had got back the estate of Dunstons.

(b) On 25 Dec. 1799 the factor acknowledged receipt of the news of the "death of Oib"—(name omitted), but he must have meant James Campbell, as he calls of the succession of the new owner—"who fell in the action the 2d Sept." On 29 Feb. 1800 he writes that "it pleased the Almighty to call Capt. James Oib to his stage."

(c) The estate is sometimes called "Oib Campbell," Laggan had previously been joined to it, but had been sold shortly before the correspondence begins. The schoolmaster had been factor of both places.

(d) On 18 April 1801 the factor has heard that Capt. John C. proposes to sell Oib.

(e) On 5 March 1803 there is mention of Mr. John Campbell at Ashfield, who is later called "of Ashfield."

51. Minute of arbitration, at Garrie, 17 Jan. 1800, by Mr. John Campbell, tackman of Ashfield, and Duncan McRae, tackman of Bannockburn, to assess the losses suffered by the tenants in Garrie.

¹ This tackman of Ashfield is dealt with in the Appendix, N.B. vol. xxviii. pp. 202 and 203. He must not be confused with John Campbell, factor of Ashfield, who set the property in work to him.

* The testator was executor to James John Carter (amongst the executors in the will of 1841) who in 1841, deceased as if domiciled in England, second husband of Sarah White of London, who was William White in the will is called "James"; and was daughter of John White of London, by Margaret, daughter of William White of the same place. Elizabeth. Forgives Edward Mitchell of Seend, gentleman,⁸ £20; residuary estate to daughter Mary Tipper; Exōrs Obediah Wilkins of Seend, clothier, Gilbert Garrat the elder of Seend, gentleman,⁹ and William Erbury of Bromham, clothier; Overseers, William Wilkins of Seend, clothier, and Francis Lea of Chittoe, clothier; Witnesses, Robert Nicholas,¹⁰ Morris Tipper (his mark), and James Taylor.

Codicil, 1648, Jan. 12. Daughter Martha being dead, her £500 to be divided between daughters Mary and Elizabeth on the same conditions as in the will; the £100 having been paid by my wife's father I now leave it to my wife. Legacies to Richard Tipper, William Tipper, William Blake and Agnes Tipper, now the wife of Nicholas Curtis the younger, all revoked. Witnesses, Mich. Tidcombe,¹¹ Edward Tidcombe and Thomas Snyth.

Codicil, 1648, Jan. 25. Legacies to Millicent Bayly and Agnes Harris revoked; my servants Agnes Harris and Mary Pontinge £5 each; all my estate in the cottage in occupation of Thomas Curnock, to the said Thomas, his Exōrs and assigns. Witnesses, Gilbert Garrard, William Yerbury and Obediah Wilkins.

1651, Aug. 6. Gilbert Garrard, the only surviving Exōr., renouncing, the widow Elizabeth Tipper also renouncing, John Somner and Mary Somner alias Tipper, daughter of the deceased, administered the estate.

William Tipper, ancestor of the Dukes of Somerset (still landowners here) through Somner and Webb, is buried in the nave of the church, but his burial register has not been found. He was married at Seend by licence 3 June 1632 to Elizabeth Wilkins, perhaps his second wife, as we find in the registers a marriage of William Tipper, 29 Sept. 1622, with Mary Sheappeard, who was buried here 21 Feb. 1632. His charity to Uphaven has long ceased to exist, and there seems to be no knowledge or tradition of him there, no old parish books being in existence. At Seend there is no record of this charity being administered until 1789, unless an occasional mention of a rent from Westfield refers to this; in that year the rent of a field called Tipper's Ground, probably the

¹¹ There were not a few Michael Tidcombes, perhaps this may be the well-known Royalist of that name, or the one who died at Atworth in 1662, whose wife was born Yerbury or Erbury. John Erbury of Atworth was ignobilis in Visitation of Wilts, 1623.

east part of the West Marsh (Westfield ?) mentioned in the Will, was distributed in "bug" coats to men not receiving poor relief on St. Thomas Day; recently orders for suits of clothes have been given instead, some of the applicants objecting to a "badge of charity"! In a pamphlet (undated) by the late Captain King, E.I.S., long a resident here, it is stated that it was a certain Wesleyan, James Blake, "who fought the battle about the misapplication of Westfield which resulted in a victory for the poor and coats for ever."

There is in the neighbourhood an alleged portrait in oils, but the costume is 100 years too late; it is probably one of the Somners. Any additional information as to him and his family would be most acceptable.

An illustration of the white marble monument in the church to the Tipper and Somner families faces this page. The inscription on this monument is printed in The Genealogist, O.S., vol. iii, p. 318.

east part of the West Marsh (Westfield?) mentioned in the Will, was distributed in "bags" coats to men not receiving poor relief on St. Thomas Day; recently orders for suits of clothes have been given instead, some of the applicants objecting to a "bag of charity"! In a pamphlet (undated) by the late Captain King, R.L.S., long a resident here, it is stated that it was a certain Widdowson, James Blake, who fought the battle about the misapplication of Westfield which resulted in a victory for the poor and coats for ever."

There is in the neighbourhood an altered portrait in oils, but the costume is 100 years too late; it is probably one of the Sommers. Any additional information as to him and his family would be most acceptable.

Given John Awbry, Jun. Seal. (A bond contact three singulars (Awbry). Witness, Wm. Flower, Robert Dwyer (his mark), James Tipper, and Thomas More. Proved 22 Sept. 1637.

"The oldest son of John Awbry, Vicar of Melkham, 1601-38, who according to his M.I. in Melkham Church was instituted on the presentation of Gervous, widow of Henry Gervous, no perhaps he is the John Awbry (or is it the "cousin John") who in 1637 bequeathed Margaret Gervous at Melkham. There seems a well known family of Melkham and Eastwick. "Perhaps the name as is mentioned in Thomas Ingham's will, 1711, "one ancient bond against me with the Awbry Arms upon it, and a death's head on the reverse, which I desire my son to keep until his death."

PART VIII.

James Aspinall, the brother and partner of John Bridge Aspinall, was born 31 March 1760. We have little information of him beyond that supplied by the Liverpool Directories. His name first appears in the issue for 1790, particulars of which have been given above. He then resided at 30 Bold Street, and is described as a merchant. "Old Stager" probably had him and his brother William in his mind when he tells us that "Bold Street had its Tobins, Aspinalls, Dawsons."²³⁶ In 1796 he had removed to 80 Duke Street, and in this year we find that

PART VIII.

James Aspinall, the brother and partner of John Briggs Aspinall, was born 31 March 1760. We have little information of him beyond that supplied by the Liverpool Directories. His name first appears in the same for 1780, particulars of which have been given above. He then resided at 30 Bold Street, and is described as a merchant. "Old Stager," probably had him and his brother William in his mind when he tells us that "Both Stagers had the Tinkins, Aspinalls, Dawsons."¹⁰² In 1790 he had moved to 80 Duke Street, and in this year we find that he was Deputy Treasurer for the Infirmary, and on the Parish Committee. In 1805 his address is given as Wavertree Lane, Edge Hill, in 1807 as Wavertree Hill, in 1810 as 4 Edge Hill, and in 1813 as 2 Wavertree Road, Edge Hill. After 1813 his name is no longer given, and it is significant that in 1816 a Mrs. James Aspinall appears at 105 Duke Street for the first time. In Duke Street she continued to live until 1834, and possibly for some years after that date.

It will be noted that in the directory for 1790 there is shown a James Aspinall, described as a "blockmaker," who had a residence or business at Norfolk Street, with a shop at Old Dock—in a later directory it is described as 54 South Side, Old Dock. Between 1803 and 1805 the address changes from Norfolk Street to No. 2 Bridge-water Street, and between 1807 and 1810 there was another removal to Gloucester Street, Lime Street. After the last removal the address at Old Dock no longer appears, and after 1811 the "blockmaker" business disappears from the directories entirely. It is necessary to be cautious before coming to the conclusion that this James Aspinall was identical with James the brother of John Bridge Aspinall, or that he was even nearly connected with the family. The fact that he had a shop at Old Dock, which he apparently first acquired about the time of James Aspinall's death in 1788, is the only indication that this may have been the case. On the other hand, in the Lists of Free men who voted in 1784,²³⁷ we find "Aspinwall, James, blockmaker (1 vote, Lord Penrhyn)," as well as "Aspinwall, James, plumber (2 votes, Gascoyne and Tarleton)," and his name occurs once again in the Poll Book for 1806: "Aspinall, James, blockmaker, Bridge-water St." The giving of a vote to Lord Penrhyn would be quite contrary to the political traditions of the Aspinall family whose history we are following. "There were two sections of the Tory party always in the field, the green or Tarleton party, and the blue, or Gascoigne and 'Townside' party. But, at a pinch, they always coalesced against the pinks or Reformers. . . . Foremost in the ranks of the blues were the Posters, Cases, Aspinalls, Gregsons, Brancfers, Clarkes, Leylands, etc." ²³⁸

James Aspinall married Margaret Tobin, as we have seen by the entries from the Tobin family bible given above. James Aspinall, who was Mayor of Liverpool in 1835, and of whom an account will presently be given, was one of their sons.

An obituary notice in the Gentleman's Magazine for 1814 announces the death, at Liverpool, of James Aspinall, Esq.²³⁹ He had made his will some years before, and an abstract of it has been obtained:—

"James Aspinall of Liverpool, co. Lancaster, merchant; dated 29 August 1806.

In Duke Street she continued to live until 1831, and possibly for some years after that date.

On the other hand, in the lists of Free men who voted in 1781²²⁰ we find "Aspinwall, James, blackmaker" (1 vote, Lord Penrhyn), as well as "Aspinwall, James, plumber" (2 votes, Gascoyne and Tatnall), and his name occurs once again in the Poll Book for 1806: "Aspinall, James, blackmaker, Bridge-water St." The giving of a vote to Lord Penrhyn would be quite contrary to the political traditions of the Aspinall family, whose history we are following. "There were two sections of the Tory party always in the field, the green or Tatnall party, and the blue or Gascoyne and Townshend party; that at a pinch, they always collected against the pink or Beaumont Beaumont in the ranks of the blue were the Butlers, Greens, Aspinalls, Gascoynes, Beaumonts, Clarks, Taylors, etc." ²²¹

James Aspinall married Margaret Tobin, as we have seen by the entries from the Tobin family table given above. James Aspinall, who was Mayor of Liverpool in 1835, and of whom an account will presently be given, was one of their sons.

An obituary notice in the Gasconian's Magazine for 1814 announces the death at Liverpool of James Aspinall Esq.²²² He had made his will some years before, and an abstract of it has been obtained:—

William Aspinall, the brother of John Bridge and James Aspinall, was born on the 1st June 1761. In 1790 we find him described as a "sailmaker"; he then resided at 81 Duke Street, and had a sailroom at No. 1 South Dock. In 1796 he had removed from Duke Street to 57 Bold Street, is described as a merchant, and in this year he was on the Committee for the Seaman's Hospital. Before 1800 he had removed his sailroom from South Dock, and had his office and sailroom at No. 1 Salthouse Dock; in 1805 the address is given as 35 East Side, Salthouse Dock. In 1807 and 1811 he is a merchant residing at 68 Bold Street; in these years he still has his sailroom at Salthouse Dock, and in addition a counting house at 10 Orford Street. In 1813 the Bold Street address changes to 10 Gradwell Street, the sailroom remains as before, and the counting-house is at 4 Orford Street. In 1816 his name is no longer included in the directory, but taking its place are the following new entries:—

Aspinall & Knowles, Sailmakers, 35 East Side, Salthouse Dock.

Counting-house, 4 Orford Street.

Aspinall, John, Sailmaker, 58 Russell Street.

Aspinall, Mrs. William, 10 Gradwell Street.

The last of these entries appears again in the directories for 1818 and 1821, after which it ceases.²⁴⁰

In 1798 we find that William Aspinall was engaged in the African trade, and that he was the owner of a vessel named the "Will." This ship may be described, in the words of "Old Stager," as a "passenger ship for involuntary black emigrants from Africa to the other side of the Atlantic." About this date the slave trade was at its height in Liverpool, and we are told that "for a vessel of 300 or 400 tons burden

In 1813 the Bold Street address changes to 10 Gradwell Street, the sailroom remains as before, and the counting house is at 4 Oxford Street. In 1816 his name is no longer included in the directory, but taking its place are the following new entries:—

The last of these entries appears again in the directories for 1818 and 1821, after which it ceases.

In 1798 we find that William Aspinwall was engaged in the African trade, and that he was the owner of a vessel named the "Will." This ship may be described in the words of "Old Slater," as a "passenger ship for involuntary black emigrants from Africa to the other side of the Atlantic." About this date the slave trade was at its height in Liverpool, and we are told that "for a vessel of 300 or 400 tons burden to yield a profit of £20,000 on the round voyage, which could be accomplished in twelve months, was no impossible thing. Great fortunes were made, although it is true that the irregular and uncontrolled character of the trade led to many losses."²⁴¹

The captain of the "Will" was Hugh Crow. He was "one of the bravest, shrewdest, quaintest, and most humorous old sea dogs that ever breathed. He had lost his right eye when very young, but as one of his employers said, the other was a 'piercer,' and he was known far and wide as 'Mind your eye, Crow.'" He was a well-known Liverpool character about the end of the eighteenth century, and has left us a volume of memoirs giving an account of his life and voyages, which has been largely quoted by other writers. Gomer Williams devotes a whole chapter to him²⁴²; there is a good account of him, with a portrait, in Ramsay Muir's History of Liverpool (1907); "Old Stager" and Walter Lewin both mention him²⁴³; and he receives honourable notice in other works. Of his connection with William Aspinall he gives the following account:—²⁴⁴

"At length, as the proverb goes, 'long looked for come at last,' I had the good fortune to be appointed to the command of a very fine ship called the "Will," belonging to Mr. W. Aspinall, one of the most generous merchants in Liverpool. She was about 300 tons burthen, carried 18 6-pounders, besides small arms, and was manned by 50 men. The instructions were most liberal, and as a young man on my first voyage as master of a ship, I could not but be highly gratified by the friendly and confidential language in which they were conveyed. We sailed for Bonny in July 1798, and arrived safely, after a fine passage. . . . We soon procured a cargo, and after a pleasant run arrived at Kingston in good health and spirits. Our voyage proved to be most successful."

He sailed for Bonny again in July 1799, and made another "very successful" voyage; and, for the second time, he was presented with the bounty of £100 awarded by Government in consideration of the good condition of the slaves on their arrival.²⁴⁵

"We returned home under convoy, and on our arrival off the N.W. Buoy, my owner and his brothers paid me the compliment of coming out to meet me. To add to my satisfaction, Mr. Aspinall appointed a fine ship, the 'Lord Stanley,' to sail with me on the next voyage."

Both vessels, together with some others, sailed for the coast of Africa in October 1800. Captain Crow afterwards sailed in another of William Aspinall's ships, the "Mary," and during the voyage he had a hard fight with two English sloops of war, each side mutually believing the other to be enemy's ships. The odds were too great, and he had to surrender, when the mistake was discovered. When asked if he needed

The captain of the "Will" was Hugh Grew. He was "one of the bravest, shrewdest, quaintest, and most humorous old sea dogs that ever breathed. He had lost his right eye when very young, but as one of his employers said, the other was a 'pinner,' and he was known far and wide as 'Blind your eye Grew.'"²²² He was a well-known Liverpool character about the end of the eighteenth century, and has left us a volume of memoirs giving an account of his life and voyages, which has been largely quoted by other writers. "On passing Port Arthur the negroes, to the number of about 400, were nearly all on deck. . . . The Captain's friends hastened on board to bid him welcome; the cargo, after all, was fine and healthy, and was disposed of to great advantage by Mr. Thomas Aspinall. . . . Capt. Crow sailed from Jamaica in March 1807, and arrived at Liverpool on the 2nd of May. 'I was received by Mr. Aspinall with his usual kindness and hospitality. We however got home the day after the fair, for the African Slave trade was abolished on the day preceding our arrival.' . . . As the 'Mary' could not again clear for an African voyage, Capt. Crow took command of the 'Kitty Amelia,' . . . belonging to Mr. Henry Clarke."²⁴⁶

One of William Aspinall's grandsons, who in 1902 published a book of reminiscences which will presently be noticed, writes²⁴⁷ :—"My grandfather, William Aspinall, was a man of powerful physique, and at times irritable to a degree. In his day, there were no steamers: all the trade was done with sailing-ships. He was engaged in the African trade; and, in common with other shipowners, suffered considerable loss owing to captains keeping the vessels out, and doing a little coasting trade on their own account. Sometimes a vessel would be away for two or three years; and often not heard of for months together." And he goes on to give an account of how William Aspinall treated one of his captains who had been guilty of keeping his ship out much longer than usual. The treatment was of a totally different character to that which Captain Crow tells us he received on his return to port.

Walter Lewin, in his brief account of Captain Crow, states, as do other writers, that he was "distinguished amongst other things for the humane way in which he treated his human cargoes." He then proceeds :—²⁴⁸

"As to merchants, it is not to be supposed that in 1787 there was but one good man among them all in Liverpool; yet William Rathbone was the only original member of the Society for abolishing the Trade, founded in the year named. On the other hand the Company of Merchants trading to Africa which George II granted a Charter in 1750 included Thomas Earle and William Earle, P. W. Brancker and Thomas Brancker, John Bridge Aspinall, James Aspinall and William Aspinall; and some of these, and, at a later date, Sir John Gladstone, owned slave-worked plantations in the West Indies.

"Another William Aspinall, nearly half-a-century later, who is described as 'one of the most generous merchants in Liverpool,' was owner of the "Will," 225 tons burden, with 18 six-pounders guns and a crew of 50 men, licensed to carry 359 slaves, whose master at one time was the exemplary captain just alluded to, who won the hearts of the negroes because he only kidnapped and enslaved them, and had not added to their misfortunes by callous cruelty. Knowing the value of a good servant, Mr. William Aspinall held Capt. Crow in great esteem. . . . The cousin of the owner of the "Will" was the grandfather of the subject of this memoir. His name was John Bridge Aspinall."

We see that here is a curious genealogical mistake. In the account of John Bridge Aspinall given above, two lists of the Company of Merchants trading to Africa were mentioned.²⁴⁹ The Company formed under the Charter of 1750 was seen to be still carrying on its operations in 1807, with a later generation of shareholders. A list of the shareholders dated 1752 contained none of the names mentioned by Mr. Lewin: the list dated 1807 contains all of them. The explanation of Mr. Lewin's error appears to be that he overlooked the date in the heading of the later list, and seeing in it the date when the charter was granted, 1750, took this to be the date of the list. It was not therefore "another" William Aspinall who owned the "Will," nor was it the "cousin" of the owner of the "Will" who was the grandfather of the subject of Mr. Lewin's memoir.

William Aspinall was one of the fifty additional Trustees of the Liverpool Blue Coat Hospital appointed in November 1803, and his name appears No. 44 on the list.²⁵⁰ The exact date of his death has not been ascertained, but it seems likely that it occurred about 1816. He had two sons, John and George, and perhaps other children.

Thomas Aspinall, born in 1765, and the youngest son of James and Elizabeth Aspinall, is first shown in the Liverpool Directories for 1810 and 1811 as "Thomas Aspinall, gentleman, 18 Rodney Street." In 1813 the number changes to 25 Rodney Street, and in 1816 and 1818 "Mrs. Thomas Aspinall" is shown at that address. After that date her address changes with each fresh issue of the directory; in 1821 it is at Smithdown Road, in 1825 at 42 Cornwallis Street, in 1829 at 3 Pembroke Place, and in 1832 at 11 Pembroke Place, after which date there is no further entry.²⁵¹ Three announcements in the Gentleman's Magazine give us further knowledge of Thomas Aspinall and his family:—

Knowing the value of a good servant, Mr. William Aspinwall held Capt. Crow in great esteem. . . . The cousin of the owner of the "Will" was the grandfather of the subject of this memoir. His name was John Bridge Aspinwall. . . .

We see that here is a serious genealogical mistake. In the account of John Bridge Aspinwall given above two lists of the Company of Merchants trading to Africa were mentioned.²²⁰ The Company formed under the Charter of 1759 was seen to be still carrying on its operations in 1807, with a later generation of shareholders. A list of the shareholders dated 1752 contained none of the names mentioned by Mr. Lewis: the list dated 1807 contains all of them. The explanation of Mr. Lewis's error appears to be that he overlooked the date in the heading of the later list, and seeing in it the date when the charter was granted, 1759, took this to be the date of the list. It was not therefore "another" William Aspinwall who owned the "Will," nor was it the "cousin" of the owner of the "Will" who was the grandfather of the subject of Mr. Lewis's memoir.

William Aspinwall was one of the fifty additional Trustees of the Liverpool Blue Coat Hospital appointed in November 1803, and his name appears No. 41 on the list.²²¹ The exact date of his death has not been ascertained, but it seems likely that it occurred about 1816. He had two sons, John and George, and perhaps other children.

Thomas Aspinwall, born in 1768, and the youngest son of James and Elizabeth Aspinwall, is first shown in the Liverpool Directories for 1810 and 1811 as "Thomas Aspinwall, gentleman, 18 Rodney Street." In 1812 the number changes to 35 Rodney Street, and in 1816 and 1818 "Mr. Thomas Aspinwall" is shown at that address. After that date her address changes with each fresh issue of the directory; in 1821 it is at Smithdown Road, in 1825 at 43 Cornwallis Street, in 1829 at 3 Pembroke Place, and in 1832 at 11 Pembroke Place, after which date there is no further entry.²²² Three announcements in the Gleaner give us further knowledge of Thomas Aspinwall and his family:—

The marriage of Betty, daughter of James Aspinwall, senior, by Elizabeth Kitch, born in 1766, is recorded in the Family Memorials given in the pedigree of James Aspinwall, a portion of which is given below:—

Miss Aspinwall's collection of notes includes another pedigree which gives some further details of the descendants of John Turner of Bolton and of his wife Elizabeth Aspinwall. The notes for this pedigree were contributed by Miss Kathleen (Greville) Aspinwall, daughter of Archibald Aspinwall, Esq. As this lady is at present in Singapore, the exact source of her information cannot be ascertained.

An announcement in the Gentleman's Magazine records the marriage of another of James Aspinall's daughters :—

1792. Marriage.²⁵⁶

F. Phillips, Esq., of Manchester, to Miss Aspinall, dau. of the late Mr. James Aspinall, Merchant.

Thomas Aspinall, the eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, was born in 1788, and as we have seen, he was living in January 1819, in which year he was named in his father's will. The only information we have of him is that given by the directories.

In 1810 and 1811 the Liverpool Directories have the entries :—

Aspinall, John Bridge, merchant, 97 Duke Street.

Aspinall, Thomas, Jun., merchant, 97 Duke Street.

In 1813 both of these entries appear again, but the address of the latter changes to No. 3 Clarence Street. In 1816 "Thomas Aspinall, Jun." is absent, but we find for the first time "Thomas Aspinall, gentleman, Rupert Place, Everton"; this year is also the last in which John Bridge Aspinall is shown as residing at Duke Street. In 1818 there are two entries :—

Aspinall, Thomas, gentleman, Rupert Place, Everton.

Aspinall, Thomas, jun., merchant, counting house, 66 Castle Street.

The latter of these does not appear again, but "Thomas Aspinall, gentleman," continues to reside at Rupert Place until 1862, and possibly after that date. Between 1825 and 1836 he is described as a "Searcher in the Customs."²⁵⁷

We have seen by John Bridge Aspinall's will that his daughter Betty, born in 1790, had married Richard Addison, and that his third daughter Margaret, born in 1793, had married John Down Gregson. In the Gentleman's Magazine we find a record of the marriage of his second daughter :—

1834. Marriage. February 1st.²⁵⁸

At Bath, the Rev. G. M. Scott to Anne, daughter of the late J. B. Aspinall, esq.

James Aspinall, the second son of John Bridge Aspinall, was born in 1795. There is a good short account of his life in the Dictionary of National Biography, which opens by describing him as a "miscellaneous writer and popular preacher." Walter Lewin, writing at a later date, makes reference to this account of him, and says, "On reference to the Dictionary of National Biography, I find he was the one member of the family who, when the volume which contains his name was published, was esteemed worthy of a place in its pages."²⁵⁹

In 1810 and 1811 the Liverpool Directories have the entries:—

We have seen by John Bridge Aspinwall's will that his daughter Betty, born in 1790, had married Richard Addison, and that his third daughter Margaret, born in 1793, had married John Deane Grogan. In the Gentleman's Magazine we find a record of the marriage of his second daughter:—

James Aspinwall, the second son of John Bridge Aspinwall, was born in 1795. There is a good short account of his life in the Dictionary of National Biography, which opens by describing him as a "miscellaneous writer and popular preacher." Walter Lazenby, writing at a later date, makes reference to that account of him, and says, "On reference to the Dictionary of National Biography I find he was the one member of the family who, when the volume which contains his name was published, was esteemed worthy of a place in its pages."²²⁹

Two records of his school and college life have been found. In one of his own works he tells us: "One of the best preachers in those old times was the incumbent of St. Stephen's, Byrom Street, the Rev. G. H. Piercy, a fine fellow in every way. . . . We must not forget to mention, . . . that of the sons of Liverpool worthies under his care in 1804, and who thumbed their lexicons with redoubled zeal when promised a holiday . . . the following, although in the 'sere and yellow leaf,' are still fit for active service: W. C. Ritson, E. Molyneux, Thomas Brandreth, F. Haywood, R. W. Preston, and James Boardman. The Rev. James Aspinall, Rector of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, was also long a favourite pupil of the reverend patriarch."²⁶⁰ The other record is contained in "A Catalogue of all Graduates in Divinity, Law, Medicine, Arts and Music, University of Oxford, between October 10, 1659, and December 31, 1850":—

Aspinall (James), St. Mary Hall. B.A. June 9, 1820. M.A. Apr. 21, 1823.

His clerical career is said to have commenced at "a church in Cheshire, about fifteen miles from Manchester," but the name of the place is not given.²⁶¹ We next find him a Curate at Rochdale, where he published several volumes of sermons between 1822 and 1826.²⁶² Mr. C. W. Sutton twice records his name as a Lancashire author:—²⁶³

Rev. James Aspinall, B.A., Curate of Rochdale. Sermons, Doctrinal and Practical, 1822.

Rev. James Aspinall, M.A.; b. Liverpool; d. Althorpe, Lincolnshire, 1861. Roscoe's Library, or Old Books and Old Times, 1853. Sermons and other works.

His name also appears in an article entitled "Notes on Book Plates," by John Paul Rylands, F.S.A.:—²⁶⁴

In 1828 we find the following announcement in the Gentleman's Magazine:—

1828. Ecclesiastical Preferments: Chaplain.²⁶⁵

Rev. J. Aspinall. Chaplain to Lord Clonbrock.

This appointment, as will be seen by another announcement in the same magazine, and which is given below, he continued to hold until his death. About this time he left Rochdale for Liverpool, and from 1829 to 1834 we find him residing at Bedford Street, Abercrombie Square.²⁶⁶ At Liverpool he was, as his son tells us in 1869, "at one time Incumbent of St. Michael's Church, and more recently officiating at St. Luke's."²⁶⁷ With the first part of this statement however, Walter Lewin disagrees, and says that he returned to Liverpool as "Chaplain" of St. Michael's, the Incumbent being the Rev. Ambrose Dawson, B.D.²⁶⁸ Mr. Lewin also tells us that he received the incumbency of St. Luke's in 1831; and another writer relates that he was "the first incumbent" of this church.²⁶⁹ Whilst at Liverpool he published several other volumes of sermons.²⁷⁰ In 1839 the Gentleman's Magazine contains another announcement:—

1839. Ecclesiastical Preferments.²⁷¹

Rev. J. Aspinall, Althorpe Rectory, Lincolnshire.

At Althorpe he spent the remaining years of his life. He continued, whilst here, to use his pen, and amongst his later writings we have other volumes of sermons, an "Address delivered at the Great Free Trade Meeting held . . . at Hull," and "Roscoes' Library; or, Old Books and Old Times."²⁷⁰

But by far the most interesting of James Aspinall's writings, from the point of view of the history of his family, is the series of sketches and reminiscences entitled Liverpool a Few Years Since, published under the nom-de-plume "An Old Stager." These appeared first in the columns of the Liverpool Albion, and afterwards, in 1852, they were collected and issued in book form; a second edition was published in 1869, and a third in 1885, both of which are now out of print. A number of quotations, taken from the third edition of this fascinating little volume, have already contributed much to our knowledge of the author's family, connections and surroundings, and we may glean still more. The preface to the second edition, written by one of James Aspinall's sons, not only reveals the author's identity, but gives us a good picture of him and of some of his life's activities:—

"It is scarcely imparting information to make known the simple truth that the 'Old Stager' in question was none other than the late Rev. James Aspinall, M.A. Oxon, at one time Incumbent of St. Michael's Church, and more recently officiating at St. Luke's, and afterwards transferred to the Crown Rectory of Althorpe in Lincolnshire, where he continued to reside until his death in 1861. The 'Old Stager' was always a man of great activity of mind and body, and could never be idle. Every moment of his time was turned to some account; and thus the very remote sphere of his parochial and magisterial duties in Lincolnshire never induced the slightest dulness or discontent. With a church, and a chapel-of-ease three or four miles off, to serve, and with a tolerably large parish to care for, the 'Old Stager' was not without considerable clerical duty; and, added to this, he most unwillingly undertook the responsibilities of the magisterial office. Notwithstanding the avocations thus indicated, time was always found

Ambrose Lawson, B.D.²⁰⁸ Mr. Lawin also tells us that he received the incumbency of St. Luke's in 1831; and another writer relates that he was "the first incumbent" of this church.²⁰⁹ Whilst at Liverpool he published several other volumes of sermons.²¹⁰ In 1839 the Gentleman's Magazine contains another announcement:—

for literary pursuits, for receiving and imparting knowledge, for refreshing and renewing his powers of mind, in order to the successful communication, either by voice or pen, of his thoughts and ideas to his neighbours and to the general public. Amid the many written utterances of the 'Old Stager's' ready and comprehensive mind we must enumerate these notes upon men and things in our good old town, penned with very considerable pleasure to their writer, as being the jottings down of his own personal experiences and recollections of a place and of a people very deeply rooted in the affections of this true son of Liverpool.

"We well remember the bright and genial countenance of the 'Old Stager,' as he thought aloud upon his old and early associations. Liverpool was his home, as against all other homes. His father had been its chief magistrate so long ago as 1803. His sons, or some of them, had adopted it as their abiding place; and thus, for several generations, this thriving community seemed to the 'Old Stager' to smile upon him and upon his belongings, and as a consequence, not at all unnatural, the 'Old Stager' felt a devotion to the town, and towards its inhabitants, which kept it and them ever in his grateful remembrance."

The book itself consists of twenty-five short chapters about Liverpool and its people, their sayings and doings; it is written in a bright chatty style and contains many interesting anecdotes. The author opens with memories of the illuminations which took place when peace was made with Napoleon in 1801, and with a remembrance of "being called out of our bed to gaze at the terrible flames when the Goree warehouses were burnt down," in 1802. He proceeds to describe a Liverpool in which green fields were still known; whose docks "ended with George's at one extremity, and the Queen's at the other"; and whose shipping consisted of sailing vessels, steamers being then unknown. A Liverpool of "early hours, pigtails, routs, and hair powder." We have next a vivid description of the ways of pressgangs, the "great terror of the sailor"; of the departure of convoys of sailing vessels under the guardianship of sloops of war; of the privateers, those fast vessels for which Liverpool was famous; all these the results of those days of war, when "Napoleon was ambitious." Next we pass to an account of the "regiments of our own raising," another result of the same cause, in which we find several of those names which have already been mentioned.

In the chapters which follow we are given pen portraits of many well-known Liverpool people of those days, and mention is made of many old Liverpool families. Glancing through the pages, we notice many names we are already familiar with. In Bold Street, we are told, lived Harry Park, "as a surgeon second to no man in his day"; and "Mr. Tobin—at a much later period, Sir John—" lived in Slater Street, then only partially built upon. A good story is told of James Clarke, Recorder of Liverpool, and one of the author's uncles; and his brothers, John Clarke, "once Mayor of Liverpool," and Thomas Clarke, who resided at Childwall, and who had "a splendid place,

A good story is told of James Clarke, Recorder of Liverpool, and one of the author's uncles; and his brother, John Clarke, "once Mayor of Liverpool," and Thomas Clarke, who resided at Childwall, and who had "a splendid place, Peplow Hall, in Shropshire," are also named. "In Soho Street was the house of Mr. Butler, somewhat too convivial in his habits, but one of the most thorough gentlemen we ever met with. His son is the present Mr. Butler Cole, of Cote and Kirkland Halls, both in this county. In Rose Place, then a fashionable suburb, resided Mr. Lake, who subsequently retired to Birkenhead Priory, and afterwards to Castle Godwyn, in Gloucestershire." The adventure of Captain Crow, of the good ship "Mary," with the two English sloops of war, is related with keen relish. We have a last glimpse of the "Mary" in a passage near the end of the book, in which the author tells us the Old Dock was "most unwisely filled up. The Custom House now stands where the "Jack Park," and the "Mary," and the "Lovely Nancy" once rested on the waters after achieving their homeward voyage, and poked their bowsprits into the windows of the opposite houses, which were inconveniently near." Another name reminds us of the will of William Aspinall—that of Peter Tyrer, the coach builder, whom "every old stager must recollect." His relationship to the other Tyrers named in that will is not revealed however.

Amongst the numerous persons who come under review, though the comment is almost invariably of a kindly nature, it does occasionally happen that some unfortunate fails to secure the writer's approval. One such was Mr. Samuel Staniforth, who, we are told, "lived to be an old man amongst us, and was once Mayor of Liverpool, and afterwards sunk down into being the stamp distributor of the district. He was a gentlemanly kind of person in society, but of a strangely austere and forbidding aspect, the most vinegar-visaged man we ever beheld. And the index was a correct representative of the inner man." Against this judgment a protest has been launched. Samuel Staniforth came of an old Clitheroe family. He was educated at the Clitheroe Grammar School whilst the Rev. Thomas Wilson was Master there. The Rev. F. R. Raines, M.A., F.S.A., in his Memoir of Thomas Wilson, speaking of Mr. Wilson's friends, says, "Among these may be named Mr. Staniforth of Liverpool. With the family of the last-named gentleman he had been on terms of far more than ordinary friendship." He gives us a number of letters which passed between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Staniforth, and tells us that in 1813, when Mr. Staniforth was Mayor of Liverpool, Mr. Wilson visited him at Liverpool. And in a footnote he makes the following protest against "Old Stager's" remarks :—²⁷²

"The only person who ever thought harshly of Mr. Samuel Staniforth is the clever author of Liverpool a Few Years Since, 12mo, 1852. All who knew Mr. Staniforth feel indignant at the wanton injustice done to his memory by the Rector of Althorpe."

One of the later chapters gives a good account of the old Liverpool self-elected Corporation. "They were not only a self-elected body, but a family party, and carefully guarded the introduction of too many 'outsiders,' if we may so speak, of their own rank and order in society.

Peplov Hall, in Straphair, are also named. "In Pebo Street was the house of Mr. Butler, somewhat too convivial in his habits, but one of the most thorough gentlemen we ever met with. His son is the present Mr. Butler Cole, of Cora and Kirkland Halls, both in this county. In those places, then a fashionable suburb, resided Mr. Lake, who subsequently retired to Kirkland's Ferry, and afterwards to Castle Gledwyn, in Clonmesthir." The adventure of Captain Grove of the good ship "Mary," with the two English sloops of war, is related with keen relish. We have a last glimpse of the "Mary" in a passage near the end of the book, in which the author tells us the Old Book was "most unwisely filled up. The Captain House now stands where the "Jack Park," and the "Mary," and the "Lovely Mary," once rested on the waters after achieving their homeward voyage, and gazed their bowports into the windows of the opposite houses, which were inconveniently near." Another name reminds us of the will of William Aspenwall—that of Peter Tyrer, the coach builder, whom "every old Astoria must recollect." His relationship to the other Tyrers named in that will is not revealed however.

Amongst the numerous persons who come under review, though the comment is almost invariably of a kindly nature, it does occasionally happen that some unfortunate fails to secure the writer's approval. One such was Mr. Samuel Stanforth, who, we are told, "lived to be an old man amongst us, and was once Mayor of Liverpool, and afterwards sank down into being the stamp distributor of the district. He was a gentlemanly kind of person in society, but of a strangely austere and forbidding aspect, the most vinegar-visaged man we ever beheld. And the index was a correct representative of the inner man." . . . Against this judgment a protest has been launched. Samuel Stanforth came of an old Liverpool family. He was educated at the Liverpool Grammar School whilst the Rev. Thomas Wilson was Master there. The Rev. R. R. Mainer, M.A., F.R.S., in his Memoir of Thomas Wilson, speaking of Mr. Wilson's friends, says, "Among these may be named Mr. Stanforth of Liverpool. With the family of the last named gentleman he had been on terms of far more than ordinary friendship." He gives us a number of letters which passed between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Stanforth, and tells us that in 1813, when Mr. Stanforth was Mayor of Liverpool, Mr. Wilson visited him at Liverpool. And in a footnote he makes the following protest against "Old Stager's" remarks:—

"The only person who ever thought harshly of Mr. Samuel Stanforth is the clever author of Liverpool's New News Sheet, 1852. All who knew Mr. Stanforth feel regretful at the wrong injustice done to his memory by the doctor of Albion."

One of the later chapters gives a good account of the old Liverpool self-elected Corporation. "They were not only a self-elected body, but a family party, and carefully guarded the introduction of no family 'outsider,' if we may so speak, of their own rank and order in society."

They would, indeed, occasionally admit a stranger, without any ties of relationship to recommend him. But this was only done at long intervals and just to save appearances." Another chapter describes the Liverpool elections of those times, the parties, and some of the politicians. General Gascoigne excites the author's utmost severity, and the character given him is the reverse of flattering. His elder brother was that Bamber Gascoigne who married the daughter of Isaac Green and Mary Aspinwall, of whom some account has been given in the second part of this series of articles.²⁷³ He also is noticed by "Old Stager":—

"Bamber was a man of a very different stamp and calibre from his brother. He was a good specimen of the gentleman of the old school, and very much superior generally to the country squires of his day. His tastes were refined and literary. He was a thoroughly educated and well-read person. He was at once proud and courteous in his manner and aristocratic in his bearing. His habits attached him more to his library than to the arena of the House of Commons, and he, consequently, did not kill himself with toiling in the cause of his constituents. . . . Mrs. Gascoigne, his wife, however, as excellent and kind-hearted a person as ever lived, always took a most lively and remarkably fussy interest in our elections." . . .

But here again we have met with a curious instance of conflicting judgments. Ramsay Muir has summed up Bamber Gascoigne as "a dull, rich nonentity, who is of interest to this generation chiefly because Lord Salisbury's Liverpool estates came by inheritance from him."²⁷⁴

Leaving it to others to form an opinion upon the merits or demerits of these judgments, we turn to a passage in which Sir J. A. Picton has briefly noticed James Aspinall and his reminiscences:—²⁷⁵

"The first incumbent of St. Luke's was the Rev. James Aspinall, M.A., a member of an old Liverpool family, his father, Mr. John Bridge Aspinall, having filled the office of Mayor in 1803. Mr. Aspinall was a man of very brilliant parts both as a writer and speaker, and during his residence here filled a prominent place in Liverpool society. He was the writer of many lively, and frequently severe articles on local affairs in the journals of the day. A series of sketches, written for a local paper, and afterwards collected and published under the title of Liverpool a Few Years Since, by An Old Stager, are in their way very remarkable productions, showing a power of developing individual character in its amusing and humorous aspects, and of felicitous description of a very rare kind. In 1840 he was presented to the rectory of Althorpe in Lincolnshire, where he remained until his decease.

"Two of his sons occupy official positions in the borough, Mr. J. B. Aspinall, Q.C., being Recorder, and Mr. Clarke Aspinall, the Coroner."

Another chapter describes the Liverpool elections of those times, the parties, and some of the politicians. General Gascoigne extends the author's utmost severity, and the character given him is the reverse of flattery. His elder brother was that Rampher Gascoigne who married the daughter of James Green and Mary Aspinwall, of whose some account has been given in the second part of this series of articles.⁷¹⁹ He also is noticed by "Old Stager":—

"Rampher was a man of a very different stamp and calibre from his brother. But here again we have met with a curious instance of conflicting judgments. Ramsay Muir has summed up Rampher Gascoigne as "a dull rich nonsense, who is of interest to this generation chiefly because Lord Salisbury's Liverpool estates came by inheritance from him."⁷²⁰

Leaving it to others to form an opinion upon the merits or demerits of these judgments, we turn to a passage in which Sir J. A. Picton has briefly noticed James Aspinwall and his reminiscences:—⁷²¹

"The first incumbent of St. Luke's was the Rev. James Aspinwall, M.A., a member of an old Liverpool family, his father, Mr. John Bridge Aspinwall, having filled the office of Mayor in 1803. James Aspinall had married early in life, as will be seen by the two following announcements, which appeared in the London Courier for Monday, the 7th of October 1816, and in the Gentleman's Magazine of about the same date:—

"On the 3rd inst., at Birkenhead Chapel, James Aspinall, Esq., son of John Bridge Aspinall, Esq., of Cleongar Hall, Cheshire, to Harriet, daughter of William Charles Lake, Esq., of Birkenhead Priory in the same County."

"1816. Marriage. October 3rd.²⁷⁶ James Aspinall, Esq., son of J. B. Aspinall, Esq., of Cleongar Hall, co. Chester, to Harriet, dau. of W. C. Lake, Esq., of Birkenhead Priory, co. Chester."

His wife, as Walter Lewin tells us, was "one of the eighteen children of William Charles Lake, merchant, of Liverpool. Edward Lake was created a baronet by Charles I for bravery at Edgehill. The descendants of his younger brother, John, migrated to South Carolina, where they settled, and where William Charles Lake was born. He married Miss Orange, of Norfolk, Virginia, and removed to Liverpool after the War of Independence, as he was a Royalist. He amassed a large fortune, had estates in Jamaica, and owned property in New Ferry, including the ferry itself. In 1799 he was Mayor's Bailiff. He resided in Duke Street, where he was a near neighbour of the Aspinalls, and afterwards in Rose Place. He then removed to Birkenhead Priory, and ultimately retired to Castle Godwin in Gloucestershire, where he died in 1836, at the age of 84.

"One of William Charles Lake's sons resided for some time at New Ferry, and continued his father's business in Liverpool for a number of years. Another son was an officer in the 3rd Guards at Waterloo and the father of Colonel Lake and of the present Dean of Durham, cousins of Mr. Clarke Aspinall.

"The children of the Rev. James Aspinall were eight in number, five sons and three daughters: John Bridge, Athelstan Maurice, Harriet, Clara, Dudley Lake, Clarke, Butler Cole, Emily Ann."²⁷⁷

Three further announcements in the Gentleman's Magazine record the death of James Aspinall's wife in 1860, his second marriage, and his own death in 1861:—

"1860. Obituary. April 30.²⁷⁸ At the Rectory, Harriet, wife of the Rev. James Aspinall, Rector of Althorpe, Lincolnshire."

"1861. Marriage. January 17.²⁷⁹ At West Butterwick, the Revd. James Aspinall, Rector of Althorpe, Chaplain to the Rt. Hon. Lord Clonbrock, and J.P. for the co. of Lincoln, to Annie, widow of W. Hunter, esq., of the Ings, East Butterwick."

These obituary announcements are corroborated by the inscriptions on the gravestone in Althorpe Churchyard, where the Rev. James Aspinall and his first wife are buried :—

Sacred to the Memory of Harriet, the beloved wife of the Rev. James Aspinall, Rector of Althorpe, who departed this life on the 30th of April 1860, aged 67 years. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Sacred to the Memory of the Rev. James Aspinall, M.A. Rector of Althorpe twenty one years, Chaplain to the Right Hon. Lord Clonbrock, Justice of the Peace for the Parts of Lindsey. Who departed this life on the fifteenth of Feb. 1861, aged 65 years. "Not lost but gone before."

The will of James Aspinall of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, is dated 17 January 1861, and was proved 13 April 1861 in London. The amount was sworn under £3,000. The trustees were Ann Aspinall, his wife ; William Ham Trousdale, of West Butterwick, Lincoln, surgeon ; and William Kettlewell, of Althorpe, farmer. Interest under the will of his father (John Bridge Aspinall) to his wife for life and then to her children, with power of appointment, failing which, to the children of his first wife. Marriage settlement fund £2,200 to his daughters Harriet and Clarissa. All other estate (i.e., his own property) real and personal to his wife Ann for her own use and benefit.

Hannah, the youngest daughter of John Bridge Aspinall, was born in 1800, and married in 1847 :—

"1847. Marriages. Sept. 26.²⁸¹ At Brethomley, Cheshire, Thomas Julian Pode, esq., of Plympton, Devons, to Hannah, youngest dau. of John Bridge Aspinall, esq., of Clayhonger Hall, Cheshire, and Green Park-Pl., Bath."

The marriage is also recorded by Burke,²⁸² but here Hannah is erroneously stated to have been the daughter of "James Aspinall of Liverpool" :—

"Thomas Julian Pode, of Plympton Erle, Devon, born 27 Sept. 1799 ; married first 15 Decr. 1830 Anne Duke, youngest dau. of Rev. Duke Yonge, Vicar of Cornwood, Devon . . . by whom (who died 25 June 1845) he had issue . . .

"Mr. Thomas Julian Pode married secondly, 22 Sept. 1847, Hannah, dau. of James Aspinall, of Liverpool, but by her had no issue. He died 9 Feby. 1857."

PUBLICATIONS OF THE LINCOLN RECORD SOCIETY. (1) Volume viii—The Visitation of the County of Lincoln made by Sir Edward Bysshe, knight, Clarenceux King of Arms, in 1666. (2) Volume iv—The Parish Registers of Grantham, 1562-1632. (3) Volume v,—The Parish Registers of Alford and Rigsby, 1538-1680. Horn-castle (printed for the Society by W. K. Morton & Sons, Ltd.).

(1) The Visitation of the County of Lincoln, 1666.—This Visitation is especially welcome from the fact that it is free from the additions from later sources which have rendered so many published Visitations of little use to genealogists. It has been printed from a copy of Bysshe's Visitation, D. 23 in the College of Arms, made by the late Mr. Joseph Foster. An Introduction is prefixed from the pen of Mr. W. Harry Rylands, F.S.A., whose work for the Harleian Society is so well known, and the editing of the volume has been undertaken by Mr. Everard Green, F.S.A., Somerset Herald. Mr. Rylands devotes some space to the consideration of the question as to whether there was a Visitation of Lincolnshire in 1681-3, and invites the assistance of antiquaries to make search for this manuscript, which is believed to have been among the heraldic books improperly sold by the sons-in-law of Sir Henry St. George, Garter, to the Earl of Egmont and afterwards preserved at Enmore Castle, co. Somerset.

In no case do the descents contained in the Visitation of 1666 include more than four or five generations, but its publication will be greatly appreciated, for much information is supplied by the Heralds' Visitations which often cannot be elsewhere obtained, such, for instance, as the names of the wives, always a difficulty in tracing pedigrees. In many cases the families whose pedigrees are here recorded had not long been settled in the County; the Barnwells of Stamford and the Bury of Grantham came from Rutlandshire, the Christophers of Heckington from Worcestershire, the Dynhams and Honywoods from Kent, and the Winstanleys of Lincoln from Berwick-on-Tweed. The Syleurs, originally of Dorsetshire, acquired their Lincolnshire property shortly before the date of the Visitation by marriage with a co-heir of the Whincupps of Morton. Erasmus de Ligne of Harlaxton was grandson of a German, Anthony de Ligne, whose son, Sir Daniel de Ligne, was the first to take up his abode in Lincolnshire.

The Visitation contains seventy-seven pedigrees; in thirty-five cases the arms are given in trick, the remaining forty-two families are without heraldic insignia, but it by no means follows that they were not entitled to coat armour, for the heralds probably intended to insert the blazon on their return to London. Among those left without arms are two baronets, Sir William Hickman of Gainsborough and Sir Richard Rothwell of Stapleford and Ewerby, and also the Welbys of Denton, who were descended from an ancient Lincolnshire stock.

Notices of Books.

(2) The Parish Registers of Grantham, 1562-1632. The earliest volume of these registers has been edited by the Rev. Canon C. W. Foster, the Hon. Secretary of the Society, and an Introduction has been written by the Rev. Gilbert G. Walker, Rector of Somerby. In his Preface Mr. Foster describes the condition of the registers and gives particulars as to the leaves which are missing. Fortunately these gaps have for the most part been supplied from the episcopal transcripts at Lincoln, which have been collated with the registers throughout, and where they vary the differences of reading have been indicated. The transcripts have also been of great use in determining the correct date of many of the entries which are doubtful in the registers owing to the disappearance of some of the headlines in the columns. Mr. Walker's historical Introduction deals with the foundation of the two prebends of North and South Grantham in Salisbury Cathedral out of the endowments of the church and the subsequent establishment of two vicarages for the parish in 1223. Some account is also given of the clergy who held these preferments during the period of this first book of the registers. Many entries are to be found in the registers relating to the neighbouring gentry and Mr. Walker supplies some interesting notes concerning the following families settled in the town: Archer, Audley, Bury, Fisher, Hall, More, Osland, Primmitt, Still, Walgrave and Wilkinson. Members of several of these families represented the borough in Parliament, and from the Stills was descended Dr. John Still, Bishop of Bath and Wells 1593-1608, who was born at Grantham in 1543.

The Parish Registers of Alford and Rigsby, 1538-1680.—These registers have been edited by the Rev. Reginald Charles Dudding, Rector of Saleby, who has also written an Introduction to the volume. As in the case of Grantham, the episcopal transcripts have been used to supply missing portions of the registers, and this work has been done by Canon Foster. One volume has been lost since about 1753, so that the period 1654-1678 is printed entirely from the transcripts, and nearly all the registers of the hamlet and chapelry of Rigsby with Ailby have disappeared before 1686, the transcripts having again been used to supply the whole of the entries here printed, 1561-1679. Among the Alford families mentioned by Mr. Dudding in his Introduction are the Hutchinsons, whose history will be of much interest to genealogists on the other side of the Atlantic, for Edward and William Hutchinson of Alford emigrated to America in 1633-4, and Thomas Hutchinson, a descendant of William, was Governor of Massachusetts. Other families of interest are the Tothbys or Touthebys, who throughout these registers are nearly always styled "armiger," and held an influential position in the parish for many generations; the Christophers, to whom the Tothbys sold their estate after the Civil War, and the Saundersons, to which last family belonged Sir Nicholas Saunderson who was created a baronet in 1611 and raised to the Irish peerage as Viscount Castleton in 1627. His son Thomas was buried at Alford in 1611, and there are many entries in the registers relating to Caesar Saunderson, who is stated by Mr. Dudding to have been his nephew.

(2) The Parish Registers of Grantham, 1533-1632. The earliest volume of these registers has been edited by the Rev. Canon G. W. Foster, the Hon. Secretary of the Society, and an introduction has been written by the Rev. Gilbert G. Walker, Rector of Somersby. In his Preface Mr. Foster describes the condition of the registers and gives particulars as to the leaves which are missing. Fortunately these gaps have for the most part been supplied from the episcopal transcripts at Lincoln, which have been collated with the registers throughout, and where they vary the difference of reading have been indicated. The transcripts have also been of great use in determining the correct date of many of the entries which are doubtful in the registers owing to the disappearance of some of the headings in the columns. Mr. Walker's historical introduction deals with the foundation of the two parishes of North and South Grantham in Salisbury Cathedral out of the endowments of the church and the subsequent establishment of two vicarages for the parish in 1533. Some account is also given of the clergy who held these parishes during the period of this first book of the registers. Many entries are to be found in the registers relating to the neighbouring parishes and Mr. Walker supplies some interesting notes concerning the following families settled in the town: Archer, Andley, Bury, Fisher, Hall, Hale, More, Oland, Primmit, Sell, Walgrave and Wilkinson. Members of several of these families represented the borough in Parliament, and from the Stills was descended Dr. John Stills Bishop of Bath and Wells 1583-1608, who was born at Grantham in 1517.

The Parish Registers of Alford and Hissby, 1533-1630.—These registers have been edited by the Rev. Reginald Charles Dudding, Rector of Salaby, who has also written an introduction to the volume. As in the case of Grantham, the episcopal transcripts have been used to supply missing portions of the registers, and this work has been done by Canon Foster. One volume has been lost since about 1753, so that the period 1534-1678 is printed entirely from the transcripts, and nearly all the registers in the parish and chapelry of Hissby with Alford have disappeared before 1630, the transcripts having again been used to supply the whole of the entries here printed, 1581-1678. Other families of interest are the Totpops or Totpops, who throughout these registers are nearly always styled "stranger," and held an influential position in the parish for many generations; the Christophers, to whom the Totpops sold their estate after the Civil War, and the Sandersons, to which that family belonged Sir Nicholas Sanderson as who was created a baronet in 1611 and raised to the Irish peerage in 1611, and there are many entries in the registers relating to George Sanderson, who is stated by Mr. Dudding to have been his nephew.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF DUMFRIES. By Robert Edgar. Now published for the first time. Edited with an introduction and extensive annotations by R. C. Reid. Dumfries (J. Maxwell & Sons).

This volume appears to be the first of The Records of the Western Marches, published under the auspices of the Dumfriesshire and Galloway Natural History and Antiquarian Society. The "Introduction" is printed from a copy made by Robert Riddell of Glenriddell in 1791, the original written by Edgar about 1746 having disappeared. Very little has hitherto been published in regard to Dumfries or Dumfriesshire, while many burghs and counties of Scotland have received the attention of certain Societies. For Dumfriesshire the Scottish Record and History Societies have given some useful material from which to work and the Ayrshire and Galloway Archaeological Association has also helped. The interest in Edgar's "Introduction" lies in his description of his native town as it was in his time, and of the burgh officials, about some of whom he complains bitterly, the Editor thinks unjustly. To the inhabitants of Dumfries Edgar's work should chiefly appeal, but to a wider circle Mr. Reid's "Notes" will be found to contain much more valuable information towards a complete history of this burgh. The frontispiece is a reproduction of a Feu Charter, dated 1453, from the Register House, Edinburgh. There is an excellent index and at the end are chart pedigrees of the families of Corsane of Meikle Knox; Crosbie of Dulcettis and Holm; Cunynghame of Conbeath, Woodhall and Dumfries; Gledstones of Over Kelwood and Craigs; Hairstanes of Craig's; Halyday of Tullieboyle; Johnstone of Elschieshields; Macbrair of Almagill and Netherwood; Rig of Dumfries and Rig of Carberry and Athernie. The Editor's "Notes" which follow the "Introduction" occupy about two-thirds of a good-sized volume and are very well arranged.

RECORDS OF THE WIGHTMAN FAMILY. By Bryan Panson. (Printed at the Author's private press, 1917.) Illustrated, 4to.

This volume is handsomely printed and bound, and it bears evidence of the expense of much thought, time and patience; but there is something wanting in the result of the author's effort. The historian of a family should know all that has already been revealed about it. Several persons have spent energy and time over this enquiry in the past; the author quotes from some and not from others. Similarly he has made use of some probate registries and not others. He gives extracts from wills at Somerset House, Ipswich, Lichfield and Leicester, but makes no mention of those at York and Lincoln. He quotes from the church register books at Hinckley, Burbage and Framlingham, but he ignores the registers at East Stoke, co. Notts, whose testimony is very important. As to the Heralds' Visitations there are notable differences between the records known as Harleian MS. 1082, 1400 and 1555. By means of wills and parish registers some of the omissions can be supplied and the errors corrected. No attempt has been made to reconcile these differences.

Other investigators have not been able to identify Samuel Wightman, the third son of George Wightman and Margaret [Starkey] with Samuel Wightman of Framlingham. The author accepts the identity, but gives no proof of it.

In consequence of his omission to consult the wills at York the author has fallen into a serious error. In 1672 died William Wightman of East Stoke. Administration of his goods was granted to his widow Frances Wightman. In 1684-5 Frances died. Administration of her goods was granted to her brother Francis Clarke, who was appointed trustee and guardian of her five infant children. These were named. There was no son named Hugh. The church registers at Stoke record the baptisms of the five children—Richard, William, Frances, John and Anna—and thus corroborate the testimony of the will. The author, however, makes Hugh Weightman of Norwell one of William Wightman's sons, unless the omission of the line of descent is an indication of his doubt.

We hope that Mr. Tanson will revise his work after consulting more wills and registers. Some more information about the grants of arms would be of interest.

GUIA DE LA GRANDEZA FOR 1917. By Don Juan Moreno de Guerra. 49, Calle Santa Engraria, Madrid (12 pesetas 50 centimos).

It is now nearly a century since genealogists have had a biographical account of the Grantees of Spain, for it was then that Don Jeronimo de Zuñiga's Annual, started in 1788, ceased publication, and yet the Grandee of Spain occupies a position in the Nobility of Europe that finds its nearest parallel in the smaller quasi-independent German Princes. Their coronet is a closed one, which by itself would place them almost on an equality with royalty. However much a grandee may have proved his right and title he or she can never be regarded as having taken complete possession until he has attended the ceremony of "cobratura" or covered himself officially in the King's presence, and she has taken the "almohada" or seated herself in the tabouret in the presence of the Queen, ceremonies which take place as a general rule once in every three years. The husband of a lady who is a grandee in her own right only enjoys the rights and privileges of a grandee during his wife's life if he has attended the "cobratura," in which case he is allowed to retain them after her death until he has forfeited them by remarriage. The grandee has many substantial privileges. Thus he can give evidence in a criminal prosecution, or in a civil suit, in his own house instead of in open court; he occupies the post of honour in churches, processions, or in official ceremonies; he cannot be imprisoned for any debt except those that arise from a criminal sentence or arrears of royal taxes; he is exempted from several forms of taxation; he is in some respects treated as a relative of the King's, who invariably addresses him as "My Cousin." His greatest GUIA DE LA GRANDEZA POR 1917. By Don Juan Moreno de Guerra. 40, Calle Santa Engracia, Madrid (12 pesetas 50 centimos).

It is now nearly a century since genealogists have had a biographical account of the Grandaes of Spain, for it was then that Don Jerónimo de Kallig's Annual, started in 1788, ceased publication, and yet the Grandaes of Spain occupies a position in the nobility of Europe that finds its nearest parallel in the smaller quasi-independent German Princes. Their coronet is a closed one, which by itself would place them almost on an equality with royalty. However much a grandee may have proved his right and title he or she can never be regarded as having taken complete possession until he has attended the ceremony of "cobertura," or covered himself officially in the King's presence, and she has taken the "almohada" or seated herself in the rebozo in the presence of the Queen, ceremonies which take place as a grandee rules once in every three years. The husband of a lady who is a grandee in her own right only enjoys the rights and privileges of a grandee during his wife's life if he has attended the "cobertura," in which case he is allowed to retain them after her death until he has forfeited them by remarriage. The grandee has many substantial privileges. Thus he can give evidence in a criminal prosecution, or in a civil suit, in his own house instead of in open court; he occupies the post of honour in church processions, or in official ceremonies; he cannot be imprisoned for any debt except those that arise from a criminal sentence or arrears of royal taxes; he is exempted from several forms of taxation; he is in some respects treated as a relative of the King, who invariably addresses him as "My Cousin." His greatest political privilege is that of a seat for life in the Senate which has been limited by recent legislation to those Spanish citizens who enjoy an annual income of more than 60,000 pesetas a year arising out of real estate.

In 1520 there were no more than twenty-five grandees of Spain, and these were divided into grandees of the First, Second and Third Class; but all grandees are now of the First Class, whilst their numbers have increased from 25 to 320 in 1917. The dignity is not only borne by Spaniards but by foreigners of distinction, so much so that three British subjects and seven French citizens have vindicated their right to be Spanish grandees. A great many more Frenchmen could vindicate their right if they were ready to face the trouble and expense involved, for it is a very costly business unless the candidate whose immediate forbears have failed to claim the position is prepared for endless delay. Otherwise he must needs face no less than three tribunals, each one of which may argue in favour of rehabilitation, which is a far more expensive process than direct succession, and may even suggest his paying the fees which each of his ancestors have omitted to discharge.

This work, which now appears for the first time, ought to be encouraged if for no other reason because the author has decided to give in the 1918 edition a genealogical account of each grandee and shew how the title has passed in the female line from one family to the other, for each grandeeship descends in the absence of male to female descendants. Thus only two of the original grandeeships still belong to the family to which they were conceded in 1520. Then again the first edition of a Spanish genealogical work is bound to rise very materially in value. A great Spanish genealogist died two years ago. His work was selling at the time of his death at 120 pesetas, a slight reduction on the published price. On his death a speculator purchased all the unsold copies and has already managed to raise the price to 300 pesetas. This edition must soon be exhausted as it is limited to 400 copies.

For the first edition of a new work this "Guia" is remarkably free from mistakes. There are naturally some, of which the most are misprints; but it is extremely probable that the majority of these will have disappeared by 1918.

ELEANOR FERRERS, COUNTESS OF WINCHESTER, WIDOW OF ROGER DE LEYBURN.—The Bulletin Monumental, 7e série, tom. I, 1896 (pp. 181-4) has an article, "Tombe plate du xiii^e Siècle," by Monsieur J. A. Brutails, which may have escaped the notice of English genealogists. Notes and Queries.

ELIZABETH FRANKS, Countess of Winchester, widow of Roger de Leyburn.—The Bulletin Monumental for série tom. I. 1896 (pp. 181-4) has an article, "Tombe plate du XIII^e Siècle," by Monsieur J. A. Brébaut, which may have escaped the notice of English genealogists. The author identifies as probably that of the (second) wife of Roger de Leyburn (d. 1371), a remarkable sepulchral slab figuring a nude woman, the lower portion of whose body is covered by an escutcheon charged with six lioncels, 3, 2 and 1. The slab, split across, worn and mutilated at the edges, was discovered in the arrondissement of Bordeaux, at the farm of Cassecrabey, near Créon and the Benedictine monastery of La Sauve Majeure. The inscription runs: Hic: iacet: dni: rot . . . de Liborna: milit: obiit: quart: id: octob: anno: dni: M.CC.LXV: aīa: ei: req. . . escat: in: pace. From the collotype reproduction accompanying M. Brutails' note it might, apparently, be possible to restore a portion of the lettering following the first two words. Fortunately the last two numerals of the year are not above suspicion and appear to have been tampered with. Eleanor's second husband Roger de Quincy, Earl of Winchester, died in 1264 (25, iv), and the date of her third marriage, as of her death, is unrecorded: in 1267 she is, however, mentioned as wife of Roger de Leyburn (Rot. Claus. 51 Hen. III). A definitive publication of the slab is much to be desired.

AN EARLY CERTIFICATE OF BANNS, c. 1549.—The following Certificate of Banns must be a very early surviving instance of its kind. It is written on the flyleaf of a book (Qq. 5. 4) in the library of St. John's College, Cambridge, viz., a copy of Ludolfus Carthusiensis, in Psalterium expositio, published at Lyons by Jean Moylin, alias de Cambray, in 1518. The handwriting of the Certificate belongs to the sixteenth century, and its approximate date is fixed by a note in the same hand on the verso of the flyleaf, which records the committal of the Duke of Somerset to the Tower in October 1549. How a Certificate came to be written on a flyleaf of a book can only be conjectured. The parishes concerned, St. Benet Fink and St. Alphege, were both in London, and the Curate of St. Benet's may have been lending his Ludolfus to his neighbour, and have taken the opportunity to save the sheet of paper required by the Certificate. Parish registers, which seem to be referred to in the closing paragraph, were ordered to be kept by the Second Injunctions of Henry VIII in 1538, to which date, I believe, the Registers of St. Benet Fink reach back.

The slab, split across, worn and mutilated at the edges, was discovered in the attendance of Bonaventura, in the form of a manuscript, near Oron and the Benedictine monastery of La Sainte Majesté. The inscription runs: Wic. nec. dat. de laboribus; wic. obit. From the colotype reproduction accompanying M. Brébaut's note it might be possible to restore a portion of the lettering following the first two words. Fortunately the last two numerals of the year are not above suspicion and appear to have been tampered with. Eleanor's second husband Roger de Quincy, Earl of Winchester, died in 1201 (25, iv), and the date of her third marriage, as of her death, is unrecorded: in 1287 she is, however, mentioned as wife of Roger de Pesham (Rot. Claus. 61 Hen. III). A definitive publication of the slab is much to be desired.

AN EARLY CERTIFICATE OF Banns, c. 1510.—The following Certificate of Banns must be a very early surviving instance of its kind. It is written on the flyleaf of a book (Op. 5, 4) in the library of St. John's College, Cambridge, viz., a copy of Andreas Carmentarius, in Frenchman's script, published at Lyons by Jean Molin, alias de Cambray, in 1518. The handwriting of the Certificate belongs to the sixteenth century, and its approximate date is fixed by a note in the same hand on the verso of the flyleaf, which records the commitment of the Duke of Somerset to the Tower in October 1510. How a Certificate came to be written on a flyleaf of a book can only be conjectured. The parishes concerned, St. Benet Fink and St. Alphage, were both in London, and the Curate of St. Benet's may have been lending his luculus to his neighbor, and have taken the opportunity to save the sheet of paper required by the Certificate. French registers, which seem to be referred to in the closing paragraph, were ordered to be kept by the Second Injunctions of Henry VIII in 1533 to which date, I believe, the Register of St. Benet Fink must date.

LADY MARY GREY.—Among the Administrations in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury (The Genealogist, Supplement to N.S., vol. xxxii, p. 107, October 1915) occurs the following :—

1578, Dec. 1. Lady Mary Graye, St. Botolph without Aldersgate (London), to Christopher Chewte, of Hillmorton, co. Warw., gent.

In Notes and Queries, 8th series, vi, p. 301, the late Mr. W. Loftie Rutton, F.S.A., contributed an article on the Lady Mary Grey alias Keys, and gave a copy of her last will and testament. He remarked, "In this copy of the will the signature of the testatrix is not transcribed; the existence of the original is very questionable." The reference to this copy is Lansdowne MSS., xxvii, 31, British Museum. It is dated 17 April 1578; Lady Mary died 20 April following.

Some five years ago I bought of Messrs. Maggs Bros. a receipt signed by "Mary Greye," on the Feast of St. Michael 1574, for half year's rent, £8 7s. 6d., from her tenant Christopher Chowt, for the "whoale p'snage of hillmorton," in the county of Warwick.

The name C. Chowt and date 1553 is cut on the south side of the east window of Beauchamp Tower immediately below that of Jhon Seymor (see Arch. Cant., xviii, p. 56, footnote).

1573, April 26, Acts of the Privy Council, there is reference to Christopher Chute, "who remaine upon the coast under pretence to have the leading of Soldiours."

LADY MARY GREY.—Among the Administrators in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury (The Genealogist, Supplement to N.S., vol. xxii, p. 107, October 1916) occurs the following:—

1578; Dec. 1. Lady Mary Grey, St. Botolph without Aldersgate (London), to Christopher Chowt, of Hillmorton, co. Warwick, gent.

In Notes and Queries, 8th series, vi, p. 301, the late Mr. W. Loftie Ratten, F.S.A., contributed an article on the Lady Mary Grey who Keys, and gave a copy of her last will and testament. SCHONBERG AND DROGEMER FAMILIES (The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxiii, pp. 251, 252).—

St. James, Westminster.

1692, Ap. 20. Rap. Mary Schonberg, dau. of Meinhardt, and Caroline, duke and duchess of Lüneburg; born 16 March.

(In the special licence issued by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 1716-17, Jan. 31, she is described as Lady Mary Schonburg, and her husband as Christopher Martin, Count Degenfeld, both, of St. James, Westminster.)

St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.

1717, Dec. 3. Rap. Wilhelmus Ludov. Louis, dau. of Christopher Martin Count of Degenfeld, and Mary Countess of Degenfeld; born 4 Nov.

1718-19, Jan. 5. Rap. Elizabeth Dorothea Degenfeld, dau. of Christopher Martin, Earl of Degenfeld, and Countess Mary of Schonburg, his wife; born 1 Dec.

These extracts were supplied to the writer by the late Colonel Chester. For the parentage of the wife of the third Duke of Schomberg, who was daughter (not widow as in the pedigree) of Baron Degenfeldt, see note "b" in Complete Peerage, vol. vii, p. 82, and note "c," which is referred to in vol. viii, p. 508.

We find also in the above St. James' register, Martha, dau. of Adam and Hannah Schonbergh, born 30 July, bapt. 1 Aug. 1745; and in that of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, John, son of John and Dorothy Schomberg, bapt. 6 Aug. 1752. Who were these?

Mr. Vicary Gibbs writes:—"Schomberg was presumably offered a Barony of Tetford in 1673 if he would take command of the troops intended for the invasion of Holland, but he appears to have declined to enter the English service, preferring employment under the French King."

JOHN STOW THE ANTIQUARY.—The connection of Stow's family with the parish of St. Michael, Cornhill, appears to have been a close one. Thomas Stowe, his grandfather, citizen and tallow-chandler, by will dat. Dec. 31, 1526, and proved in the Consistory Court, April 4, 1527, directs to be buried "in the litell grene churchyarde (of St. Michael's) between the Crosse and the churche wall, nigh the wall as may be, by my father and mother, syster and brothers and allso my owne childerne." He mentions his wife Elizabeth, son Thomas, "the vij altars in the church," and gives a bequest for a "wacchyng candell to burn."

Thomas, the father of the Chronicler, was also citizen and tallow-chandler. His will, proved 1559, is at fo. 84 register "post mortem Poli," now most improperly transferred from Lambeth Palace to Canterbury. He directs to be buried in the paved church yard of St. Michael's "nexte the sowthe dore" of the church. He mentions his wife Elizabeth and eldest son John. "At my buriall but one houres knill with the mary bell and three peales with all the belles to geve warning when the corpes shall come to churche." The church-wardens' accounts reveal that the Stow family supplied candles and lamp oil for the church and that in 1559 they received of Mrs. Stow "for here husbandes grave in the cloyster, ijs."

EDMUND HALLEY, THE ASTRONOMER. (The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxv, p. 8).—In the printed register of the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster, there occurs a marriage, Sept. 9, 1656, between Edmund Halley, Salter, and Anne Robinson, spinster, "both of this parish." Can these be the parents of the Astronomer, who, however, was born not many weeks after that date?

J. CHALLENGOR SMITH.

These extracts were supplied to the writer by the late Colonel Chamber. For the parentage of the wife of the third Duke of Schomberg, who was daughter (not widow as in the pedigree) of Baron Degenfeld, see note "d" in Complete Peerage, vol. vii, p. 82, and note "e," which is referred to in vol. viii, p. 508.

We find also in the above St. James' register, Martin, dau. of Adam and Hannah Schomberg, born 30 July, bapt. 1 Aug. 1716; and in that of St. Giles-in-the-Fields, John, son of John and Dorothy Schomberg, bapt. 8 Aug. 1722. Who were these?

Mr. Vicary Gibbs writes:—"Schomberg was presumably offered a Barony of Telford in 1673 if he would take command of the troops intended for the invasion of Holland, but he appears to have declined to enter the English service, preferring employment under the French King."

A.S.

JOHN STOW THE ANTIQUARY.—The connection of Stow's family with the parish of St. Michael, Cornhill, appears to have been a close one. Thomas Stow, his grandfather, citizen and tallow-chandler, by will dat. Dec. 31, 1526, and proved in the Consistory Court, April 4, 1527, directs to be buried "in the little green churchyard (of St. Michael's) between the Cross and the church wall, nigh the wall as may be, by my father and mother, sister and brother and also my own children." He mentions his wife Elizabeth, son Thomas, "the vij ankers in the church," and gives a bequest for a "wacchynge candle to burn."

Thomas, the father of the Chamberlain, was also citizen and tallow-chandler. His will, proved 1533, is at St. 81 register "post mortem 1534," now most imperfectly translated from Latin into French to "John." He directs to be buried in the paved church yard of St. Michael's, "next to the south door" of the church. He mentions his wife Elizabeth and eldest son John. "At my buriall but one honest knell with the mary bell and three beates with all the belles to give warninge when the corpes shall come to church." The churchwardens' accounts reveal that the Stow family supplied candles and lamp oil for the church and that in 1559 they received of Mrs. Stow "for here husbandes grave in the cloyster, iij s."

EDMUND HALEY, THE ASTRONOMER. (The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxv, p. 8).—In the printed register of the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster, there occurs a marriage, Sept. 3, 1686, between Edmund Haley, Bachelor, and Anne Robinson, spinster, "both of this parish." Can these be the parents of the Astronomer who, however, was born not many weeks after that date?

THOROLD DE NEVILL.

By CANON E. R. NEVILL, F.R.Hist.Soc.

Thorold de Nevill is one of those interesting people as to whose antecedents and descendants one would gladly know more. I have been collecting notes for a long time about him. Mr. Chatterton has helped me very much with extracts from works on Yorkshire, especially the account in the Yorks Archaeological Journal, and I have added somewhat. Writing in New Zealand, at such a great distance from the Record Office, I should be very grateful if readers of The Genealogist could supplement my information. The journal says, "According to a Kirkstead charter Thorold had a son Richard who probably held lands in Lincoln and in 1165 he gave account of 20 m. de misericordia & paid 7 marks. (Pipe Rolls 11-12 Hen. II.)"

Before 1189 he gave 2/- rent in Dunham, co. Linc., to Barlings Abbey (Mon. Ang., 6,915).

Circa 1160-78 he was one of the jury consisting of the principal men of the district mentioned in the charter of Torphin de Alvestain relating to the boundaries of the Waste below Pickering (Rievaulx Charters, Surtees Soc., 83, 135). He was also one of the 12 Knights mentioned in Roger de Mowbray's statement relating to the settlement of a dispute between Alan de Ridale and the Convent of Rievaulx and Roger their patron, which was settled by wager of battle (Ibid., 111, 112), and was witness to a charter of Ranulf fitz Walter confirming land and pasture rights granted by his father in Folkton to Rievaulx Abbey. Geoffrey de Nevill and Ralph his brother witnessed the same charter. (Ibid., 117.) Also Thorold and Thomas his son were witnesses to a charter of Alard de Willerby granting three acres and a half of meadow in Willerby to Rievaulx, the said charter being sealed by Gregory,¹ Prior of Bridlington (Ibid., 107).

The lands that Thorold seems to have held were Dunham, co. Linc., Pickering and Willerby near Hunmanby; and according to the Kirkstead charters his wife's name was Helena. By the same charters "Thomas son of Thorold de Nevill gave pasture for 160 sheep in Willardby, the Canons paying him and his heirs 2/- per annum, which annual rent Eustace de Nevill remitted to them."

The journal does not give the authority for William being the son of Thomas, but I suppose the descent of the lands implies it.

In 1236 William de Nevill of Kalthorn gave two oxgangs with a toft in Willardby to Bridlington Priory (Burton's Mon. Ebor., 243). In 1238 Sibilla widow of William de Nevill of Kalthorne quitclaimed her right of dower in 5 oxgangs and 2 tofts with turbary, meadows,

THOROLD DE NEVILL.

By CANON E. R. NEVILLE, F.R.Hist.Soc.

Thorold de Nevill is one of those interesting people as to whose antecedents and descendants one would gladly know more. I have been collecting notes for a long time about him. Mr. Chatterton has helped me very much with extracts from works on Yorkshire, especially the account in the York Archaeological Journal, and I have added somewhat. Writing in New Zealand, at such a great distance from the Record Office, I should be very grateful if readers of The Genealogist could supplement my information. The journal says, "According to a Kirkstead charter Thorold had a son Richard who probably held lands in Lincoln and in 1105 he gave account of 20 m. of misericordia & paid 7 marks. (Pipe Rolls 11-12 Hen. II.)."

Before 1180 he gave 2/- rent in Dunham, co. Lanc., to Barlings Abbey (Mon. Rec., 6912).

Given 1160-78 he was one of the jury consisting of the principal men of the district mentioned in the charter of Thorold de Alveston relating to the boundaries of the Waste below Pickering (Rievaulx Charters, Sauters Ser., 23, 130). He was also one of the 12 knights mentioned in Roger de Mowbray's statement relating to the settlement of a dispute between Alan de Ridale and the Convent of Rievaulx and Roger their patron, which was settled by wager of battle (ibid., 111, 112) and was witness to a charter of Ranulf fitz Walter confirming land and pasture rights granted by his father in Folketon to Rievaulx Abbey. Geoffrey de Nevill and Ralph his brother witnessed the same charter. (ibid., 117). Also Thorold and Thomas his son were witnesses to a charter of Ailard de Wilberby granting three acres and a half of meadow in Wilberby to Rievaulx, the said charter being sealed by Geoffrey, Prior of Bridlington (ibid., 107).

The lands that Thorold seems to have held were Dunham, co. Lanc., Pickering and Wilberby near Humberby; and according to the Kirkstead charters his wife's name was Helena. By the same charters "Thomas son of Thorold de Nevill gave pasture for 180 sheep in Wilberby, the Canon paying him and his heirs 2/- per annum, which annual rent Helene de Nevill rented to them."

The journal does not give the ancestry for William being the son of Thomas, but I suppose the descent of the lands implies it.

In 1230 William de Nevill of Kaintborne gave two oxgangs with a toll in Wilberby to Baldington Priory (Barton's Mon. Rec., 243). In 1238 Sibilla widow of William de Nevill of Kaintborne quitclaimed her right of dower in 3 oxgangs and 2 cottis with turpary meadows, pastures, etc., in Willardby, which William her husband had given to the Priory until Eustace her son should come of age (Ibid., 245).

Eustace son of William de Nevill confirmed his father's gifts to the Priory and quitclaimed 1 m. for 3 oxgangs and a toft likewise given by his father, and gave annual rent of viiid out of 1 oxgang and 1 toft in Willardby. He was a witness to two Whitby charters with Richard de Percy of Dunesley and Alan de Everley about 1270. (Whitby Charters, Surtees Soc., 72, pp. 393, 450.)

1284. Calthorne. W^m de Nevill holds 1 carucate and 2 bovates of land of John son and heir of Baldwin Wake. (Kirkby's Inq., Surtees Soc., 49, p. 143.)

1284-5. Newton in Pickering (near Cawthorn). Reyner de Nevill holds 1 carucate of land of Roger Bygott, which Roger holds of the King for $\frac{1}{2}$ of a fee and which W^m de Halton holds of the said Reyner. (Ibid., 143.)

1284-5. Wilton and Yedingham in Pickering. Peter de Nevill holds in Wilton 5 bovates of land of W^m de Brus of the fee of Roger Bygott. (Ibid., 142.)

1303. Calthorn. W^m de Nevill holds 2 carucates of land for $\frac{1}{4}$ of a fee of Joan Wake (widow of John). (Knight's Fees in co. York, Surtees Soc., 49, 240.)

Evidently these were Stuteville lands, as Roger Bygod and the Wakes were both descended from Joan Stuteville the heiress. William de Nevill has a wife Amabella. (De Banco, 35 Ed. I, Roll 1, and Eustace is mentioned in Roll 10.)

Eustace son of William also occurs in the Patent Rolls of 1312, with lands at Wilardby. Confirmation of Grant and Insuperimus by Eustace, son of William de Nevill, of rent, homage and service of W^m Leke of Nonington for a bovat and toft in Wilardby. Robert of Calthorne and his wife Amabella come in Coram Rege Roll 46, Hilary, 12 Ed. II, (1318) m. 94 d.

Another Coram Rege Roll of 1336 gives Robert of Cathune (sic) with lands in Spoffurd and Braham, which Richard de Swynton gave (m. 228) and Cl. Roll, Hilary 9 Ed. III. Ebor. (m. 436).

There is also another line which I have tried to affiliate. This line begins with Peter who is said to have been a grandson of Thorold's, and who also holds in Wylton.

1233. Close Roll, 17 Hen. III, m. 9. Mandate to Brian de Insula that without delay Peter de Nevill shall have "custom quod posuit in dominico de Pickering"—and don't let the King have any more complaints.

1248. Coram Rege Roll 67. Matilda, widow of Roger de Clere claimed against Peter de Nevill $\frac{1}{2}$ part of 5 bovates and 3 messuages in Wilton as her dower, and Peter came and called to warranty, etc.

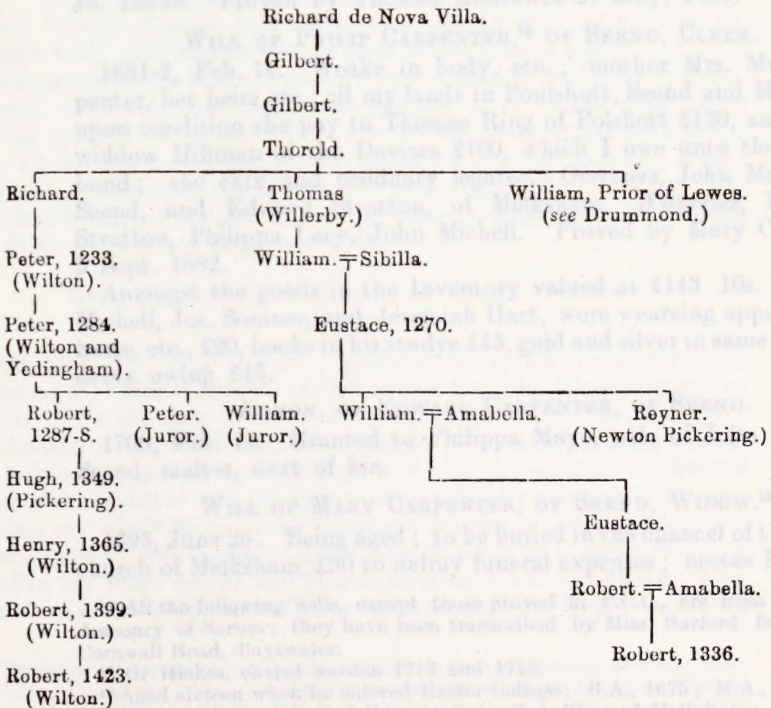

1284 (Kirkby's Quest, p. 142). Peter de Nevill held land in Wylton of William de Brus, and he of Roger Bygott.

This, I think, was Peter junior, as the other Peter was apparently flourishing in 1233.

He is succeeded by Robert. (Assize Roll 7, 16 Ed. I, Ebor.) Robert de Nevill of Wylton in Pickering Lythe Manor.

In 1314 an Inquest is taken to enquire what lands William de Vescey held of the King in capite in the Wapentake of Pickering. Jurors, Peter de Nevill, William de Nevill. (Percy Chartulary, 220.) In 1349, Coram Rege Roll 86, 22 Ed. III, we get Hugh de Nevill as a late Bailiff of Pickering, and he is followed by Henry Nevill of Wylton in a De Banco Roll of 1365 and 1366, and he again by a Robert Nevill of Wylton in Pickering Lythe in a Coram Rege Roll of 1 Hen. IV, m. 1, pt. ii. Robert Nevyle gentylman of Wilton in Pickering Lythe comes in a De Banco Roll of 9 Hen. V, and again in another De Banco Roll of 1423, on account of £20 worth of trees cut down at Bagby.

I subjoin a tentative pedigree, which I hope other and nearer workers will be able to expand and, if necessary, correct.

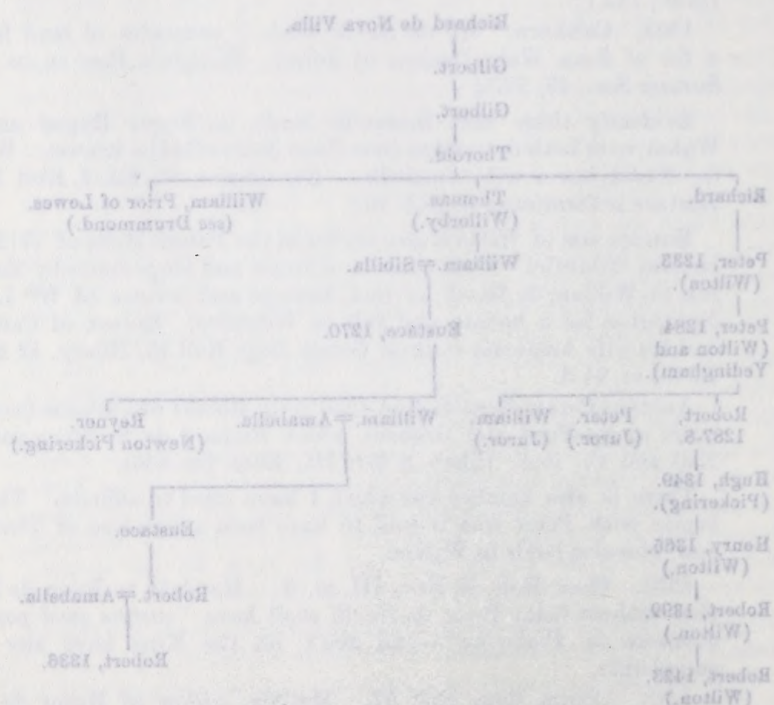

This I think was Peter junior, as the other Peter was apparently flourishing in 1233.

He is succeeded by Robert. (Assise Roll 7, 10 Ed. I, Ebor.) Robert de Nevill of Wythson in Pickering Lythe Manor.

In 1314 an Inquest is taken to enquire what lands William de Vesey held of the King in capite in the Wapentake of Pickering. Juries Peter de Nevill, William de Nevill. (Percy Chancery, 320). In 1343, Coram Rege Roll 86, 23 Ed. III, we get Hugh de Nevill as a late Bailiff of Pickering, and he is followed by Henry Nevill of Wythson in the Banco Roll of 1365 and 1366, and he again by a Robert Nevill of Wythson in Pickering Lythe in a Coram Rege Roll of 1 Hen. IV, m. 1, p. ii. Robert Nevill's gentleman of Wythson in Pickering Lythe comes in a De Banco Roll of 2 Hen. V, and again in another De Banco Roll of 1423, on account of £20 worth of trees cut down at Hagby.

I subjoin a tentative pedigree, which I hope other and nearer workers will be able to expand and, if necessary, correct.

EXTRACTS FROM DUNTROON PAPERS.

Contributed by HERBERT CAMPBELL.

The following amendments and additions to the above (ante, pp. 65-73) should be noted :—

No. 1. The pursuer was the fiar of Arichonan, not Colin Campbell. I examined this document immediately after No. 6, which no doubt accounts for this piece of carelessness on my part.

No. 9. Ardmore is now verified as Ardgour.

No. 11. Locheil's name is Ewin, not Colin. It is badly written; but the fact can be verified from other sources. Also, McArthur's servitor here appears as Gillecreist McNakard; and as a further examination of Nos. 10, 11 and 13 confirms this, we may accept it. In No. 9 it is fairly clearly written as Gillebert. I can only suppose that McArthur wrote this absent-mindedly.

No. 38. Donald Campbell, cousin german of Niall of Duntroon, could not write, so his deed is attested by two notaries. But I have just discovered, tucked away in a corner, the signature of John Campbell, son of the said Donald, added as a further guarantee; and on comparing this with the signature of John Campbell, surgeon in Greenock in No. 45, the two are found to be by the same hand. I had, as a matter of fact, recently deduced this identity from other evidence.

No. 40. Niall McNeill in Castlesween is referred to in one place in this Contract as the bride's stepfather. As this only occurs some way down and in the midst of legal verbiage of a kind common to such contracts, which I had merely skimmed through to make sure there were no unusual conditions, I missed it, but have now just discovered it by chance.

(SECOND BUNDLE.)

1. Assignment, dated at Edinburgh 7 Aug. 1701, by Mungo Campbell of Burnbank to Patrick Campbell of Duntroon of an apprising of all the lands of Duntroon (the names of which are sadly mutilated by the Lowland scribe), the said apprising having been obtained as follows :

On 5 July 1645 Archibald, Marquess of Argyll, as principal, and Sir Donald Campbell of Ardnachurchan, knight, Colin C. of Strachur, Archibald C. of Otter, Duncan C. of Duntroon,¹¹ Archibald C., Captain of Dunstaffnage, Hector MacAllister of Loup and Malcolm MacNaughton of Dundaraw, as cautioners, gave a bond for 17,000 merks (borrowed by the said Marquess from Sir Archibald C., brother german of Sir

¹¹ From which it is clear that Duncan C. of Duntroon was not killed at the Battle of Inverlochy, as has sometimes been thought.

James C. of Lawers at Whitsunday 1645) in favour of Mr. Archibald C. of Kilpunt (therein designed only lawful son of the said Sir Archibald), which bond was registered in the Books of Council and Session on 17 Nov. 1662.

Mr. Archibald C. of Kilpunt brought an action against George Campbell of Airds, nephew and heir of the said Sir Donald C. of Ardnamurchan, Colin C. of Otter, brother and heir of said Archibald C. of Otter, Patrick C. of Duntroon, Alexander MacNaughton of Dundaraw, Gory MacAllister of Loup and John C., Captain of Dunstaffnage, as heirs to their respective fathers above-mentioned, all the original cautioners being dead (except, apparently, Colin C. of Strachur), and obtained a decret dated 4 Jan. 1668. Later Colin C. of Otter appears to have died and been succeeded by Patrick C. of Otter. Then Patrick C. of Duntroon died, and a fresh decret was obtained on 11 Nov. 1671 against his heir, John C. of Duntroon, as a result of which Kilpunt obtained the above apprising on 30 July 1672.

It is stated that, at Whitsunday 1672, the debt, with interest, forfeits, &c., amounted to 39,020 merks, besides 1,950 merks in sheriff fees.

On 4 Jan. 1673 Mr. Archibald C. of Kilpunt gave a bond of corroboration for £13,736 13s. 4d., mentioning a contract of wadset of the lands of Kilpunt for 13,000 merks, between the late William, Earl of Menteith, and Dame Agnes Gray on the one part and the late Sir Lewis Stewart of Kirkhill and the late Marion Arnott, his wife, and mentioning also the conveyance of the said wadset lands in the person of Janet Gray, relict of George Campbell, baillie of the Canongate. Janet assigned this bond of corroboration on 31 Jan. 1673 to "her said son" (sic), George C., indweller in Canongate. In other words, Archibald acquired a wadset of Kilpunt, giving a bond for 13,000 merks odd for it, which bond passed to George C.

Meanwhile Kilpunt died; whereupon the said George Campbell raised letters of horning to cause his (Kilpunt's) son and heir, Mr. Archibald Campbell to be served heir to his father, with a view to the liquidation of the bond. But, on Archibald renouncing, George obtained an order, dated 1 March 1681, to cause himself to be served heir in the lands of Duntroon &c., and thereafter sold his rights in them to Alexander Hamilton and James C. of Kilpunt in equal shares.

On 23 Aug. 1695 the said Alexander Hamilton and James Campbell sold them to Archibald C., brother german to Colin C., sometime portioner of Duncrosk, who, on a date not specified, disposed them to Mungo C. of Burnbank, to whom the present Patrick C. of Duntroon has now made payment—Janet Gray being now dead.

Written by Thomas Hunter, servitor to Mr. David Ramsay, Writer to the Signet. Witnesses: Mr. Archibald McLeod, Advocate, Patrick Stewart, his servitor, George Gordon, servitor to Ronald C., Writer to the Signet, and the said Mr. David Ramsay and Thomas Hunter.

2. Letter, dated Edinburgh, 20 Dec. 1703, from Peter Blair to the Laird of Duntroon, concerning the latter's share of the salvage of the ship The Slegoe Merchant, over which there appears to be a dispute with Argyll.

James G. of Lawers at Whitnashbury 1845) in favour of Mr. Archibald G. of Kilquinn (herein designed only as the said Mr. Archibald G.) which bond was registered in the Books of Council and Session on 17 Nov. 1862.

Mr. Archibald G. of Kilquinn brought an action against George Campbell of Airds, nephew and heir of the said Sir Donald G. of Airds, brother and heir of the said Archibald G. of Orier, Colin G. of Orier, brother and heir of said Archibald G. of Orier, Patrick G. of Dunroon, Alexander MacNaughton of Dunbarrow, Gory MacAlister of Lough and John G., Captain of Dunbarrow, as heirs to their respective fathers above-mentioned, all the original cautioners being dead (except, apparently, Colin G. of Strachan), and obtained a decree dated 4 Jan. 1868. Later Colin G. of Orier appears to have died and been succeeded by Patrick G. of Orier. Then Patrick G. of Dunroon died, and a fresh decree was obtained on 11 Nov. 1871 against his heir, John G. of Dunroon, as a result of which Kilquinn obtained the above apportion on 30 July 1872.

It is stated that at Whitnashbury 1872, the debt, with interest, forfeits, &c., amounted to 39,030 marks, besides 1,950 marks in specie fees. On 4 Jan. 1873 Mr. Archibald G. of Kilquinn gave a bond of corroboration for £13,736 13s. 4d., mentioning a contract of wadset of the lands of Kilquinn for 13,000 marks, between the late William Earl of Montrose, and Dame Agnes Gray on the one part and the late Sir Lewis Stewart of Kirkhill and the late Marion Arnott, his wife, and mentioning also the conveyance of the said wadset lands in the person of Janet Gray, relict of George Campbell, bailie of the Canonsgate. Janet assigned this bond of corroboration on 31 Jan. 1873 to "her said son" (viz.) George G., indweller in Canonsgate. In other words, Archibald acquired a wadset of Kilquinn, giving a bond for 13,000 marks odd for it, which bond passed to George G.

Meanwhile Kilquinn died; whereupon the said George Campbell raised letters of homing to cause his (Kilquinn's) son and heir, Mr. Archibald Campbell to be served heir to his father, with a view to the liquidation of the bond. But on Archibald renouncing, George obtained an order, dated 1 March 1881, to cause himself to be served heir in the lands of Dunroon &c., and thereafter sold his rights in them to Alexander Hamilton and James G. of Kilquinn in equal shares.

On 23 Aug. 1885 the said Alexander Hamilton and James Campbell sold them to Archibald G., brother german to Colin G., sometimes porter of Dunroon, who, on a date not specified, disposed them to Mungo G. of Dunbarrow to whom the present Patrick G. of Dunroon has now made payment—Janet Gray being now dead.

Written by Thomas Hunter, scrivener to Mr. David Ramsay, Writer to the Signet. Witnesses: Mr. Archibald Macleod, Advocate, Patrick Stewart, his scrivener, George Gordon, scrivener to Ronald U., Writer to the Signet, and the said Mr. David Ramsay and Thomas Hunter.

PART IX.

James Aspinall, born in 1806, and Mayor of Liverpool in 1835, was the son of James Aspinall and Margaret Tobin, and he was therefore first cousin to the Revd. James Aspinall.

If we refer back to the account of James Aspinall, the brother and partner of John Bridge Aspinall, we find that he died in 1814, and that a Mrs. James Aspinall commenced to reside at 105 Duke Street immediately after that date. In 1818 and 1821 the number is 107, and in the latter year there is what appears to be a duplicate entry, "Aspinall, Margaret, 113 Duke Street." In 1825 the only entry is "Aspinall, Mrs. James, 113 Duke Street," and in 1829 the number changes to 120. In 1832 her name is not entered, but there appears instead, "Aspinall, James, Esq., 125 Duke Street," and in the next issue, that for 1834, there is a double entry :

Aspinall, James, Esq., 126 Duke Street.

Aspinall, Mrs., 126 Duke Street.

In Piggott's directory for 1834 the same double entry varies slightly :

Mr. James Aspinall, 107 Duke Street.

Mrs. Margaret Aspinall, 107 Duke Street.

We have also noticed that the firm of John & James Aspinall, Merchants, Henry Street, continued to carry on its operations at that address for many years after 1814, and it seems reasonable to assume that James Aspinall, the son, took his father's place as a partner in the firm after the latter's death.²⁸³

James Aspinall was a Freeman of Liverpool. His name appears in the lists for 1816 and 1837, but not in any list between those years.²⁸⁴ In 1833 he was one of the Mayor's Bailiffs, and we have the following record in which he is so mentioned :—²⁸⁵

"In May 1833 the town was honoured by a visit from the Duke of Orleans, the heir apparent to the Crown of France. He arrived at the Adelphi Hotel on the afternoon of Thursday, the 23rd, with a numerous suite. He then walked out alone and unattended, and rambled about for nearly two hours. On his return he sent to announce his arrival to the Mayor, who, accompanied by Mr. Bailiff Aspinall, waited on the Duke at his hotel." . . .

PART IX.

James Aspinall, born in 1808, and Mayor of Liverpool in 1835, was the son of James Aspinall and Margaret Tobin, and he was therefore first cousin to the Revd. James Aspinall.

If we refer back to the account of James Aspinall, the brother and partner of John Bridge Aspinall, we find that he died in 1814, and that a Mrs. James Aspinall commenced to reside at 108 Duke Street immediately after that date. In 1818 and 1821 the number is 107, and in the latter year there is what appears to be a duplicate entry, "Aspinall, Margaret, 113 Duke Street." In 1825 the only entry is "Aspinall, Mrs. James, 113 Duke Street," and in 1829 the number changes to 130. James Aspinall was a Freeman of Liverpool. His name appears in the lists for 1816 and 1837, but not in any list between those years.²²⁶ In 1833 he was one of the Mayor's Bailiffs, and we have the following record in which he is so mentioned:—

"In May 1833 the town was honoured by a visit from the Duke of Orleans, the last apparition to the Crown of France. He arrived at the Adelphi Hotel on the afternoon of Thursday, the 23rd, with a numerous suite. He then walked out alone and unattended, and rambled about for nearly two hours. On his return he sent to announce his arrival to the Mayor, who, accompanied by Mr. Bailiff Aspinall, waited on the Duke at his hotel."²²⁷

In 1834 Mr. Aspinall was made Mayor of Liverpool. Mr. Lewin, though he does not make clear his exact relationship to Clarke Aspinall and his family, has the following note about him :—²⁸⁶

"In 1834-35 the Mayor's Chair was again occupied by a member of the family of Aspinall. This was James Aspinall, and he was the last Mayor of the town under the old system of election by the burgesses. He was a notable man in his day. He had the bodily proportions of a giant, and weighed, it is said, 24 stones. Mr. James Stonehouse describes him as 'singularly handsome, while his manners were exceedingly pleasant, kindly and courteous to all who had intercourse with him. He was always well and fashionably dressed.' This regard for his personal appearance, together with his enormous size, doubtless explains the title of 'the double dandy,' by which he was known. In 1832 he and the late Mr. Robertson Gladstone (brother of the statesman) were Mayor's Bailiffs, and the latter being over six feet in height, it was jokingly said the Mayor was supported by the length and breadth of the Corporation.

"During Mr. Aspinall's mayoralty a disturbance arose between the Orangemen and Catholics. As soon as word of it was brought to the Town Hall, Mr. Aspinall went himself to the spot and shouldering his way among the rioters, ordered the men to go about their business and the women to go home and mind their children with such authority and determination that the disturbance was ended without further trouble. The family proclivity for joking manifested itself in him at the expense of a local tailor, who having advertised suits of clothes at a very low price, was called upon to furnish them to Mr. Aspinall and two of his friends almost his equal in bulk."

The story of this practical joke played upon Benjamin Hyam, the local tailor, is told at full length by Henry Kelsall Aspinall; and he tells us that "James Aspinall weighed twenty-seven stone and stood six feet two inches high." One of the two friends who participated in the joke was "Tom Tobin."²⁸⁷

In a letter to Miss Aspinall, dated 15 October 1910, the writer, Mr. Robert Gladstone, says: "I am sorry I cannot tell you very much about Mr. James Aspinall. He was, as no doubt you know, a very 'big' man, and I think he weighed 20 stone, but he was an excellent dancer, and danced very lightly, which seems odd. My earliest recollection of him is his dining at my father's house in Abercrombie Square, at the corner of Chatham Street, where the Mellys live now, and my sister and I peeped in at the drawing-room door to see if he would break the chair when he sat down, which we heard he had once done, and we were much disappointed when he sat on a very strong sofa which did not break. . . . I don't know whose son he was, and I think he never was married. He was known as 'the Double Dandy.' . . ." In another letter to Miss Aspinall, dated 31 October 1910, Mr. Frank Tobin affectionately speaks of James Aspinall as "Big Jim," and thinks

"Dandy" Aspinall may have been a brother or a cousin. He also says, "I cannot find the year of his birth, but he died unmarried in 1847. I am told that he had brothers, but I cannot get particulars." In a previous letter in which he had mentioned "Big Jim," Mr. Tobin had stated: "'Dandy' Aspinall was another person altogether, a relation (tho' I do not know how close) and dark haired—Portuguese looking."

During the period of James Aspinall's mayoralty, on the 7th October 1835, an interesting resolution was passed by the Town Council in which it was "Resolved that the Worshipful the Mayor be respectfully requested to communicate to his Grace the Duke of Wellington the sentiments of regret felt by this Council, that no seasonable opportunity has yet been afforded to this Council of enrolling his Grace as a Free Burgess of this borough in accordance with the resolution of the special Council in July 1830; and that the Mayor be further requested to transmit for his Grace's acceptance the Gold Box then prepared for presentation; which has remained in the custody of the Mayor for the time being since that period." The Duke's reply to James Aspinall Esq., Mayor of Liverpool, dated "Walmer Castle, Octr. 10, 1835," is also recorded, but as there is nothing of a personal character in it it is unnecessary to quote it here.²⁸⁸

James Aspinall also undertook, in 1835, the duties of Treasurer to the Liverpool Blue Coat Hospital. In Part III of his Sketch of the History of the Liverpool Blue Coat Hospital, the writer, John B. Hughes, Esq., has the following note:—²⁸⁹

"On the 9th June 1835 the Treasurer of the Institution, Mr. Dobson, died, after having filled the office for sixteen years. . . . Following Mr. Dobson, the late James Aspinall, Esq., undertook the Treasurership, which he retained during three years. Mr. Aspinall was known far and wide among all classes. The remembrance of his strikingly handsome face, as well as the extreme kindliness of his nature, will be long cherished in this his native town. Although among the present scholars in the Hospital, few, if any, have any personal knowledge or recollection of him, there yet remains among them a kind of traditionary interest, by which his memory is preserved, associated in their own tender minds with ideas of all that is manly and noble and kind. He was succeeded in 1838 by Anthony Swainson, Esq."

In the letter to Miss Aspinall mentioned above, Mr. Frank Tobin gives Mr. Aspinall the credit of having made the discovery of Ansdell's artistic powers. "When a Bluecoat Trustee, 'Big Jim' frequently visited the school. On one occasion a titter arose on one of the forms, and he went up to ascertain the cause. It was found that a small boy named Richard Ansdell had drawn on his slate a most excellent picture of 'Big Jim.' So good was it that it was decided his talent ought to be cultivated. He was given drawing lessons, and went on to become one of England's most famous artists."

James Aspinall died in 1847; the Gentleman's Magazine for that year contains the following obituary notice:—

"1847. Deaths. June 17.²⁹⁰ At Vauxhall Gardens, suddenly, aged 41, Mr. James Aspinall. He was a member of the Corporation of Liverpool, and some few years since was Mayor of that important borough. Mr. Aspinall was in London on business, and dined with a party of friends at the Conservative Club, after which he proceeded to Vauxhall Gardens, appearing in excellent health and spirits."

Mrs. Dunn, of Ealing, in a letter to Miss Aspinall, dated 26th of April 1917, writes: "I have here a beautiful prayer book with 'James Aspinall' in gold on the outside, and inside my father wrote: 'This book belonged to my cousin, the late James Aspinall, Esq., of Liverpool, and was this day presented to me by his mother as a token of remembrance. (Signed), John Tobin. Liscard, May 5th 1848.'"

A few particulars of the will of James Aspinall, which was proved at Chester, have been obtained:—

James Aspinall of Liverpool, co. Lanes., Esqr.; dated 7 October 1826. I bequeath all my estate, real and personal, to my brother-in-law, Rev. Augustus Campbell, and my friends Thomas Brancker of Liverpool, sugar refiner, and William Fletcher, of Gateacre, near Liverpool, Esq., in Trust to pay my mother £1,000 a year during her life, and at her death to divide my said estate into three parts, one part for my sister Helen Aspinall, another third part for my sister Eliza, wife of the said Rev. Augustus Campbell, and the third remaining part for my sister Rose Aspinall. In case of the death of any of them without issue, then her share for my cousin John Tobin, son of my uncle Sir John Tobin. Executors: my said trustees.

Mrs. Aspinall would seem to have survived her son by only a few years. Amongst some notes on the stained glass windows in Childwall Parish Church²⁹¹ is included the following:—

"Chancel (south)—(I). Window in memory of Margaret Aspinall (no dates). Arms: Or, a chevron between three griffins' heads erased Sa."

The window in question is a small one, and on two small panes of glass in the top corners are the initials "M.A." Between them is another pane of glass, upon which is the coat of arms as described, with the words "In Memory of Margaret Aspinall" around it. Canon Ainslie, writing from Childwall Vicarage on the 20th September 1916, in reply to an enquiry, says, "I have been informed that the chancel window was put in between 1850 and 1860 by Rector Campbell of Liverpool (and Vicar of Childwall). of Mr. Aspinall, Recorder of Liverpool, and Clarke Aspinall, our former Coroner."

In giving the above evidence it will be seen that we have so far proceeded generation by generation, first the children of James Aspinall of Old Dock, and then his grandchildren. It is proposed at this point to depart slightly from this order, and to hold back such notes as have been met with relating to the descendants of his younger sons, William and Thomas, for it will be more convenient that they should be dealt with separately. This has also the advantage that it simplifies the descent and enables us to pass to the great-grandchildren of James Aspinall. And as no evidence has been found to show that his senior grandson, Thomas, the eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, left any male issue, we shall proceed to give some account of members of the family of the Rev. James Aspinall, and of his descendants, tracing them down to the present day.

"The children of the Rev. James Aspinall were eight in number, five sons and three daughters: John Bridge, Athelstan Maurice, Harriet, Clara, Dudley Lake, Clarke, Butler Cole, Emily Ann. John Bridge was named after his grandfather, Harriet after her mother, Butler Cole after a friend and neighbour. Clarke was named after a former Recorder of Liverpool, James Clarke

"Of the Rev. James Aspinall's sons, the eldest, John Bridge, was called to the Bar and became Recorder of Liverpool. He died in 1886. Dudley Lake took Orders in the Church. Butler Cole, after serving for a time on the staff of the Morning Post, emigrated to the Australian Colonies, practised as a barrister, entered the Legislature, and became Attorney-General for Victoria. His sister Clara spent three years in Melbourne, and, on her return published an entertaining little volume recounting her experiences. The members of the family who survive are Athelstan, Clara (now Mrs. Turner), and Emily (now Mrs. Hill)."²⁹²

It is somewhat curious that, in the passage quoted above, Mr. Lewin makes no remark upon the relationship which existed between the Aspinall and Clarke families, and it seems even possible that he was unaware of it. As the Clarke pedigree has shown us, James Clarke was uncle to the Rev. James Aspinall, and Mrs. Susanna Butler, née Clarke, was his aunt. Mr. Butler-Cole, her son, was therefore his first cousin, and a somewhat nearer connection than "neighbour and friend."²⁹³

John Bridge Aspinall, the Recorder of Liverpool, was born in 1818. The following brief outline of his life is given in a Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple, with Biographical Notes:—²⁹⁴

"1864. John Bridge Aspinall, eldest son of Rev. James Aspinall of Liverpool, co. Lancaster, M.A.

It is proposed at this point to depart slightly from this order, and to hold back such notes as have been met with relating to the descendants of his younger sons, William and Thomas, for it will be more convenient that they should be dealt with separately. This has also the advantage that it simplifies the descent and enables us to pass to the great-grandchildren of James Aspinall. And as no evidence has been found to show that his senior grandson, Thomas, the eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, left any male issue, we shall proceed to give some account of members of the family of the Rev. James Aspinall, and of his descendants, tracing them down to the present day.

"The children of the Rev. James Aspinall were eight in number, five sons and three daughters: John Bridge Aspinall, Abielston Maurice, Harriet, Clara, Dudley Lake Clarke, Butler Cole, Emily Ann, John Bridge was named after his grandfather, Harriet after her mother, Butler Cole after a friend and neighbour, Clarke was named after a former Recorder of Liverpool, James Clarke.

 "Of the Rev. James Aspinall's sons, the eldest, John Bridge, was called to the bar and became Recorder of Liverpool. He died in 1888. Dudley Lake took Orders in the Church. Butler Cole, after serving for a time on the staff of the Moravian Post, emigrated to the Australian Colonies, practised as a barrister, entered the Legislature, and became Attorney-General for Victoria. His sister Clara spent three years in Melbourne, and, on her return published an entertaining little volume recounting her experiences. The members of the family who survive are Abielston, Clara (now Mrs. Turner), and Emily (now Mrs. Hill)."¹²²

It is somewhat curious that, in the passage quoted above, Mr. Lewis makes no remark upon the relationship which existed between the Aspinall and Clarke families, and it seems even possible that he was unaware of it. As the Clarke pedigree has shown us, James Clarke was uncle to the Rev. James Aspinall, and Mrs. Susanna Butler, nee Clarke, was his aunt. Mr. Butler-Cole, her son, was therefore his first cousin, and a somewhat nearer connection than "neighbour and friend."¹²³

John Bridge Aspinall, the Recorder of Liverpool, was born in 1818. The following brief outline of his life is given in a Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple, with Biographical Notes:—¹²⁴

A volume of "Reports of Cases in the Law of Real Property and Conveyancing" shows that J. B. Aspinall, Esq., and H. T. Cole, Esq. Barristers-at-Law, were Reporters for the Court of Exchequer between the years 1843 and 1845.²⁹⁵

Henry Kelsall Aspinall, in his interesting book of reminiscences written in 1902-3, has a note relating to him:—²⁹⁶

"John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., the Recorder of Liverpool, was a well-known man, not only in this district but throughout the country. He was greatly esteemed in his profession, and highly thought of in his native town of Liverpool. . . .

"John Bridge Aspinall mostly resided in London. He used to write me characteristic notes when I resided at Claughton Hill: 'My dear Cousin, I am coming down to the Sessions next week. Shall be in Liverpool two or three days. May I come to your house during that time? First, it is very much pleasanter than an hotel; and, secondly, I infinitely prefer your port to that of the London and North-Western Railway Company.' He was always a welcome visitor, and made himself thoroughly at home. When in town, I occasionally dined and spent an evening with him. John was a Roman Catholic, as were his children. Mrs. John, a charming woman (Miss Gee, of Liverpool), was a Protestant."

Walter Lewin, in his biography of Clarke Aspinall, also has a note referring to him:—²⁹⁷

"In all religious matters Mr. (Clarke) Aspinall was, first and last, a Churchman. . . . Ritualistic innovations in the Church of England were a sore trouble to him. They savoured too much of the Church of Rome, and of the Church of Rome he had a profound distrust. . . . The Roman Catholic position was one he not only could not sympathise with, but really could not understand. The conversion of his eldest brother to Rome was a life-long sorrow. That, in taking this step, Mr. John Bridge Aspinall was sincere, is not to be doubted. It was a step likely to impede rather than to promote his professional and social advancement. Mr. Clarke Aspinall, however, was unable to see how Roman Catholicism could appeal with the force of sincere and deliberate conviction to a man of his brother's mental calibre."

John Lee, LL.D., and John Bridge Aspinall, esq., of the Middle Temple, London, to be H.M. Counsel learned in the law.

This marriage announcement is in one respect inaccurate, as it only gives the Christian names of the bride's father, and omits his surname. A certificate of marriage records that John Bridge Aspinall married Bertha Wyatt, a daughter of John Audley Jee, at the Parish Church of St. John, Chester, on the 17th January 1843. Miss Jee came of a Warwickshire family. Her grandfather, Edward Jee, had married Emily, a daughter of John Wyatt (born April 1700, died 29 November 1766), the inventor of the spinning machine, hence her second name.³⁰⁰

Mrs. Aspinall, being a Protestant, could not be buried with her husband and son in the Catholic Cemetery, presumably on account of the Cemetery rules. Her grave (No. 31276) is in the adjoining General Cemetery (All Souls) at Kensal Green, a few minutes' walk away. The monument, a simple marble cross similar to the one on her husband's grave, is inscribed :—

I.H.S. In Memory of Bertha Wyatt Aspinall, widow of John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool. Died August 23rd 1888, in her 70th year.

Athelstan Maurice Aspinall resided in Lincolnshire, and is said to have died unmarried. An announcement of his death appeared in the obituary column of the Standard newspaper in 1898 :—

"Aspinall.—On the 22nd August, at Walton le Dale, Lancashire, Athelstan M. Aspinall, Esq., of Althorpe, Lincolnshire."

Clara Aspinall visited her brother, Butler Cole, whilst he was in Australia, arriving there in March, 1858. After her return to England she published, in 1862, an interesting little volume entitled Three Years in Melbourne, giving her impressions of Australian life. The dedication note is worded : "Dedicated to Her Brother in Australia in remembrance of his more than brotherly kindness, by his affectionate Sister." The book contains no family or genealogical information. She afterwards became the second wife of William Turner, of Naples, a banker. When she died—between the years 1898 and 1902, it is believed—she was living at Buxton, a widow.

William Charles Lake Aspinall, obviously so named after his maternal grandfather, was born in 1826. He took Holy Orders, and was a Bachelor of Arts of Cambridge. His name appears in Luard's "Graduati Cantabrigienses, 1800—1884" :—

"Aspinall, Will. Car. Lake. Joh. A.B. 1849."

The Gentleman's Magazine adds further to our knowledge in three announcements :—

"1850. Marriages. Septr. 26.³⁰² At St. Mary's, Bryanston Square, the Rev. W. C. Lake Aspinall, son of the Rev. James Aspinall, Rector of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, to Anna Maria Jane, dau. of J. F. Archbold, esq., of Gloucester Place."

Mrs. Aspinwall, being a Protestant, could not be buried with her husband and son in the Catholic Cemetery, presumably on account of the Cemetery rules. Her grave (No. 31376) is in the adjoining General Cemetery (All Souls) at Kensal Green, a few minutes' walk away. I.H.S. In Memory of Martha Wyatt Aspinwall, widow of John Bridge Aspinwall, O.C., Recorder of Liverpool. Died August 23rd 1888, in her 10th year.

Althea Maud Aspinwall resided in Lincolnshire, and is said to have died unmarried. An announcement of her death appeared in the obituary column of the Standard newspaper in 1888:—
"Aspinwall.—On the 22nd August, at Walton in Dale, Lancashire, Althea M. Aspinwall, nee, of Althorpe, Lincolnshire."

Clara Aspinwall visited her brother, Butler Cole, whilst he was in Australia, arriving there in March, 1858. William Charles Lake Aspinwall, obviously so named after his maternal grandfather, was born in 1826. He took Holy Orders, and was a Bachelor of Arts of Cambridge. His name appears in Lamb's "Gentiana Cambridge, 1800—1824":—
"Aspinwall, Will. Chas. Lake, A.B. 1849."

The Gentiana's Magazine adds further to our knowledge in these announcements:—

"1850. Marriage, Sept. 26th At St. Mary's, Bryanston Square, the Rev. W. C. Lake Aspinwall, son of the Rev. James Aspinwall, Rector of Althorpe, Lincolnshire, to Anna Maria Jane, dau. of J. F. Archbold, esq., of Gloucester Place."

"1851. Ecclesiastical Proceedings, Rev. W. C. L. Aspinwall, St. Michael's P.C., Birmingham."

In 1857 Mr. Aspinall was authorised under royal warrant to add to his surname the name Dudley. The change of name was duly published in the London Gazette—³⁰⁵

"Whitehall, April 28, 1857.

"The Queen has been pleased to grant unto William Charles Lake Aspinall, of Birmingham, in the county of Warwick, Clerk, Bachelor of Arts, and unto Elizabeth Mary Dudley, Spinster, one of the three daughters and coheirs of John Dudley the younger, late of Winsford Lodge, in the county palatine of Chester, Esquire, deceased, Her royal licence and authority that they may, in compliance with an injunction contained in the last will and testament of the said John Dudley, from and immediately after the solemnization of their intended marriage, take and use the surname of Dudley in addition to and after that of Aspinall, and that he, the said William Charles Lake Aspinall, may bear the arms of Dudley, quarterly, with his own family arms; and that such surname and arms of Dudley may in like manner be taken, used, and borne by the issue of their marriage, such arms being first duly exemplified according to the laws of arms, and recorded in the Herald's College, otherwise the said royal licence and permission to be void and of none effect:

"And also to command that the said royal concession and declaration be recorded in Her Majesty's College of Arms."

Miss Aspinall-Dudley writes that the wedding was solemnized at St. Bride's Church, Liverpool, on the 30th of April 1857; and, in mentioning that her father was buried at Gloucester, she says: "He had been for some years Chaplain of the Prison. I have a watch that was presented to him when he was in Birmingham, and this is the inscription: 'As a Memorial of their esteem and regret, this watch was presented to the Revd. Wm. C. Lake Aspinall, by his Congregation at St. Michael's Church, Birmingham, Jan. 29th 1856.'" Miss Aspinall-Dudley also encloses memorial cards announcing her father's and mother's deaths:—

"In Memory of the Rev. William Charles Lake Aspinall-Dudley, who died January 23, 1866, aged 40 years, and was buried on the 30th day of the same month, in the Cemetery at Gloucester."

"In Affectionate Remembrance of Elizabeth Mary, widow of the late Rev. William Charles Lake Aspinall-Dudley, of Gloucester. Died at Wharton Lodge, Winsford, April 24th, 1899, aged 64 years. Interred at Davenham Church, April 29th."

Clarke Aspinall, the Coroner of Liverpool from 1867 onwards, and the subject of Walter Lewin's interesting biographical work entitled Clarke Aspinall. A Biography, was for many years a prominent member of his family. Mr. Lewin's book—of which only ninety-five copies were issued—is an elegant volume of ten chapters, excellently printed and bound. It contains three photographs of Mr. Aspinall, one taken in his youth and the others at later periods of his life. After some preliminary remarks upon the functions of biography, Mr. Clarke Aspinall is introduced in the following words:—

“Few men during their lifetime have been so widely known, in a personal way, as the subject of the present history. It is hardly too much to say that Clarke Aspinall was known by name and sight to every man, woman and child in Liverpool and for ten miles around; and he was only less known in other parts of the country. If we say that any time during the last twenty-five years there were fully three-quarters of a million persons who, meeting him in the street, would have recognised him, we make no overstatement. To many of these he was no more than the pleasantest and most amusing speaker they knew at social gatherings, the announcement of whose name was sufficient to secure an audience. To others, a large number, he was the magistrate whose duty it had been to punish them for some fault, who had punished them severely perhaps, but never spitefully, and who had doubtless accompanied the punishment with an admonition more or less stern. Others again knew him as a co-worker in philanthropic undertakings and as a preacher. Not a few there must have been whom some timely word of his had served to warn, or encourage, or guide, and who had received material kindness at his hands.

“Mr. Clarke Aspinall was the friend of many, especially of those who were in trouble or distress. Friends in whom he could confide, and on whom, if needful, he could count for service equal to his own, were less numerous; and even of them probably only the fewest really understood him. Yet he was of a candid and trusting disposition and may be said to have lived with the eye of the world upon him. . . . His career contains few striking incidents and no dramatic surprises. His life, full as it was of energetic purpose, was not what is usually termed an eventful life. He was self-contained. His individuality was marked and intense. Wisely or unwisely, he lived his own life and was the echo of no other. Much as he liked to be approved, he went, not any conventional way, but always his own way through life. This it is which has rendered it difficult for even his friends to understand him and, at the same time, makes him worthy to be understood.”

So ends the introductory chapter. The second chapter, entitled “The Aspinalls in Liverpool,” and the third, in which we are told something of the Rev. James Aspinall and his family, and of the Lake family, both contain a fair amount of family history, the more important portions of which have already been quoted. The subsequent chapters are full of interesting matter, and tell of Mr. Aspinall’s life at Bebington (where, by the way, Mr. Lewin also resided), his public life, his life as Coroner and Magistrate, his philanthropic life, his opinions, personality, and characteristics. It is not possible to quote from them here more than a few brief personal notes, and interested readers must be referred to the book itself for fuller information.

The subsequent chapters are full of interesting matter, and tell of Mr. Aspinall's life at Bevington (where, by the way, Mr. Lewis also resided), his public life, his life as Coroner and Magistrate, his philanthropic life, his opinions, personality, and characteristics. It is not possible to quote from them here more than a few brief personal notes, and interested readers must be referred to the book itself for fuller information.

"At his father's house in Bedford Street, Liverpool, now Bedford Street North, the house at the corner of Abercrombie Square, Clarke Aspinall was born on the 2nd of December, 1827.³⁰⁶ . . .

"The eldest brother having been destined for the Bar, the other branch of the legal profession was chosen for Clarke, who, accordingly, was articled to an attorney in Doncaster. Then he returned to Liverpool to take the position of managing clerk for Duncan, Squarey and Duncan. He remained with them until 1852, when, in partnership with Mr. Henry Fenwick, he commenced business under the style of Fenwick and Aspinall. The office was at No. 17 Exchange Alley North. A dissolution of partnership followed and Mr. Aspinall continued to practise alone until 1860, when the firm of Aspinall and Bird was established.³⁰⁷ . . .

"Meantime, on the 22nd of April, 1861, Mr. Clarke Aspinall had been married to Miss Alice Jackson Storrs, the daughter of the well known and highly-respected Dr. Storrs, of Doncaster. For four years after the marriage they resided at No. 3 Stanley Terrace, New Ferry. . . . From New Ferry Mr. Aspinall removed to Bebington, first to a house in The Grove and afterwards to Laurel Bank, which he made his home for the rest of his life.³⁰⁸ . . .

"When, by the death of Mr. Philip Finch Currie, the Coronership of Liverpool fell vacant, there were, as usual, several candidates for the post. So soon, however, as it was known that Mr. Clarke Aspinall meant to offer himself it was generally felt that he was the right man, and, before the election took place, all opposition had been withdrawn. Not only had he made himself popular with his fellow members but he had proved himself to be a man of earnest purpose and excellent ability. The appointment was made on the 28th of August, 1867, but Mr. Aspinall had already, in order to conform to the law, retired from the Town Council.³⁰⁹ . . .

"Soon after he became Coroner, Mr. Aspinall was made a Justice of the Peace for Liverpool, and he promptly settled the question of a second stipendiary magistrate, which had troubled the Town Council, by voluntarily taking upon himself a considerable portion of the police court duties.³¹⁰ . . . In 1885 Mr. Aspinall was made a magistrate for the Hundred of Wirral, and from that time forward he was in the habit of attending daily at the police court at New Ferry before crossing to Liverpool to fulfil his other regular engagements.³¹¹ . . .

"A fortnight before he died he fulfilled an engagement to speak at a temperance meeting in Birmingham. After the meeting he travelled all night, arriving in Liverpool at 6 a.m. He went home to breakfast and was back in Liverpool at his office at ten o'clock. He appears to have taken cold on this occasion and on Monday was too ill to leave the house. Some deeper disorder of the heart affected him, and, although at one time he seemed to be recovering, and was anticipating a return to his various tasks, he slowly sank, and on Thursday, the 10th of December, 1891, at six o'clock in the evening, he died in his sleep. Three days later his remains were laid in the Bebington churchyard, not far distant from the tomb of his old friend and neighbour, Mr. Joseph Mayer, in the presence of three thousand mourners." ³¹²

The last of these quotations forms the conclusion of the seventh chapter, which describes Mr. Clarke Aspinall's philanthropic work. There is yet one further passage which must be noticed before we take leave of Mr. Lewin's most interesting biography. In the final chapter he writes :³¹³ "Mr. Clarke Aspinall's name is not linked with the national events of his time. He moved in a well-defined and remoter circle of interests. Born in Liverpool, of a Liverpool family, he never, after boyhood, resided at any distance from his native place." On the same page, in connection with this mention of Mr. Aspinall's family, there is a short footnote which tells us it was "a Lancashire family throughout. The Aspinalls of Standen Hall, near Clitheroe, are the senior branch." Whether this statement is correct or not cannot at present be said. No evidence has been found either to corroborate or refute it, and as Mr. Lewin died about two years ago, the evidence upon which he made it unfortunately cannot now be ascertained.

Henry Kelsall Aspinall, who, as Mr. Lewin correctly tells us, was Clarke Aspinall's second cousin, has the following appreciation of him :—³¹⁴

"Here I must refer to the Recorder's brother, Clarke Aspinall, who spent years of his life, I may say the best years, in working for the public good, and the benefit of his fellow men. His good works were not confined to Liverpool, to Birkenhead, or to Lancashire; he was known and respected all over the country. There are few prominent towns in England that he did not visit as a public man, and wherever he went he always paid his own expenses. This open-handedness was characteristic. He began life as a solicitor. I and many other friends thought he should have been a barrister, since he was not only a keen lawyer, but also possessed in a high degree qualities which command success at the Bar—great natural insight, and a wide and profound knowledge of men.

"Clarke Aspinall filled the Liverpool Coronership with honour to himself and credit to the town. A just and an honourable man, he died at Bebington after a few days' illness. He was churchwarden of the village church for over thirty years. Thousands flocked to his funeral, high and low, rich and poor; all anxious to pay a last tribute of respect to the man taken away so suddenly in the midst of his good work."

Mrs. Clarke Aspinall survived her husband by over fifteen years. An announcement of her death appeared in the obituary column of the Liverpool Courier of the 1st March 1907, along with a short paragraph in another column :—

³¹² Ibid., p. 175.

at one time he seemed to be recovering, and was anticipating a return to his various tasks, he slowly sank, and on Thursday, the 10th of December, 1891, at six o'clock in the evening, he died in his sleep. Three days later his remains were laid in the Bevington churchyard, not far distant from the tomb of his old friend and neighbour, Mr. Joseph Mayne, in the presence of three thousand mourners.²¹²

The last of these quotations forms the conclusion of the seventh chapter, which describes Mr. Clarke Aspinwall's philanthropic work. There is yet one further passage which must be noticed before we take leave of Mr. Aspinwall's most interesting biography. In the final chapter he writes:—"Mr. Clarke Aspinwall's name is not linked with the national events of his time. He moved in a well-defined and remoter circle of interests. No evidence has been found either to corroborate or refute it, and as Mr. Aspinwall died about two years ago, the evidence upon which he made it unfortunately cannot now be ascertained.

Henry Kelsall Aspinwall, who, as Mr. Aspinwall correctly tells us, was Clarke Aspinwall's second cousin, has the following appreciation of him:—

"Clarke Aspinwall filled the Liverpool Corporation with honour to himself and credit to the town. A just and an honourable man, he died at Bevington after a few days' illness. He was buried in the village church less than thirty years. Thousands looked to his funeral, high and low, rich and poor; all anxious to pay a last tribute of respect to the man taking away so nobly in the midst of his good work."

Mrs. Clarke Aspinwall survived her husband by over fifteen years. An announcement of her death appeared in the ordinary column of the Liverpool Courier of the 1st March 1907, along with a short paragraph in another column:—

"Death of Mrs. Clarke Aspinall.—The death is announced at West Kirby of Mrs. Clarke Aspinall, widow of the late Mr. Clarke Aspinall, for many years city coroner and a magistrate of Liverpool. The deceased lady was in her seventy-seventh year. The funeral is fixed for to-morrow afternoon at Bebington, where the family long resided. Butler Cole Aspinall, Attorney-General of Victoria, Australia, was born in 1830. Major Simpson, in his notes preceding the Clarke pedigree, mentions him as "Butler Aspinall, Q.C."³¹⁵ The addition of these two letters to his name is incorrect, and they attribute to Mr. Aspinall an honour which he never received. A short biographical account of his life is contained in J. H. Heaton's Australian Dictionary of Dates and Men of the Times:—

"Aspinall, Butler Cole, barrister-at-law, born at Liverpool, England, in 1830, son of Rev. James Aspinall, rector of Althorpe, Lancashire (sic), but previously officiating at Rochdale, in the same county. The subject of this notice was admitted to the Bar in 1853, and for some years previously was connected with the Morning Chronicle and other London papers. In 1854 he arrived in Victoria, under engagement to the Argus as law reporter. He was subsequently a contributor to the Morning Herald, the Age, and Melbourne Punch, but commenced to practise as a barrister on leaving the Argus. His wit and ability as an advocate were high, and the talent he displayed on behalf of the accused at the trial of the Eureka Rioters gained him a great colonial reputation. In 1856 he entered Parliament as M.L.A. for Talbot, and became celebrated for his talents as a debater. He was a member of the Heales Government in 1861; and when representative for Portland he was a member of the Macpherson Government in 1869. In 1868 he came to Sydney and ably conducted the defence of O'Farrell, tried for the attempted assassination of Prince Alfred."³¹⁶ This account concludes by telling us that Mr. Aspinall resigned his seat in Parliament in 1870 and returned to England, where he died on the 4th of April, 1875.³¹⁷

A PEDIGREE OF THE FAMILY OF ALLEN, OF CHESTER AND OF BRINDLEY, CO. CHESTER.

This pedigree, which is in the possession of Mr. Wm. Fergusson Irvine, M.A., F.S.A., is written on two pieces of parchment by the fourth Randle Holme, of Chester, and measures 3 feet 7 inches in length, by 10 inches in width. There is a cartouche at the top in imitation of a plain vellum scroll with the sides curling over and gilded, and on each of these sides there are three black crescents palewise. The names, etc., are within green-edged circles and the leading lines are vermillion. There are seven, rather rudely drawn, impaled shields, and in two of these the impalements are blank. The usual larger shield at the foot of the pedigree is wanting and has perhaps been cut off to be framed, with it the names of the last William Allen's children (if any) have also disappeared.

COLLECTIONS FOR A HISTORY OF STAFFORDSHIRE. Edited by The William Salt Archaeological Society, 1911. London (Harrison & Sons).

This volume by an oversight was not sent to us for review at the time of publication, but on account of its great value and interest to genealogists, a notice however late in the day will no doubt be welcomed by our readers. The editorial duties have been undertaken by the Hon. Secretary, and his wide knowledge of Staffordshire family history is apparent throughout. The Salt Society is to be congratulated on obtaining so fit a successor to General Wrottesley as Commander Wedgwood proves himself to be.

The volume opens with the Liberate Rolls of the reign of Henry III; these are rather of historical than genealogical importance, but contain much that is interesting to the archaeologist. In the fifty-first year of that reign (1267) the Sheriff is informed that the King and Queen intend to visit Bridgnorth, and is directed to cause the King's houses there to be put in order and two glass windows to be placed in the hall of the Castle. There are also many provisions from time to time for the support of persons having some claim on the royal purse, as the disinherited princes of Wales and relatives of crown tenants whose lands are in the king's custody.

Then follows a Calendar of Feet of Fines for the County for the reigns of Edward I and Edward II, 1272-1327. This completes the Final Concords for Staffordshire from Richard I to the death of James I. No more useful work could have been accomplished, especially as all names of persons and places have been included in the excellent index at the end of the volume.

The Inquisitions relating to Staffordshire, 1223-1327, have, like the Liberate Rolls and the Feet of Fines, been printed from full transcripts in the William Salt Library, and appear to have been most carefully translated, though it is to be regretted that dominus has throughout been rendered as "lord." These Inquisitions fill fully a third of the volume, and include the names of the jurors and many other important details omitted in the Record Office Calendars, which cover a portion of the period. They also include Inquisitions ad quod damnum and those which relate to the lands of felons and outlaws. "The king's year and a day" must have been a vast source of income to the Crown in the disturbed and lawless condition of the country at the time. COLLECTIONS FOR A HISTORY OF STAFFORDSHIRE. Edited by The William Salt Archaeological Society. 1911. London (Harrison & Sons).

This volume by an overgrown was not sent to us for review at the time of publication, but on account of its great value and interest to genealogists, a notice however late in the day will no doubt be welcomed by our readers. The editorial duties have been undertaken by the Hon. Secretary, and his wide knowledge of Staffordshire family history is apparent throughout. The Salt Society is to be congratulated on obtaining so fit a successor to General Worsley as Commander Wedgwood proves himself to be.

The volume opens with the Labiate Halls of the reign of Henry III; these are rather of historical than genealogical importance, but contain much that is interesting to the archaeologist. In the fifth year of that reign (1237) the Sheriff is informed that the King and Queen intend to visit Bridgnorth, and is directed to cause the King's houses there to be put in order and two glass windows to be placed in the hall of the Castle. There are also many provisions from time to time for the support of persons having some claim on the royal purse, as the distinguished prince of Wales and relatives of crown tenants whose lands are in the king's custody.

Then follows a Calendar of Feet of Fines for the County for the reigns of Edward I and Edward II, 1272-1327. This completes the final Calendar for Staffordshire from Richard I to the death of James I. No more useful work could have been included in the volume, especially as all names of persons and places have been included in the excellent index at the end of the volume.

The Inquisitions relating to Staffordshire, 1233-1327, have, like the Labiate Rolls and Feet of Fines, been printed from full transcripts in the William Salt Library, and appear to have been most carefully translated, though it is to be regretted that domains has throughout been rendered as "lord." These Inquisitions fill fully a third of the volume, and include the names of the jurors and many other important details omitted in the Record Office Calendar, which cover a portion of the period. They also include Inquisitions ad quod damnum and those which relate to the lands of felons and outlaws. "The king's year and a day" must have been a vast source of income to the Crown in the disturbed and lawless condition of the country at the time. The usual practice seems to have been to deliver the lands of the culprit either to his immediate feudal lord, who possessed the right of reversion, or to the vill, a strict account to the Crown having to be made for all values received. Sometimes a purchaser was found for the king's rights and made a good profit on the transaction.

Among these Inquisitions are several "Proofs of Age," which from the light they throw on contemporary manners and customs and the minute details concerning baptism which they often record, are very interesting. The reasons given by witnesses for being certain of a particular date are often very human, as on p. 305, where one Richard de Kemeseye fixed the birth of Thomas de Haughton by his recollection that it coincided with the hanging of a neighbour of his own. Sometimes the evidence does not exactly tally, as in the enquiry as to the date of birth of Edmund, baron of Stafford, 22 Edw. I, when some of the most prominent ecclesiastics and knights of the county bore testimony. From the numerous extents given in many of the Inquisitions much information may be obtained regarding the smaller class of landowners, who of necessity are neglected by county historians and are often difficult to locate. Others contain lists of knights' fees, as do those of Roger de Somery in 1291 and Edmund of Lancaster, brother of Edward I, in 1297. The Inquisition of Roger de Somery the elder in 1273 mentions servile services due from tenants, some of which are curious. The verdict of the County Court, 29 Edw. I, given on p. 270, is worthy of notice as illustrating the criminal jurisdiction of that Court, and the statement of the jury, on p. 287, that the Manor of Wednesbury "is part of the ancient demesne of the Crown of England; because, in the same Manor, the Little Writ Close of the Lord the King is pleaded according to the custom of the Manor," should not be overlooked. The venality of the times is shown by the complaint of Geoffrey Griffin on p. 292 that the Treasurer, Walter de Langton, had refused to do him right because he was unable to give any gift.

These documents are always sparing of information outside the questions addressed to the jurors in the King's writ, and therefore it is not surprising that the Inquisition of Ela de Perrers in 1325 says nothing of her first and third husbands, Griffin de la Pole, Prince of Powis and Peter Giffard, merely styling her widow of James de Perrers. Her nephew James de Audley was reversionary heir to part of her estate, and the old difficulty as to the date of his birth crops up again. As has been pointed out in our notice of the first volume of the Complete Peerage (N.S., vol. xxvii, p. 251) the correct date is 2 January 1313-14, and this accords with the statement in the Inquisition to his father, 4 Jan. 1316-17, on p. 338 of this volume, but for an evident slip of the pen, where he is said to have been "aged 3 on the Feast of the Circumcision next." Next should, of course, be last.

Another valuable contribution by the Hon. Secretary is a careful analysis of the feudatories known as the Testa de Nevill, as far as they relate to Staffordshire. Of these the most important, as con-lands of the culprit either to his immediate feudal lord, who possessed the right of reversion, or to the vill, a strict account to the Crown having to be made for all values received. Sometimes a purchaser was found for the king's rights and made a good profit on the transaction.

Among these Indispositions are several "Procols of Ane," which from the light they throw on contemporary manners and customs and the minute details concerning baptism which they often record, are very interesting. The reasons given by witnesses for being certain of a particular date are often very human, as on p. 305, where one Richard de Kempsy took the birth of Thomas de Heston by his recollection that it coincided with the hanging of a neighbour of his own. Sometimes the evidence does not exactly tally, as in the entry as to the date of birth of Edmund, Baron of Stafford, 22 Kdw. I. when some of the most prominent ecclesiastics and knights of the county bore testimony. From the numerous extents given in many of the Indispositions much information may be obtained regarding the smaller class of landowners, who of necessity are neglected by county historians and are often difficult to locate. Others contain lists of knights, fees, as do those of Roger de Somery in 1291 and Edmund of Lancaster, brother of Edward I. in 1297. The Indisposition of Roger de Somery the elder in 1273 mentions several services due from tenants, some of which are curious. The verdict of the County Court, 23 Kdw. I. given on p. 270, is worthy of notice as illustrating the criminal jurisdiction of that Court, and the statement of the jury, on p. 287, that the Manor of Woburnbury "is part of the ancient demesne of the Crown of England; because in the same Manor, the King's Cross of the Lord the King is placed according to the custom of the Manor," should not be overlooked. The veracity of the times is shown by the complaint of Geoffrey Giffin on p. 292 that the Treasurer, Walter de Langton, had refused to do him right because he was unable to give any gift.

These documents are always speaking of information outside the questions addressed to the jurors in the King's writ, and therefore it is not surprising that the Indisposition of Elin de Forres in 1335 says nothing of her first and third husbands. Giffin de la Pole, Prince of Powis and Peter Giffard, merely stating her widow of James de Forres. Her nephew James de Audley was reversionary heir to part of her estate, and the old difficulty as to the date of his birth crops up again. As has been pointed out in our notice of the first volume of the Complete Peerage (N.S., vol. xxvii, p. 261) the correct date is 2 January 1313-14, and this accords with the statement in the Indisposition to his father, 4 Jan. 1316-17, on p. 238 of this volume, but for an evident slip of the pen, where he is said to have been "aged 3 on the Feast of the Circumcision next." Next should of course be last.

Another valuable contribution by the Hon. Secretary is a careful analysis of the Indispositions known as the Testes de Willelm. as far as they relate to Staffordshire. Of these the most important, as containing the larger number of names of holders of land, is the return of fees and tenants for the Scutage of Gascony, for which there are two lists in the Testa. Commander Wedgwood from internal evidence is of opinion that both these lists were compiled in the late autumn of 1243, and form but one return.

The volume concludes with a Cartulary of deeds of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, accompanied by pedigrees and explanatory notes.

RECORDS OF THE WORSHIPFUL COMPANY OF CARPENTERS. VOL. IV. WARDENS' ACCOUNT BOOK, 1546-1571. Transcribed and edited by Bower Marsh, B.A. Oxford (printed for the Company at the University Press).

The last of these records to be printed was the Court Book, 1533-1573. The Wardens' Accounts are now resumed, and the volume before us covers the period 1546-1571. Mr. Bower Marsh in his very interesting and comprehensive introduction goes fully into the sources of the Company's revenue both from payments and fines due from its members and rents derived from landed property in London Wall and Lyme Street. The sums spent upon festivities and the enormous amount of good cheer consumed at a time when the country was, as now, at war, seem truly astonishing in these days of food control and rationing! The annual dinner on Election Day was a serious item of expenditure, and the other feasts on Lord Mayor's Day, the "Reckoning Day," and the four Quarter Days were little less costly. In the introduction are some valuable observations on the changes in the different kinds of food which fashion had brought about, the tendency being always to a more delicate fare.

These records tell us much concerning military accoutrements and their price, for the Company had to provide its share of the armed forces of the City. The four soldiers sent into Kent in 1554 were doubtless required to join the Londoners despatched for the suppression of Sir Thomas Wyatt's rebellion. In the next reign the charges are recorded of eleven men mustered before Queen Elizabeth in Greenwich Park in July 1559, and there are many other entries relating to soldiers sent to France and Scotland, with the names of their captains. In all these cases the armour, clothing and pay of the men are duly set out.

On Saturday, the 11th of March 1558-9, the Company sold some of their plate to a goldsmith at "the Star" in Cheapside. Mr. Marsh gives his reasons for disagreeing with the opinion expressed by Mr. Pocock in the Historical Account of the Carpenters' Company that this sale was due to financial embarrassment.

On p. 12 there is mention of a "standyng" for the Master and Company when King Edward VI came through London for his coronation at Westminster, and on p. 102 of xvjd paid "for caryeng of or standyng in to cornell in & out at the crownenacion of quene elsa byth." The fines inflicted for bad workmanship were laining the larger number of names of holders of land, is the return of fees and tenants for the Shire of Gwent, for which there are two lists in the TNA. Commander Woodcock from internal evidence is of opinion that both these lists were compiled in the late autumn of 1213, and form but one return.

The volume concludes with a Gentry of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, accompanied by pedigrees and explanatory notes.

RECORDS OF THE WARRIORS COMPANY OF GENTLEMEN. Vol. IV. WARREN'S ACCOUNT BOOK, 1516-1571. Transcribed and edited by Bower Marsh, B.A. Oxford (printed for the Company at the University Press).

The last of these records to be printed was the Gout Book, 1533-1573. The Warren's Accounts are now resumed, and the volume before us covers the period 1516-1571. Mr. Bower Marsh in his very interesting and comprehensive introduction goes fully into the sources of the Company's revenue both from payments and fines due from its members and rents derived from landed property in London Wall and Lyons Street. The sums spent upon festivities and the enormous amount of good cheer consumed at a time when the country was, as now, at war, seem truly astonishing in those days of food control and rationing! The annual dinner on Election Day was a serious item of expenditure, and the other feasts on Lord Mayor's Day, the "Reckoning Day," and the four Quarter Days were little less costly. These records tell us much concerning military appointments and their prices, for the Company had to provide its share of the armed forces of the City. The four soldiers sent into Kent in 1551 were doubtless required to join the Londoners despatched for the suppression of Sir Thomas Wyatt's rebellion. In the next reign the charges are recorded of eleven men mustered before Queen Elizabeth in Greenwich Park in July 1559, and there are many other entries relating to soldiers sent to France and Scotland, with the names of their captains. Mr. Marsh gives his reasons for disagreeing with the opinion expressed by Mr. Woodcock in the Warren's Account of the Company's Company that this sale was due to financial embarrassment.

On p. 12 there is mention of a "standing" for the Master and Company when King Edward VI came through London for his coronation at Westminster, and on p. 103 of xvj paid "for carrying of or standing in to coach in & out at the coronation of the queen Elizabeth." The fine collected for this workmanship were rightly severe, and a money payment was also required even for such a slight offence as coming in a wrong livery gown to a funeral. Not only was a man liable for his own "opprobrious words," but on p. 84 is recorded a fine of two shillings paid by Francis Stelecrag "for yll wordes that his wyffe gave to John Dorrant." In 1570 a brief remnant is preserved of an earlier Apprentice Book than the present register, which does not begin until 1654.

Much information can be obtained from a study of the General Index, which is a complete guide to the contents of the book, and the names of persons are as carefully indexed as in the previous volumes.

A CAMPBELL FRAGMENT.—In The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxvii, p. 192, some entries from a Campbell Bible were published by "H.W.E.H.," and I am now able to throw a little light on the subject. On 5 July 1771 the testament of Patrick Campbell in "Inverchagnery," later at "Inverchagnery," was given up by his lawful son and nearest of kin, Alexander Campbell, landowner at Greenock.

"i.e., Inverchagnery."

A Campbell Testament. A landowner was an owner of customs and excise.

This Alexander may have been in some way related to Mr. Patrick Pollock, minister of South Knapdale, who, by his will, dated 9 May 1761, bequeathed £100 to the children of Alexander Campbell, Comptroller of the Customs at Greenock.⁴ On the other hand, as the son of Patrick (supra) would appear to have contracted his first marriage with Susanna Campbell five years later, this Customs official may be a different individual, and it is possible that he was identical with the father of Susanna, whose christian name was also Alexander as appears from the marriage entry given below. We may note, however, that Pollock, in his will, appointed the Comptroller, together with Archibald Campbell of Knockbuy, Patrick Campbell of Knap, and others, a trustee of a fund for the poor of the parish.

The Middle Greenock Registers give us the following details :—

- 15 Feb. 1766. Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and Susan Campbell, daughter to Alexander Campbell, both of this parish, were booked for proclamation of banns, and married 17th do by the Rev. Mr John Shaw, minister in this parish.
- 1766. Helen, daughter lawful to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter in this parish, and Susanna Campbell, his spouse, born 17th and baptized 18th November.
- 1770. Ann, lawful daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and Susan Campbell, his spouse, born June 27th, baptized
- 1771. Helen, lawful daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born August 29th.
- 1774. Alexander, lawful son to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born . . . March, and baptized⁵
- 1775. Colin, lawful son to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born August 13th.
- 1778. Elizabeth, lawful daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaiter, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born 23rd May,⁶ baptized . . .

And the West Greenock registers give us the second marriage :—

Alexander Campbell, Comptroller of the Customs, Port Glasgow, and Miss Elizabeth Alexander, booked 14th and married 16th January 1792.

That is all. The Greenock West, Port Glasgow, Kilmacolm, Glasgow, and Barony registers give no further information, nor is there any record to be found of the death or testament of Alexander or Susanna.

I do not know where Inverchaggerny⁷ or Dundarave are, but as I have, to a great extent, left Glenorchy history alone,⁸ I suggest ⁴ Argyll Sheriff Court Books, vol. xv; registered 24 July 1761.

⁵ The date of this entry dispels all doubt that we are dealing with the son of Patrick Campbell in Inverchaggerny. Moreover, it was very usual at this period to name the eldest son after the paternal and the second after the maternal grandfathers; and we know that the landwaiter's eldest son was named Patrick.

⁶ The bible gives 22 May.

⁷ Inbhir means "confluence of waters." Chaggerny sounds improbable, and I suspect a clerical corruption.

⁸ It has been so fully dealt with by Sir Duncan Campbell of Barcaldine.

This Alexander may have been in some way related to Mr. Patrick Pollock, minister of South Knapdale, who, by his will, dated 9 May 1761, bequeathed £100 to the children of Alexander Campbell, Comptroller of the Customs at Greenock. On the other hand, as the son of Patrick (whose name would appear to have contracted his first marriage with Susanna Campbell five years later, this Customs official may be a different individual), and it is possible that he was identical with the father of Susanna, whose Christian name was also Alexander as appears from the marriage entry given below. We may note, however, that Pollock, in his will, appointed the Comptroller, together with Archibald Campbell of Knockbush, Patrick Campbell of Knap, and others, a trustee of a fund for the poor of the parish.

The Middle Greenock Registers give us the following details:—

15 Feb. 1766. Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and Susan Campbell, daughter to Alexander Campbell, both of this parish, were booked for proclamation of banns, and married 17th by the Rev. Mr. John Shaw, minister in this parish.

1768. Helen, daughter lawfull to Alexander Campbell, landwaster in this parish, and Susanna Campbell, his spouse, born 17th and baptized 18th November.

1770. Ann, lawfull daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and Susan Campbell, his spouse, born June 27th, baptized . . .

1771. Helen, lawfull daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born August 29th.

1774. Alexander, lawfull son to Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born . . . March, and baptized . . .

1775. Colin, lawfull son to Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born August 13th.

1778. Elizabeth, lawfull daughter to Alexander Campbell, landwaster, and . . . Campbell, his spouse, born 23rd May, baptized . . .

And the West Greenock registers give us the second marriage:—

Alexander Campbell, Comptroller of the Customs, Port Glasgow, and Miss Elizabeth Alexander, booked 14th and married 16th January 1792.

That is all. The Greenock West Port Glasgow, Kilmacolm, Glasgow, and many registers give no further information, nor is there any record to be found of the death or testament of Alexander or Susanna. I do not know where inventarij or Dundagave are, but as I have, to a great extent, left clerical history alone, I suggest

* Argyll & Bute County Books, vol. xv, registered 24 July 1761.

* The date of this entry disposes all doubt that we are dealing with the son of Patrick Campbell in inventarij. Moreover, it was very rare at this period to name the oldest son after the parent, and the second after the maternal grandfather; and we know that the landwaster's oldest son was named Patrick.

* The date given 22 May.

* Latin means "confession of waters." Greenock sounds improbable, and I suspect a clerical corruption.

* It has been so fully dealt with by Sir James Campbell of Barcaldine.

that they may lie in that territory. Mungo is a Glenorchy name. It is also a Loudoun name, but the place names cannot belong to Ayrshire, I think. The names Mungo and Nutter, however, may have come from some friend of the landwaiter.

Possibly "H.W.F.H." may be able to give some more information now.

HERBERT CAMPBELL.

ELEANOR FERRERS, COUNTESS OF WINCHESTER, WIDOW OF ROGER DE LEYBURN.—Referring to the communication under this heading on pp. 113-4 of the October number, I have a MS. note that she died in 1274, before 26 October. Unfortunately I have not preserved my authority, but feel little doubt that she is mentioned as dead at that date in Close or Patent Rolls.

VICARY GIBBS.

A MISSING LEAF FROM A PARISH REGISTER.—In The Genealogist N.S., vol. xvi, p. 135, published in 1900, was printed a transcript of a page torn from an unknown parish register which had come into the possession of the Editor. It was hoped that the publication might lead to its identification, but it was only lately through the happy inspiration of Mr. Keith W. Murray, Portcullis Pursuivant, that this was accomplished.

Mr. Murray noticed the entry of the burial on the 5th January 1604-5 of a certain Nicholas Foxley, gent. A pedigree in Heralds' College, recorded at the Visitation of the County of Northampton in 1618 established the fact that a Nicholas Foxley was seated at Blakesley in that county in the early part of the seventeenth century, and that he was dead before 1618, as the pedigree recorded in that year was signed by his son, Michael Foxley.

The Editor was asked to communicate with the Rev. F. H. Mentha, the present Vicar of Blakesley, and is now pleased to be able to quote from two letters received from him, dated 20th and 24th October 1917. In the first of these letters Mr. Mentha says: "It (the leaf) is undoubtedly from the register of Blakesley, which dates back from 1538. I have looked into it and find that the burials for 1604-6 are wanting. Some of those for 1603 are there, but there is immediately following a narrow edge of parchment indicating that the page of which it formed part has been removed. The names of Ambrose Hook, etc., are appended to all the pages up to about 1630, from 1538 onwards. He cannot have been Vicar all the time. The Foxleys were a substantial family living in the parish, whose name survives in a hamlet at the present time, and a chapel in the church called the Foxley Aisle. In 1669 one William Foxley established an endowed school for boys. The building, enlarged and improved, forms our elementary school at the present."

In his second letter, the Vicar acknowledges the safe receipt of the missing leaf and expresses his thanks, "personally and officially," for its return. He also promises to have the page re-inserted in the register by binders who are experts in dealing with old books.

Unfortunately I have not preserved my authority, but feel little doubt that she is mentioned as dead at that date in Chancery or Patent Rolls.

VICARY GIBBS.

A MISSING LEAF FROM A PARISH REGISTER.—In The Genealogist N.S., vol. xvi, p. 130, published in 1900, was printed a transcript of a page torn from an unknown parish register which had come into the possession of the Editor. It was hoped that the publication might lead to its identification, but it was only lately through the happy inspiration of Mr. Keith W. Murray, Portlouis Parish, that this was accomplished.

Mr. Murray noticed the entry of the burial on the 6th January 1604-5 of a certain Nicholas Foxley, gent. A pedigree in Herald's College recorded at the Visitation of the County of Northampton in 1618 established the fact that a Nicholas Foxley was seated at Blakesley in that county in the early part of the seventeenth century, and that he was dead before 1618, as the pedigree recorded in that year was signed by his son, Michael Foxley.

The Editor was asked to communicate with the Rev. F. H. In the first of these letters Mr. Mentha says: "He (the leaf) is undoubtedly from the register of Blakesley, which dates back from 1538. In his second letter, the Vicar acknowledged the safe receipt of the missing leaf and expresses his thanks, "personally and officially," for its return. He also promises to have the page inserted in the register by binders who are experts in dealing with old books.

FITZ PIERS AND DE SAY.

The statements in the annexed pedigrees are derived partly from the charters printed below. As to the rest, it appears from two cases in Bracton's Note Book, (nos. 1570, 241) that Robert was the eldest brother of Geoffrey fitz Piers, and that they had a sister, Julienne, mother of Morice, and grandmother of Stephen, de Bendenges. The Chronicle of Winchester (p. 67) relates that "Gaufridus filius Petri, vir ingenuus et specialis amator Wintoniensis ecclesie, fecit transferri patrem suum, qui fuerat ejusdem loci monachus conversus, ad succurrendum de cimiterio monachorum in ecclesiam et ibi honorifice recondi in presentia Abbatis de Theokesbiria et Abbatis de Hida et aliorum plurimorum virorum nobilium, viij idus Maii [1198]."

The identity of Geoffrey's second wife, Aveline, with the widow of William de Munchanesy, does not appear to have been noticed hitherto. On 7 May 1204 the King conceded to William, Earl of Arundel, the custody of the lands and of the heirs of William de Muntkanes', and the marriage of Aveline, widow of the said William (Charter Roll, 5 Joh., m. 1). From two of the charters here printed, and from a writ, 22 Nov. 1221 (Close Roll, 5 Hen. III, m. 21 d), it appears that Aveline, Countess of Essex, held the manor of Towcester, Northants, in her own right. On 4 June 1225 Warin de Munteanesy (brother and heir of William the son and heir of William above-named) held this manor (Close Roll, 9 Hen. III, m. 11), and it was held by him and his descendants of the Earls of Gloucester. This Warin had had livery of his lands, 23 Dec. 1213, William, Earl of Arundel, avunculus ipsius Warini, being one of his sureties for his fine of 2,000 marks (Fine Roll, 15 Joh., m. 2). Aveline, mother of Warin, was therefore sister of the Earl of Arundel, and consequently a daughter of Maud de Saint-Hilaire, or de Saint-James, wife successively of Roger, Earl of Hertford, and of William II, Earl of Arundel; and she held the manor of Towcester in frank marriage. This manor, it would seem, she acquired from De Clare. It is true that in the hidarium of Northants (Cotton MSS., Vesp. E. 22, f. 96) it is stated that "In Toucestre Comes de Arundel vij hidas iij parvas virgatas." But it will be seen from a charter below that Earl Roger gave the null of Towcester to the Hospitallers, and the gifts of the Earl and of his wife are discriminated in this charter. The conclusion is that Towcester had been given by the King, not to James de Saint-Hilaire, but to one of the De Clares, and that the Earl of Arundel, when this entry was made in the hidarium, held it only as part of his wife's dower from her first husband: also that Aveline received it in frank marriage from Richard, Earl of Hertford, and was his sister of the whole blood, and not a daughter of the Earl of Arundel.

G. W. WATSON.

FITS PIERS AND DE SAY.

The statements in the annexed pedigrees are derived partly from the charters printed below. As to the rest, it appears from two cases in Bracton's Notae Book (nos. 1370, 241) that Robert was the eldest brother of Geoffrey Fitz Piers, and that they had a sister, Juliana, mother of Horice, and grandmother of Stephen, the Bengeres. The Chronicle of Winchester (p. 87) relates that "Gaufridus filius Petri, vir ingenuus et specialis amator Winthoniensis ecclesie, fecit transferré patrum suorum, qui fuerat episcopus loci monachis concessus, ad suorum curiam de comitatu monachorum in ecclesiam et ibi honorificis recondi in presentia Abbatis de Theobaldia et Abbatis de Hildesheim plurimum virorum nobilium, viii idus Maii [1138]."

The identity of Geoffrey's second wife, Aveline, with the widow of William de Marchewey, does not appear to have been noticed hitherto. On 7 May 1201 the King conveyed to William, Earl of Arundel, the custody of the lands and of the heirs of William de Marchewey, and the marriage of Aveline, widow of the said William (Cotton MSS. E. 1. 1. 22 Nov. m. 1). From two of the charters here printed, and from a writ, 22 Nov. 1221 (Cotton MSS. E. 1. 1. 21 v), it appears that Aveline, Countess of Essex, held the manor of Towcester, Northants, in her own right. On 4 June 1225 Walter de Marchewey (brother and heir of William the son and heir of William above-named) held this manor (Cotton MSS. E. 1. 1. 21 v, m. 1), and it was held by him and his descendants of the Earls of Gloucester. This Walter had had livery of his lands, 23 Dec. 1213; William, Earl of Arundel, awarded against Walter, doing one of his suitors for his fine of 2,000 marks (Fine Roll, 15 Job., m. 2). Aveline, mother of Walter, was the sister of the Earl of Arundel, and consequently a daughter of Maud de Saint-Hilare, or de Saint-James, who successively of Roger, Earl of Hereford, and of William II, Earl of Arundel; and she held the manor of Towcester in frank marriage. This manor, it would seem, she acquired from De Clare. It is true that in the Antiquary of Northants (Cotton MSS. E. 1. 1. 22, f. 90) it is stated that "in Towcester Comes de Arundel vij. bidas lxx. pavers viginti." But it will be seen from a charter below that Earl Roger gave the mill of Towcester to the Hospitallers, and the gift of the land and of the wife are distinguished in the charter. The conclusion is that Towcester had been given by the King, not to James de Saint-Hilare, but to one of the De Clares; and that the Earl of Arundel, when this entry was made in the Antiquary, held it only as part of his wife's dower from her first husband; also that Aveline received it in frank marriage from Richard, Earl of Hereford, and was his sister of the whole blood, and not a daughter of the Earl of Arundel.

James Perronet, the eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, was born on the 18th of July 1844. He matriculated at Cambridge in 1863, and his name duly appears in the Book of Matriculations and Degrees, University of Cambridge, 1851-1900 :—

“Aspinall, Ja. Perronet. Trin. m. 1863.”

In the following year we find him entering the legal world, where, as his father had done before him, he also in time attained a position of distinction in his chosen profession. Mr. Ingpen, in his Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple, has a brief account of him :—³²⁰

“He was cousin of Master Butler Cole Aspinall (post, p. 343).”

Mr. Aspinall’s name is connected with several standard legal works, three of which may be mentioned.³²¹ (1) In 1864 he edited a series of Reports of Cases relating to Maritime Law: containing all the decisions of the Courts of Law and Equity in the United Kingdom. (2) The third edition of Pritchard’s Digest of Admiralty and Maritime Law, issued in 1887, included cases on Average, Carriage of Goods, and Maritime Insurance, by J. P. Aspinall and Gordon Smith, Barristers-at-Law, of the Inner Temple; and in the preface the authors “gladly acknowledge their obligation” to those gentlemen for the digest of those important subjects. (3) The title-page of the fourteenth edition of Baron Tenterden’s Treatise on Merchant Ships and Seamen, issued in 1901, is as follows :—“A Treatise of the Law Relative to Merchant Ships & Seamen, by Charles, Lord Tenterden, Late Chief Justice of England. James Peronnet, the eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, was born on the 18th of July 1814. He matriculated at Cambridge in 1833, and his name duly appears in the Book of Matriculations and Degrees, University of Cambridge, 1831-1800:—

"Aspinall, Jas. Peronnet. Trin. in 1833."

In the following year we find him entering the legal world, where, as his father had done before him, he also in time attained a position of distinction in his chosen profession. Mr. Jaggan, in his Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple, has a brief account of him:—

"1831. James Peronnet Aspinall, eldest son of John Bridge Aspinall, of 64, Queen's Gardens, Baywater, Bath, Barrister-at-law (anc. p. 311).

"B. 1814; Educ. Ushaw Coll., Trin. Coll. Cambridge, and London Univ.; Adm. 23 Nov. 1834; Call 11 June 1837; Q.C. 1832; Bench. 15 June 1831; d. 29 Nov. 1898.

"He was cousin of Master Butler Cole Aspinall (post, p. 343)."

Mr. Aspinall's name is connected with several standard legal works, three of which may be mentioned²² (1) In 1834 he edited a series of Reports of Cases relating to Maritime Law; containing all the decisions of the Courts of Law and Equity in the United Kingdom. (2) The third edition of Parsons's Digest of Maritime and Maritime Law, issued in 1837, included cases on Average, Carriage of Goods, and Maritime Insurance, by J. E. Aspinall and Gordon Smith, Barristers-at-law, of the Inner Temple; and in the preface the authors "gladly acknowledge their obligation" to those gentlemen for the gift of those important subjects. (3) The title-page of the fourteenth edition of Baron Tenbinder's Treatise on Merchant Ships and Seamen, issued in 1891, is as follows:—"A Treatise of the Law Relating to Merchant Ships & Seamen, by Charles Lord Tenbinder, late Chief Justice of England, Fourteenth Edition, by The late James Peronnet Aspinall, of the Middle Temple, one of Her Majesty's Counsel; Butler Aspinall, of the Middle Temple, one of His Majesty's Counsel; and Hubert Stuart Moore, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law." The preface to the fourteenth edition states: "In the production of this Edition, the Editors have retained those portions of the Fifth Edition, the last for which Lord Tenterden was responsible, as are now of authority. . . . The first part of the present Edition was largely prepared by the late Mr. James Aspinall, Q.C. (to whom the publishers had entrusted the work of preparing a New Edition), and Mr. F. A. Satow, now a judge of the Court of Appeal at Cairo."

The following announcement of marriage appeared in The Register and Magazine of Biography, a record of Births, Marriages, Deaths, and other Genealogical and Personal Occurrences, for 1869:—³²²

"Marriages. 1869. Sept. 4.

"At St. Mary of the Angels (R.C.), Bayswater, James Perronet, eldest son of J. B. Aspinall, esq., Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool, to Emily Agnes, eldest dau. of G. H. Ullathorne, esq., of Notting Hill."

As we have seen, Mr. Aspinall died on the 29th of November 1898, and is buried at Kensal Green.³²³ Mrs. Aspinall, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. George Hutton Ullathorne, of 35 Lancaster Gate, Hyde Park, by his marriage with his first cousin, Emily Ann, eldest daughter of William Ullathorne of Mound House, Notting Hill, is still living, and resides at 47 Queensborough Terrace, London, W. In a letter from that address, dated 10th December 1917, she mentions that whilst her husband was at Cambridge he won the Freshmans Sculls, and that she still has the cup, which bears the following inscription:—"Freshmans Sculls, Dec. 10th 1863. Five boats started. Won by J. P. Aspinall."

John Audley Frederick, the second son of John Bridge Aspinall, was born on the 25th of August 1851, and is well-known to-day in the North of England as the General Manager of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway, a position which he has held for the past eighteen years. His railway career has been one of great usefulness, and the degree of distinction which he has attained in railway engineering has recently been crowned by a well-deserved recognition from His Majesty the King, who, in the list of Birthday Honours announced in June 1917, conferred upon him a knighthood.

Mr. Aspinall commenced his railway life at Crewe in 1868, at the age of seventeen years, and became assistant to the Manager of the Steel Works there. In 1875 he accepted a position as Manager of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company's works at Inchicore, near Dublin, where he remained for the next ten years. During this period he was promoted to be Locomotive Engineer to the Company; and he was also elected President of the Institute of Civil Engineers of Ireland.

In 1886 he returned to Lancashire to take up an appointment as Chief Mechanical Engineer of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway. In taking this position he became responsible for the organisation,

The preface to the fourteenth edition states: "In the production of this Edition, the Editors have retained those portions of the Fifth Edition, the last for which Lord Tenison was responsible, as are now of authority. . . . The first part of the present Edition was largely prepared by the late Mr. James Aspinwall, Q.C. (to whom the publishers had entrusted the work of preparing a New Edition), and Mr. N. A. Sadow, now a judge of the Court of Appeal at Cairo."

The following announcement of marriage appeared in The Register and Magazine of Biography, a record of Births, Marriages, Deaths, and other Genealogical and Personal Occurrences, for 1889:—

"Marriages, 1889, Sept. 4.

"At St. Mary of the Angels (R.C.), Baywater, James Perrotet, eldest son of J. B. Aspinwall, esq., Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool, to Emily Agnes, eldest dau. of G. H. Ullathorne, esq., of Notting Hill."

As we have seen, Mr. Aspinwall died on the 25th of November 1888, and is buried at Kensal Green.²²² Mrs. Aspinwall, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. George Hutton Ullathorne of 35 Lancaster Gate, Hyde Park, by his marriage with his first cousin, Emily Ann, eldest daughter of William Ullathorne of Mount House, Notting Hill, is still living, and resides at 47 Queensborough Terrace, London, W. In a letter from that address, dated 18th December 1917, she mentions that whilst her husband was at Cambridge he won the Freshman's Sculls, and that she still has the cup, which bears the following inscription:—"Freshman's Sculls, 1863, 10th 1863. Five boats started. Won by J. P. Aspinwall."

John Audley Frederick, the second son of John Bridge Aspinwall, was born on the 25th of August 1861, and is well-known to-day in the North of England as the General Manager of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway, a position which he has held for the past eighteen years. His railway career has been one of great usefulness, and the degree of distinction which he has attained in railway engineering has recently been proved by a well-deserved recognition from His Majesty the King, who, in the list of Birthday Honours announced in June 1917, conferred upon him a knighthood.

Mr. Aspinwall commenced his railway life at Epsom in 1868, at the age of seventeen years, and became assistant to the Manager of the Great Western Works there. In 1875 he accepted a position as Manager of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company's works at Inchicore, near Dublin, where he remained for the next ten years. During this period he was promoted to the locomotive department of the Company; and he was also elected President of the Institute of Civil Engineers of Ireland. In 1886 he returned to Lancashire to take up an appointment as Chief Mechanical Engineer of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway. In taking this position he became responsible for the organisation, construction, and equipment of large new works at Horwich for the building and repair of locomotives, and for the manufacture of steel. In 1899 he was appointed General Manager of the same Company; and about this time he introduced the large eight-wheeled coupled goods engines, of which there are now a large number on the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway. These powerful engines enabled trains of a thousand tons to be hauled behind the tender, and raised the gross goods train receipts per train mile from 8s. 6d. in 1898 to 15s. in 1916. The use of large locomotives was afterwards adopted by other railway companies. In the same year the Institute of Civil Engineers awarded Mr. Aspinall the Telford Premium for a paper upon the Friction of Locomotive Side Valves.

Henry Kelsall Aspinall, in his book written in 1902-3, has the following note: ³²⁴ "John Bridge Aspinall died before he was an old man, honoured and beloved. His son, John A. F. Aspinall, is an engineer, and an authority in his profession, especially on locomotive engines. He was for some years chief engineer of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company, and had entire control of their fine engineering works at Horwich, where some thousands of men are employed. Recently, the Directors, recognising his great engineering abilities, and comprehensive knowledge of railway work, offered him the appointment of General Manager, which he accepted. John A. F. Aspinall resides at Mossley Hill, and I trust may long be spared to follow up successfully the responsible work in which he is engaged. . . ."

In 1895 and 1900 Mr. Aspinall read engineering papers before Railway Congresses at London and Paris. In the latter year he was elected President of the Institute of Junior Engineers; and each succeeding year has brought either new honours or new responsibilities. In 1902 the Institute of Civil Engineers awarded him the Watt Gold Medal for a paper on Train Resistance. Two years later the Liverpool and Southport Railway was electrified—the first main line passenger railway to be electrified in the United Kingdom. Two years later again he was made a member of the Viceregal Committee to enquire into the working of the Irish Railways. In 1907 he was elected Chairman of the General Railway Managers' Conference, and in the following year he became General Manager of the Dearne Valley Railway. The latter position he continued to hold until 1916, when he was appointed Managing Director instead of General Manager. In 1909, in connection with the opening of the Zeebrugge Harbour and Canal, he was created a Knight of the Order of Leopold.

Between the years of 1908 and 1915 Mr. Aspinall was Chairman of the Faculty of Railway Engineering at Liverpool University, in which capacity he collected from Liverpool shipowners a sum of £39,000 for a mechanical engineering laboratory—the Harrison-Hughes Laboratory. His connection with the University had commenced a number of years before this date; for in 1902 the University had nominated him

The use of large locomotives was afterwards adopted by other railway companies. In the same year the Institute of Civil Engineers awarded Mr. Aspinall the Telford Premium for a paper upon the Friction of Locomotive Slide Valves.

Henry Kellett Aspinall, in his book written in 1902-3, has the following note: "John Bridge Aspinall died before he was an old man, honoured and beloved. His son, John A. V. Aspinall, is an engineer, and an authority in his profession, especially on locomotive engines. He was for some years chief engineer of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company, and had entire control of their fine engineering works at Horwich, where some thousands of men are employed. Two years later again he was made a member of the Victoria Committee to enquire into the working of the Irish Railway. In 1907 he was elected Chairman of the General Railway Managers' Conference, and in the following year he became General Manager of the Great Northern Railway. The latter position he continued to hold until 1916, when he was appointed Managing Director instead of General Manager. In 1909, in connection with the opening of the Seaboard Harbour and Canal, he was created a Knight of the Order of Leopold.

Between the years of 1908 and 1915 Mr. Aspinall was Chairman of the Faculty of Railway Engineering at Liverpool University, in which capacity he collected from Liverpool shipowners a sum of £35,000 for a mechanical engineering laboratory—the Harrison-Hughes Laboratory. His connection with the University had commenced a number of years before this date; for in 1903 the University had nominated him

Associate Professor of Railway Engineering, and in 1907 it had conferred upon him the Honorary Degree of Master of Engineering.

In 1909-10, as President of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers, he had the honour of receiving the members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and in 1911 he was made an Honorary Member of that Society. In 1912 he was appointed a Member of the Railway Executive Committee, which, under Government, has control of all the British railways during the war.

In August 1914, upon the outbreak of war, he was one of 28,000 prisoners of war at Munster Lager, in Germany.

In 1915 Mr. Aspinall was made a Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

In 1916 he was elected Vice-President of the Institute of Civil Engineers. He also holds the rank of Lieut.-Colonel in the Engineer and Railway Staff Corps, and on the 7th July 1916 he was gazetted for the Territorial Decoration, for Long Service (twenty years) in the Territorial and Volunteer Service. In this year the Manchester and Bury Railway was electrified.

A copy of the marriage certificate records that, on the 2nd September 1874, John A. F. Aspinall and Gertrude Helen, daughter of Francis and Jane Schröder, were married at St. Anne's (R.C.) Church at Edge Hill, Liverpool.

Archbold Lake Aspinall, the son of the Rev. W. C. Lake Aspinall, was born on the 18th January 1852. He married Sophia Elizabeth Roylance, daughter of the Rev. Charles O'Neill Pratt, M.A., Vicar of St. Paul's, Burslem. His wife died at Warrington on the 30th September 1889, when she was thirty-six years of age, and after her death Mr. Aspinall migrated to the United States of America with his four children, Kathleen Grevill, Lawrence Lake, Arthur Lionel, and Hilda Geraldine Clarke. No information of his life in America has been obtained beyond the fact that he died in or about the year 1900, at Omaha, in Nebraska. It is a rather curious coincidence that Archbold Aspinall and his wife both died upon their birthdays.

Kathleen, their eldest daughter, returned to England after her father's death, and lived for a time with her aunt, Miss Aspinall-Dudley. She afterwards went out as Sister to the General Hospital at Singapore, and when last heard from in the early months of 1917 was about to be married. Her sister Hilda and her brothers are living in America, and both of the latter are married and have families.³²⁵

Alice Lake, the second daughter of Clarke Aspinall, was married in 1879 to Clement Chevallier Cream. The marriage is recorded in the following interesting pedigree, showing the connection between the Chevallier, Cream, Davies and Kitchener families:—³²⁶

³²⁵ Communicated by Miss Aspinall-Dudley, August 1917.

³²⁶ Communicated by Mrs. Isabelle K. Thorpe-Wood, of Edinburgh. Mrs. Thorpe-Wood is a daughter of Mrs. Robert Chevallier Cream's eldest son by her first marriage, with Lieut. T. L. Davies, 99th Regt., of New Bate Estate Jamaica.

Associate Professor of Railway Engineering, and in 1907 it had conferred upon him the Honorary Degree of Master of Engineering.

In 1900-01, as President of the Institute of Mechanical Engineers, he had the honor of receiving the members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; and in 1911 he was made an Honorary Member of that Society. In 1912 he was appointed a Member of the Railway Executive Committee, which, under Government, has control of all the British railways during the war.

In August 1914, upon the outbreak of war, he was one of 23,000 prisoners of war at Munsterlager, in Germany.

In 1915 Mr. Aspinwall was made a Knight of Grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

In 1916 he was elected Vice-President of the Institute of Civil Engineers. He also holds the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the Engineers, and Railway Staff Corps, and on the 1st July 1916 he was gazetted for the Territorial Decoration, for long service (twenty years) in the Territorial and Volunteer Service. In this year the Manchester and Bury Railway was electrified.

A copy of the marriage certificate records that, on the 2nd September 1874, John A. W. Aspinwall and Gertrude Helen, daughter of Francis and Jane Schneider, were married at St. Anne's (R.C.) Church at Edgely Hill, Liverpool.

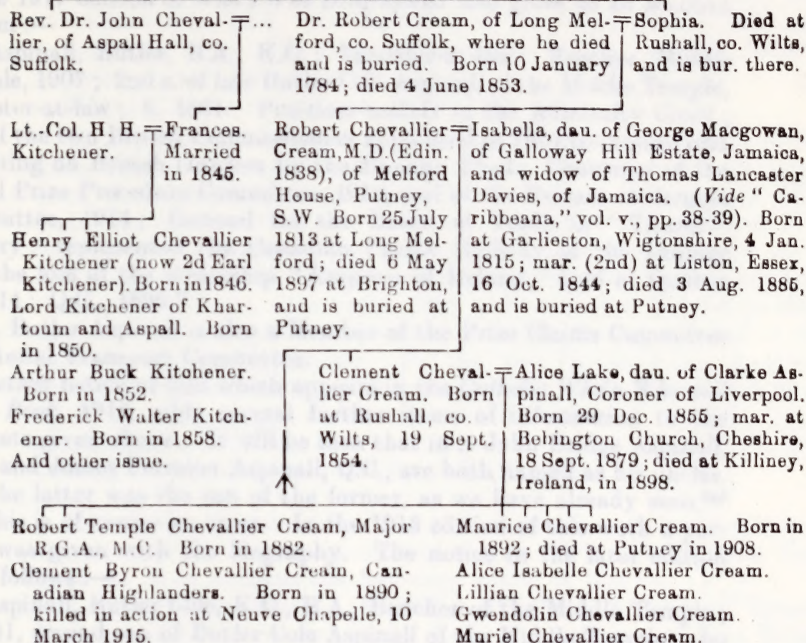

Arnold Lake Aspinwall, the son of the Rev. W. C. Lake Aspinwall, was born on the 18th January 1852. He married Sophia Elizabeth Roylance, daughter of the Rev. Charles O'Neill Pratt, M.A., Vicar of St. Paul's, Bathurst. His wife died at Warrington on the 30th September 1889, when she was thirty-six years of age, and after her death Mr. Aspinwall migrated to the United States of America with his four children, Kathleen (Givoli), Lawrence Lake, Arthur Lionel, and Hilda Gertrude Clark. No information of his life in America has been obtained beyond the fact that he died in or about the year 1900, at Omaha, Nebraska. It is a rather curious coincidence that Arnold Aspinwall and his wife both died upon their birthdays.

Kathleen, their eldest daughter, returned to England after her father's death, and lived for a time with her aunt, Miss Aspinwall-Budley. She afterwards went out as Sister to the General Hospital at Singapore, and when last heard from in the early months of 1917 was about to be married. Her sister Hilda and her brothers are living in America, and both of the latter are married and have families.²²²

Alice Lake, the second daughter of Charles Aspinwall, was married in 1879 to Clement Chevalier Cream. The marriage is recorded in the following interesting pedigree, showing the connection between the Chevalier, Cream, Davies and Rochester families:—²²³

²²² Communicated by Miss Aspinwall-Budley, August 1917.
²²³ Communicated by Mrs. Isabelle R. Thorpe-Wood, of Birmingham. Mrs. Thorpe-Wood is a daughter of Mrs. Robert Chevalier Cream's eldest son by her first marriage, with Miss T. L. Davies, 98th Regt., of New British Estate

Rev. Temple Chevallier, M.A., of Mary, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Aspall Hall, co. Suffolk, and Patron of the living; Fellow of Magdalen College, Cantab., 1753 (vide Payne's "Armorial Families of Jersey").

Noel Lake, the second but eldest surviving son of Clarke Aspinall, was born in 1861. Crockford's Clerical Directory for 1917 relates that the Ven. Noel Lake Aspinall, of St. Edmund's Rectory, Whalley Range, Manchester, was educated at St. John's College, Oxford, where he took the degrees of B.A. in 1884 and M.A. in 1890. He was Curate of St. Paul's, Sheffield, from 1885 to 1887; of Eccleshall from 1888 to 1892; and Rector of Holy Trinity, Chesterfield, from 1892 to 1902. Since 1902 he has been Rector of St. Edmund's, Whalley Range, in the diocese of Manchester. In 1914 he was made Commissary to the Bishop of Grafton, and in 1916 he became Archdeacon of Manchester.

Butler Cole, the second son of Butler Cole Aspinall, was born on the 6th August 1861. A short biographical note of him appears in Mr. Ingpen's Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple,³²⁷ from which, it will be remembered, we have already extracted notices of his uncle and his cousin:—

"1907. Butler Cole Aspinall, second son of the late B. C. Aspinall, of Melbourne, Victoria, Barrister-at-Law, Middle Temple.

³²⁷ Arthur Robert Ingpen, K.C.: The Middle Temple Bench Book, p. 843.

"B. 1861; Educ. London Univ.; Adm. 12 Nov. 1879; Call 17 Nov. 1884; Q.C. 1899; Bench, 30 Jan. 1907.

"Master Aspinall was nephew of John Bridge Aspinall (ante, p. 311), and also related to Sir Biby Lake (ante, p. 241)."

The 1917 edition of Who's Who Biographies also gives us an account of him:—

"Aspinall, Butler, B.A., K.C.; barrister-at-law; Bench, Middle Temple, 1907; 2nd s. of late Butler Cole Aspinall of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law; b. 1861. Practises mainly in the Admiralty Court; one of the two British Commissioners appointed in 1904 to inquire into the firing on British trawlers by the Russian Fleet; Chairman of the Naval Prize Procedure Committee, 1913, and of the Release of Cargoes Committee, 1914; Counsel for the Board of Trade in "Titanic" Inquiry; represented the Canadian Pacific Railway at the Inquiry into the loss of the steamship "Empress of Ireland," held at Quebec in 1914; Q.C., 1899."

Mr. Butler Aspinall is also a Member of the Prize Claims Committee and Aerial Transport Committee.

Another notice of him which appears in the Catholic Who's Who and Year Book, 1916, adds several further items of information to the accounts given above. It will be seen that in it John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., and James Perronet Aspinall, Q.C., are both named as his uncles. But the latter was the son of the former, as we have already seen,³²⁸ and this is of course an error. In the 1913 edition of this work a portrait was given with the biography. The notice in the later edition is as follows:—

"Aspinall, Butler Cole, K.C., B.A., Bench of the Middle Temple; b. 1861, second son of Butler Cole Aspinall of the Middle Temple, who became Solicitor-General of Victoria, Australia; called to the Bar at Middle Temple, 1884; took silk, 1899; elected Bench, 1907; became the leading practitioner in the Admiralty Court (a branch of the profession where other members of his family have been honourably distinguished—among them his uncles, the late John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool and a [Roman Catholic] convert of 1847, and the late James Perronet Aspinall, Q.C., editor of Aspinall's Maritime Law Cases); with Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge was British Commissioner to conduct the Hull Inquiry into the firing on British trawlers in the North Sea, 1904; Counsel for Board of Trade in "Titanic" Inquiry, 1912; Counsel for the Canadian Pacific Railway in the "Empress of Ireland" Inquiry at Quebec, 1914."

Mr. Ingpen, in his account given above, makes the statement that Mr. Butler Aspinall is related to Sir Biby Lake. Upon referring to his note of Sir Biby Lake, we find that the names of four generations of the Lake family appear in the Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple:—³²⁹

³²⁸ See ante, p. 190.

³²⁹ Arthur Robert Ingpen, K.C.: The Middle Temple Bench Book, pp. 202, 226, 241, and 262.

 "Master Aspinall was nephew of John Bridge Aspinall (ante, p. 311), and also related to Sir R. B. J. Lake (ante, p. 241)."

The 1917 edition of H.A.'s Who's Who also gives us an account of him:—

"Aspinall, Butler, B.A., K.C.; barrister-at-law; Bench. Middle Temple, 1907; 2nd s. of late Butler Cole Aspinall of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law; B. 1861. Practices mainly in the Admiralty Court; one of the two British Commissioners appointed in 1904 to inquire into the firing on British (travellers by the Russian Fleet; Chairman of the Naval Prize Procedure Committee, 1913, and of the Release of Captives Committee, 1914; Counsel for the Board of Trade in "Titanic" inquiry; represented the Canadian Pacific Railway at the inquiry into the loss of the steamship "Empress of Ireland," held at Quebec in 1914; Q.C., 1889."

Mr. Butler Aspinall is also a member of the Prize Claims Committee and Aerial Transport Committee.

Another notice of him which appears in the Cyclopedia H.A.'s Who's Who Book, 1916, adds several further items of information to the accounts given above. It will be seen that in it John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., and James Petronne Aspinall, Q.C., are both named as his uncles, but the latter was the son of the former, as we have already seen, and this is of course an error. In the 1913 edition of this work a portrait was given with the biography. The notice in the later edition is as follows:—

"Aspinall, Butler Cole, K.C., B.A., Barrister of the Middle Temple; B. 1861, second son of Butler Cole Aspinall of the Middle Temple, who became Solicitor-General of Victoria, Australia; called to the Bar at Middle Temple, 1884; took silk, 1889; elected Bench. 1907; became the leading practitioner in the Admiralty Court (a branch of the profession where other members of his family have been honourably distinguished—among them his uncles, the late John Bridge Aspinall, Q.C., Recorder of Liverpool and a [Roman Catholic] convert of 1847, and the late James Petronne Aspinall, Q.C., editor of Aspinall's Maritime Law Cases); with Admiral Sir Guyman Bridge was British Commissioner to conduct the Hall Inquiry into the firing on British travellers in the North Sea, 1904; Counsel for Board of Trade in "Titanic" inquiry, 1913; Counsel for the Canadian Pacific Railway in the "Empress of Ireland" inquiry at Quebec, 1914."

Mr. Inghen, in his account given above, makes the statement that Mr. Butler Aspinall is related to Sir R. B. J. Lake. Upon referring to his note of Sir R. B. J. Lake, we find that the names of four generations of the Lake family appear in the Register of Masters of the Bench of the Middle Temple:—

Thomas Lake, son and heir of Thomas Lake (ante, p. 202), was admitted in 1665. He died in 1711.

Sir Biby Lake, son and heir of Thomas Lake (ante, p. 226), was admitted in 1694. He was father of Biby Lake (post, p. 262), and died in 1744. His arms are described as Sa., a bend between six crosses crosslet fitchee Arg.

Biby Lake, the second son of Sir Biby Lake.

These notes do not make it clear exactly how this branch of the Lake family was connected with William Charles Lake, of Liverpool, whose ancestor (if we accept Mr. Lewin's statement) was John Lake, the brother of Edward Lake who was knighted by Charles I for bravery at Edgehill.³³⁰ The key to the relationship appears to be given, however, in the following information supplied by Miss Aspinall:

Sir Edward Lake, born about 1597 and created a Baronet in 1643, married Ann, daughter and coheir of Simon Bibye, and had a son Edward, who died in infancy. His heir was Thomas Lake, the son of his eldest half-brother Thomas, born in 1615. John Lake, born about 1618, was a younger half-brother of Sir Edward, and the great-grandfather of William Charles Lake of Liverpool. Biby Lake (the second) was third cousin to William Charles Lake.

John Bridge, the son of Sir John A. F. Aspinall, and the third to bear the name, was born on the 13th of August 1877. The Catholic Year Book for 1916 contains the following notice of him:—

"Aspinall, John Bridge. B. 1877, s. of John A. F. Aspinall, General Manager of the Lancs. and Yorks. Railway; grandson of John Bridge Aspinall, once Recorder of Liverpool; educ. at Stonyhurst and C. Ch., Oxon; Barrister-at-Law; Editor of Aspinall's Maritime Law Cases."

A certificate of marriage shows that, on the 17th April 1912, he married at Warwick Street R.C. Church, London, Mary, daughter of James Devine, of Waterford and Arizona.

With this note we conclude the records which have been collected relating to the descendants of the Rev. James Aspinall. Some other descendants he had of whom no biographical notes have been found; their names will be included in the pedigree with which it is proposed to conclude the account of this family.

The descendants of William and Thomas Aspinall, younger sons of James Aspinall, of Old Dock, have now to receive our attention. We shall first trace down to the present time the descendants of William Aspinall, so far as we have knowledge of them, and afterwards those of his brother.

William Aspinall, it will be remembered, was born in 1761. The account of him which has been given in the preceding pages³³¹ has shown ³³⁰ See ante, p. 101.

Thomas Lake, son and heir of Thomas Lake of Gowerst (see Gowerst), Kent, was admitted in 1634. He died in 1687. Thomas Lake, son and heir of Thomas Lake (ante, p. 202), was admitted in 1685. He died in 1711. Sir Bishy Lake, son and heir of Thomas Lake (ante, p. 202), was admitted in 1691. He was father of Bishy Lake (post, p. 202), and died in 1744. His arms are described as Or, a bend between six crosses crosslet fitchy Arg. Bishy Lake, the second son of Sir Bishy Lake.

These notes do not make it clear exactly how this branch of the Lake family was connected with William Charles Lake, of Liverpool, whose ancestor (if we accept Mr. James's statement) was John Lake, the brother of Edward Lake who was knighted by Charles I for bravery at Edgehill.²⁰⁰ The key to the relationship appears to be given, however, in the following information supplied by Miss Aspinall: Sir Edward Lake, born about 1597 and created a Baronet in 1643, married Ann, daughter and co-heir of Simon Bishy, and had a son Edward, who died in infancy. His heir was Thomas Lake, the son of his eldest half-brother Thomas, born in 1616. John Lake, born about 1618, was a younger half-brother of Sir Edward, and the great-grandfather of William Charles Lake of Liverpool. Bishy Lake (the second) was third cousin to William Charles Lake.

John Bridge, the son of Sir John A. F. Aspinall, and the third to bear the name, was born on the 13th of August 1877. The Catholic Year Book for 1916 contains the following notice of him:—

"Aspinall, John Bridge, B. 1877, s. of John A. F. Aspinall, General Manager of the Lancs. and Yorks. Railway; grandson of John Bridge Aspinall, once Recorder of Liverpool; educ. at St. Albans and O. Chr. Oxon; barrister-at-law; Editor of Aspinall's Maritime Law Cases."

A certificate of marriage shows that on the 17th April 1912, he married at Warwick Street R.C. Church, London, Mary, daughter of James Devine, of Watford and Arisdon.

With this note we conclude the records which have been collected relating to the descendants of the Rev. James Aspinall. Some other descendants he had of whom no biographical notes have been found; their names will be included in the pedigree with which it is proposed to conclude the account of this family.

The descendants of William and Thomas Aspinall, younger sons of James Aspinall, of Old Jack, have now to receive our attention. We shall first trace down to the present time the descendants of William Aspinall, so far as we have knowledge of them, and afterwards those of his brother.

that he lived at Liverpool during the whole of his life ; that he was—to use the words of Captain Crow—"one of the most generous merchants of Liverpool" ; and that he probably died there about 1816. His two sons, John and George, are the only members of his family of whom any records have been found.

John Aspinall first appears in 1816, when he resided at 58, Russell Street, Liverpool, and is described as a "sailmaker." In 1818 and 1821 we find him living in Duke Street, and in 1825 he had removed to Birkenhead, where he continued to reside. In 1816 the firm of Aspinall and Knowles, sailmakers, came into existence at the addresses formerly occupied by William Aspinall, and we may assume that John Aspinall had taken his father's position in the business, at the same time taking a partner. The partnership was still in existence in 1825, but would seem to have been dissolved after that year, for from 1829 to 1834 "John Aspinall, sailmaker, Orford Street," is the only name given. In 1849 we find evidence of a new partnership ; and in this year the directory contains the names of several of John Aspinall's sons :—

Aspinall, Henry Kelsall, brewer and assurance agent, 19, Camden Street, Birkenhead. Brewery, Livingston Street, Birkenhead. Office, 9A, N. John Street.

Aspinall, Mrs. John (J. A. Son and B.), 1, Priory Street, Birkenhead. Aspinall, John, Son and Brooke, sailmakers and ship chandlers, 13, Orford Street, and 8, Pool Street, Birkenhead.

Aspinall, William Boulton, sailmaker (J. A. Son and B.), 45, Hamilton Square, Birkenhead.

Aspinall and Hughes, stock and share brokers, 2, Royal Bank Buildings.

Aspinall, Joseph, sharebroker (A. and H.), 52, Hamilton Square, Birkenhead.

Aspinall, Joseph, sharebroker, Highfield, Rock Ferry, Cheshire. Office, 2, Royal Bank Buildings.

The last of these entries is to be found amongst the "additions," at the commencement of the directory. These names, or the majority of them, continue to appear for many years after 1849, but particulars have not been extracted after that date.³³²

Mrs. Hilda Gamlin has made the removal of John Aspinall and his family from Liverpool the subject of a short paragraph in her account of Birkenhead :—³³³

"Among the first resident gentry may be mentioned Mr. John Aspinall, who loved fox-hunting, and brought his family and stud of horses to Birkenhead for the purpose of hunting with Sir Thomas Stanley's hounds, then kept at Hooton. They lived in Church Street, in a pretty house, with a green field sloping to the river. This estimable gentleman took a lively interest in all that appertained to the rising village of his adoption. He established the first dispensary, which afterwards developed into a hospital for the poor and maimed."

²²³ Mrs. Hilda Gammie: "Rock Ferry and Dec. 18, 1825."

Mrs. Gamlin goes on to relate how Mr. Aspinall was selected to make a presentation to the Rev. Canon Knox, a tribute of respect from his parishioners after twenty-five years spent amongst them. Appended to this paragraph, a footnote tells us:—

“The descendants of Mr. Aspinall may certainly claim that their progenitors discovered Birkenhead, for, with the exception of the announcement of the marriage of Mr. James Aspinall at Birkenhead Chapel in 1816, there is not a single allusion to the place in a whole year's issue of the Liverpool newspapers of that date. As we know, there were only 100 inhabitants, yet it is only eighty years ago.”

Mrs. Gamlin's statement that John Aspinall went to Birkenhead for the purpose of hunting is confirmed by his son, Henry Kelsall Aspinall, who writes:—³³⁴

“In 1824, my father, John Aspinall, was in business in Liverpool, as were his father and grandfather before him. He was devoted to horses and hunting. The Liverpool Harriers he had hunted with from his youth, but he preferred foxhounds when within reach. About this time, the Wirral peninsula abounded with foxes, so Sir Thomas Stanley, of Hooton, who had for some years kept a small pack of harriers hunting his own country two days a week, determined to keep foxhounds. This was the immediate cause of my father's removing to the Cheshire side of the Mersey. He was one of the first gentlemen resident in Birkenhead.

“On removing from Liverpool my father took up his abode in a very pretty house near the river, on the site where Lairds' shipbuilding yard now stands. Fronting the house, a large grass field sloped down to the river side. Here the Hooton foxhounds met twice each season; and the hunt breakfasted at my father's house.

“My father was well known and respected in the hundred of Wirral. Justly so. He was a thorough gentleman, hospitable and kind, a lover of sport, and an active participator in all local events.

“He was a grand rider and a fearless man across country, while his stables contained some of the finest hunters in Cheshire. Hearty and entertaining both as host and guest, his sayings and good stories were appreciated alike at the cover side and at the dinner-table.”

There are quite a number of other references to John Aspinall scattered throughout his son's book, and Mrs. John also is frequently mentioned in it. In the index we find her name entered as “Aspinall, Charlotte (my mother),” but in the text of the book she is never named in any other way than as “my mother.” In the opening chapter we are told: ³³⁵

“My mother was one of the best of women, kind and amiable to a degree. Indeed, I never saw her the least ruffled in temper. She was deservedly beloved, not only in the family circle, but also throughout the neighbourhood. She was known as the ‘Duchess of Birkenhead.’ The allusion first appeared in a doggerel rhyme, published in a funny

Mrs. Gamlin goes on to relate how Mr. Aspinall was selected to make a presentation to the Rev. Canon Knox, a tribute of respect from his parishioners after twenty-five years spent amongst them. Appended to this paragraph, a footnote tells us:—

"The descendants of Mr. Aspinall may certainly claim that their progenitors discovered Birkenshead, for with the exception of the announcement of the marriage of Mr. James Aspinall at Birkenshead Chapel in 1810, there is not a single allusion to the place in a whole year's issue of the Liverpool newspapers of that date. As we know, there were only 100 inhabitants, yet it is only eighty years ago."

Mrs. Gamlin's statement that John Aspinall went to Birkenshead for the purpose of hunting is confirmed by his son, Henry Kelsall Aspinall, who writes:—

"In 1824, my father, John Aspinall, was in business in Liverpool, as were his father and grandfather before him. He was devoted to houses and hunting. The Liverpool hunters he had hunted with from his youth, but he preferred foxhounds when winter reached. About this time, the Wirral peninsula abounded with foxes, so Sir Thomas Stanley, of Hooton, who had for some years kept a small pack of barbers hunting his own country two days a week, determined to keep foxhounds. This was the immediate cause of my father's removing to the Cheshire side of the Mersey. He was one of the first gentlemen resident in Birkenshead."

"On removing from Liverpool my father took up his abode in a very pretty house near the river, on the site where Landis' shipbuilding yard now stands. Fronting the house, a large grass field sloped down to the river side. Here the Hooton foxhounds met twice each season; and the hunt breakfasted at my father's house."

"My father was well known and respected in the hundred of Wirral, hardly so. He was a thorough gentleman, hospitable and kind, a lover of sport, and an active participant in all local events."

"He was a grand rider and a fearless man across country, while his stables contained some of the finest hunters in Cheshire. Hoofed and enterprising both as host and guest, his sayings and good stories were appreciated alike at the cover side and at the dinner-table."

There are quite a number of other references to John Aspinall scattered throughout his son's book, and Mrs. John also is frequently mentioned in it. In the index we find her name entered as "Aspinall, Charlotte (my mother)," but in the text of the book she is never named in any other way than as "my mother." In the opening chapter we are told:

"My mother was one of the best of women, kind and amiable to a degree. Indeed, I never saw her the least ruffled in temper. She was deservedly beloved, not only in the family circle, but also throughout the neighbourhood. She was known as the 'Duchess of Birkenshead.' The allusion first appeared in a doggerel rhyme, published in a funny old Liverpool paper, called Paddy Kelly's Budget, which had a weekly issue, with a large circulation for those days—

‘There is a Duchess in Birkenhead,
A shipowner's wife is she;
Whose ships are known to be as good
As any that plow the sea.’”

Mr. and Mrs. Aspinall both appear to have been highly popular in Birkenhead. Mrs. Gamlin, in her account of the public coaches which were then running,³³⁶ relates how the “Hirondelle” started from the Birkenhead Hotel and ran to Cheltenham in ten hours, a distance of 120 miles, and says: “Mr. H. K. Aspinall, of Hamilton Square, used to go to school at Cheltenham, conveyed thither in the ‘Hirondelle.’ Once when Mr. Aspinall's father and mother were returning home after an absence, persons were stationed on a bridge which crossed a tributary running inland, and which commanded a view of the old Chester Road. When their coach was seen in the distance, a signal was sent on to the look-out at St. Mary's Church, and the bell-ringers rang out a peal of welcome from the belfry.”

The name of this church recalls to memory that John Aspinall had his family-sitting in it, and no doubt attended there regularly every Sunday. Writing of Sir John Pulestone, Mrs. Gamlin says:³³⁷ “He attended St. Mary's Church on Sundays, and sat in his large square pew, next to that of Mr. John Aspinall.”

Henry Kelsall Aspinall also, writing of two intimate friends of his father, tells us in one of his characteristic stories:³³⁸ “Mr. and Mrs. Cockerill's sitting was near our family pew in St. Mary's Church, immediately under the pulpit. One Sunday, a sermon was preached in aid of the Society for Converting the Jews. My father, as warden, usually collected. The collecting-boxes were like long scoops. My father handed the box to Mrs. Cockerill, who placed her coin in it; but on holding it to Mr. Cockerill, he leaned forward and audibly whispered to my father: ‘No! I lent a little Jew a shilling some weeks ago on the hunting-field, and he has never paid me back. We are square now.’ My father had some difficulty in keeping his countenance.”

George Aspinall was presumably a younger son of William Aspinall. One brief note, written by his nephew, gives the only information of him which has been found.³³⁹ “My uncle, George Aspinall, was a handsome man, generous and open-hearted. He simply delighted us children when he came across from Edge Hill, where he resided, to spend the day at my father's house. He always brought us nice little presents. One day he arrived with a fine mule, a set of harness, saddle,

Mr. and Mrs. Astinwall both appear to have been highly popular in Birkenhead. Mrs. Gamlin, in her account of the public coaches which were then running, ²⁰² relates how the "Hundredells" started from the Birkenhead Hotel and ran to Chatterham in ten hours, a distance of 120 miles, and says: "Mr. H. E. Astinwall, of Hamilton Square, used to go to school at Chatterham, conveyed thither in the 'Hundredells' Once when Mr. Astinwall's father and mother were returning home after an absence, persons were stationed on a bridge which crossed a tributary running inland, and which commanded a view of the old Chester Road. When their coach was seen in the distance, a signal was sent on to the look-out at St. Mary's Church, and the bell-ringers rang out a peal of welcome from the belfry."

The name of this church recalls so many that John Astinwall had his family-sitting in it, and no doubt attended there regularly every Sunday. Writing of Sir John Lubbock, Mrs. Gamlin says: ²⁰³ "He attended St. Mary's Church on Sundays, and sat in his large square pew, next to that of Mr. John Astinwall."

Henry Kelsall Astinwall also, writing of two intimate friends of his father, tells us in one of his characteristic stories: ²⁰⁴ "Mr. and Mrs. Cockrell's sitting was near our family pew in St. Mary's Church, immediately under the pulpit. One Sunday a sermon was preached in aid of the Society for converting the Jews. My father, as usual, usually collected. The collecting-books were the long scope. My father handed the box to Mrs. Cockrell, who placed her coin in it; but on handing it to Mr. Cockrell, he bowed forward and audibly whispered to my father: 'No! I lent a little Jew a shilling some weeks ago on the sabbath-day, and he has never paid me back. He is an square now.' My father had some difficulty in keeping his countenance. . . ."

George Astinwall was presumably a younger son of William Astinwall. One brief note, written by his nephew, gives the only intimation of him which has been found. ²⁰⁵ "My uncle, George Astinwall, was a handsome man, generous and open-hearted. bridle, riding and driving whips, spurs, and a light cart. These were a present for me, as I was the youngest boy, and his particular favourite." The remarks which follow rather suggest a doubt as to the wisdom displayed in the choice of this handsome present.

William Boulton Aspinall was the eldest son of John Aspinall and grandson of William Aspinall. The entries in Gore's Directory for 1849 have shown that he had then become a partner in the firm of John Aspinall, Son, and Brooke. Henry Kelsall Aspinall mentions him several times, both by name and as "my brother," and relates a hunting story in which he is the central figure. On this occasion he negotiated a "rather wide brook, with rotten and muddy banks," under conditions which secured for him a solid silver hunting-flask, a present from Sir William Massey Stanley, "in remembrance of the Brook jump," as the inscription upon it stated.³⁴⁰

He was the author of a little volume entitled San Remo as a Winter Residence, by an Invalid.³⁴¹ The book is descriptive of San Remo, Cannes, Nice, Mentone, and the neighbourhood. Three editions of it were issued, the first of which, "written after having been only six weeks at San Remo, between the 16th of March and the 1st of May, 1863, was not sold at all, but was given away to my friends and the public."³⁴² The author tells us: "I left London, in company with my wife and sister, on a cold misty morning, November 3rd, 1862.³⁴³ We arrived at San Remo on the 18th March 1863, and took rooms at the Hotel de Londres, intending to stay only a week or ten days; but we were so pleased with the place, and the improvement in my health was so marked and steady, that we were induced to remain six weeks."³⁴⁴ The preface to the first edition is signed "W. Joseph Aspinall was in business in Birkenhead in 1849, as the extracts from the directory for that year given above have shown us, and his name appears in many subsequent issues.

Henry Kelsall Aspinall, the youngest son of John Aspinall, was born in 1824.³⁴⁸ He published his book of reminiscences, a number of quotations from which have been given above, in 1903, and thus became an author at the advanced age of seventy-eight. And, even though the volume may contain the "faults in the manner" of its compilation which we are told must exist, the achievement commands our consideration and respect; for its author had had no previous experience of book-making, and he himself tells us in its preface: "I am not a bookish man: this is my first attempt at authorship."

The full title of the book is Birkenhead and its Surroundings: Topographical, Biographical, Autobiographical, Anecdotal, and Whimsical. In its preface Mr. Aspinall tells us how he came to write it, and of his lifelong connection with Birkenhead:—

"Ever and anon for many years have I been urged by dear old friends to place on record the reminiscences of a long and a not uneventful life.

"On this 8th day of June 1902 (the fifty-fifth anniversary of my wedding day), I am at length induced to comply with the wishes so often expressed, and begin to jot down from memory the scenes of a storied past.

"It is my purpose to compile a chatty little volume reminiscent of my native town, and its progress from a small rural hamlet of a few score families to a thriving township of upwards of 100,000 souls. A connected history is in no sense attempted, chronological order is avoided, whilst matters purely statistical are rejected as foreign alike to the spirit and the intention of the work. The book purports to contain nothing more or less than a series of anecdotes and events bearing on the general life of the community: Wirral hunting stories, scenes on the Mersey and the Dee, noted sailing and steamships of the Mersey ports, incidents biographical and whimsical."

The anecdotes and hunting stories, good though many of them are, it is not possible to repeat here; some of them are undoubtedly told in a vein of "whimsical" exaggeration, as witness the story of James Aspinall, the Mayor of Liverpool, who "weighed twenty-seven stone, and stood six feet two inches high." The descriptions of local events and of the noted sailing and steamships of the Mersey ports are of very considerable value and interest; several illustrations of the latter are given, two of which present us with a striking comparison between the quaint and old-fashioned Atlantic liner "President," of 1840, and the modern and "up-to-date" Atlantic liner "Oceanic" of 1900.

Henry Kelsall Aspinall took an active and prominent part in the life of Birkenhead. A portrait and a notice of him appeared in The Liverpool Leader of the 10th April 1875, both of which are reproduced in the twentieth chapter of his book. In the following notes, selected from various parts of the book, he gives some particulars of himself:—

"St. Mary's, commonly called the Parish Church, was the first place of worship built in modern Birkenhead. It was commenced by Francis Richard Price, and finished in 1824. I believe I was one of the first children to be christened there. . . ."³⁴⁹

"I was educated at Dr. Rowley's, Bridgnorth, in its day one of the best schools in England. Lord Lingen and Bishop Fraser were head boys when I was a junior. . . ."³⁵⁰

"In August, 1840, I sailed from Liverpool in the steamship 'President' for New York. I was then an apprentice boy with Fawcett and Preston, who made and fitted the engines, 520 horse power. The steamer was 2,300 tons. . . . Macgregor Laird, the great African traveller, obtained permission from William Fawcett for me to go the first voyage to New York, and a grand time I had. . . . When within about 200 miles of New York, a pilot boarded us. . . . It is quite unusual for pilots to go so far out to sea, but as the 'President' was the largest and one of the first steamships to cross the Atlantic, New York was in a state of excitement. . . . The arrival of our big steamer was a great event. New York harbour, from the Narrows to the city, was en fête. The American line-of-battle ship, the 'North Carolina,' was anchored off the battery, Castle Gardens. She manned yards and fired a salute. . . . The 'President' made a good run home to Liverpool, sixteen days. She again crossed to New York and back, a winter voyage; but the following March, on her return voyage to Liverpool, with 140 souls on board, she was lost. . . ."³⁵¹

The next note is an extract from the article which appeared in The Liverpool Leader of the 10th April 1875:—³⁵²

"Henry Kelsall Aspinall is emphatically a Birkenhead man. . . . Soon after attaining his majority in 1845, he commenced business as a brewer in Birkenhead, in which vocation he was during many years largely engaged. . . . In 1865, he sold his brewery and business to a joint-stock company, and subsequently purchased a brewery in Wrexham, which he still conducts.

"In 1854, he was elected a Commissioner of Birkenhead, which honour he has since retained without intermission, being re-elected whenever he presented himself before the ratepayers. From the outset he served with distinction on the Ferry Committee, where he was a chief agent in forming the universally admired ferry approaches, and in placing the large saloon boats on the station. Indeed, this department of the Commissioners' work has become his hobby, so much so that in 1867 he was elected Chairman of the Committee, and to retain the post has

From the outset he served with distinction on the Porty Committee, where he was a chief agent in forming the universally admitted ferry approaches, and in placing the large salmon boats on the station. Indeed, this department of the Commissioners' work has become his hobby, so much so that in 1867 he was elected Chairman of the Committee, and to retain the post has repeatedly declined to be elected Chairman of the Board of Commissioners.

"Mr. Aspinall is exceedingly popular in Birkenhead, where his business faculties and oratorical power are greatly esteemed; and when, after Mr. John Laird's death, he came forward as a candidate for representation of the borough, his prospect of success was bright, although his action divided the Conservative party. He was persuaded, however, to withdraw from opposition to Mr. David MacIver, who was supported by the Conservative managers on this side of the Mersey, and the party were thus enabled to achieve a decisive victory over Mr. Samuel Stitt."

This extract from The Liverpool Leader can be supplemented by other notes in which Mr. Aspinall gives us a fuller knowledge of himself and of his public life. A complete list of all the various offices which he filled is given,³⁵³ and at the commencement of the chapter which contains it he tells us:—

"During my public life I was seven times offered the position of Chairman of the Board of Commissioners. This was tantamount to what is now the office of Mayor. I declined, for the simple reason that much of the time I was a Commissioner I was chairman of the Ferry Committee, and the ferry was the most important property possessed by the township. I took a great interest in my work, and my efforts were encouraged by the fact that our revenue increased yearly in a wonderful manner. . . ." ³⁵⁴

In the Parliamentary elections Mr. Aspinall took a very active part, as the two following notes show:—

"In 1861, at the first parliamentary election in Birkenhead, Thomas Brassey, junior (now Lord Brassey), contested the seat in the Liberal interest. The Conservative candidate was John Laird, who, after an exciting contest, conducted on both sides in an honourable spirit, was returned by a small majority. This was the first political battle into which I really plunged. My father was a staunch Tory, almost to an extreme. He was an old freeman of Liverpool, as was my grandfather. The Tory blood which ran in my veins so biassed me that for many years I supported Conservatism with all the might and vigour I possessed." ³⁵⁵

"Sir William Jackson's eldest son, Henry Mather Jackson, was the Liberal candidate who opposed John Laird at the second and most memorable Birkenhead parliamentary election. Henry Mather Jackson was an exceptionally courteous man, and a powerful candidate when backed by his father's immense popularity. The election was a violently contested one. Both Conservatives and Liberals were thoroughly prepared for a stiff fight, and it was a fight. I was, I may say, John Laird's right-hand man, and worked very hard for the cause, which was not only strongly political, but also seriously local. My position was an awkward one, as I was very intimate with both candidates.

..... John Laird was returned by a large majority. The moment the numbers were known I was seized bodily by the crowd, and carried, nolens volens, amidst loud cheering and to a band accompaniment, to Hamilton Square, where I was immediately called upon to address an enormous assemblage of people in front of Mr. Laird's house. I spoke from the balcony, and the applause was simply overwhelming.³⁵⁶

In a later chapter he gives us his own account of how he was nominated as Conservative candidate for Birkenhead, and his reasons for withdrawing in favour of Mr. MacIver.³⁵⁷ But for this, and for accounts of the many eminent men with whom he came in touch, we must refer readers to the book itself. It should perhaps be mentioned that as frontispiece to the book a second and later portrait of its author is given.

On the 8th June 1847,³⁵⁸ Mr. Aspinall had married Margaret Haselden. She is mentioned in a number of places in his book, and on one occasion he speaks of "the perfect happiness that my wife and I have experienced during the many years we have been permitted to live together."³⁵⁹ A letter from John Laird, dated Birkenhead, 7th September 1874, concludes: "Give my kindest regards to Mrs. Aspinall, whom I have always regarded as a model wife and mother, and a good staunch friend. Also remember me to the old lady, Mrs. Haselden, when you see her."³⁶⁰ The only reference to their children occurs at the conclusion of a couple of pages about horses: "All my children, five boys and five girls, can ride well. I taught them from childhood."³⁶¹ We are not told their names.

In a letter dated the 11th of March 1918, Miss Isabella Aspinall, one of Henry Kelsall Aspinall's daughters, writes that John Aspinall died on 26th December 1842, aged 50; and Charlotte, his wife, died on 27th June 1856, aged 71. Henry Kelsall Aspinall died on 28th March 1908, and is buried at St. Mary's Church, Birkenhead; Margaret, his wife, died 23rd June 1906, and is also buried at St. Mary's Church.

William Christian Aspinall was the third son of Henry Kelsall Aspinall. His death was announced in the Birkenhead News of the 11th July 1917, and in the same paper an appreciation of him was given:—

of the Mission's most faithful friends. For many years Mr. Aspinall was a member of the Mission Executive Committee until failing health necessitated his relinquishing those duties, much to his own regret and also that of his colleagues, but the doctor's orders for complete rest and change had to be complied with. Like his esteemed father (the late Mr. H. K. Aspinall) he was also one of the most welcome visitors at the Mission, his sunny genuine smile and kindly words endearing him to all, both old and young. . . . From the organisation's earliest infancy the family of Mr. Aspinall has been very closely connected with the work of the Poor Children's Mission. Sunday after Sunday the well-known figure of the late Mr. H. K. Aspinall might have been seen entering the Mission Hall in the old days in Price Street. In times of weal and woe he was ever foremost, always the same, ready to help, encourage and sympathise with his old friend the late Chas. Thompson. Not only in health and activity, but when the end was approaching, his kind visits and words of loving sympathy were a very great comfort to the dying philanthropist ere he passed away. The few remaining years of his life he was still as devoted to the Mission, helping and encouraging the daughter of his old friend in every way possible in her efforts to continue her father's life work. In 1908 he also was called, and the Mission felt his loss terribly; but, like father like son, the late Mr. W. Aspinall took up the broken link and most faithfully followed his noble sire's example. Everything that was good, noble, honourable, and chivalrous was found in the character of the dear friend the Mission now mourns. . . ."

Cecil Faber Aspinall is the youngest son of H. E. Aspinall, of Chilgrove Manor, Chichester, and a grandson of Henry Kelsall Aspinall. The current edition of Who's Who Biographies (1918) contains the following notice of him:—

"Aspinall, Lieut.-Col. Cecil Faber, C.M.G., 1916; D.S.O., 1917; General Staff Officer, First Grade; born 8 Feb. 1878; youngest son of H. E. of the Mission's most faithful friends. For many years Mr. Aspinall was a member of the Mission Executive Committee and his health necessitated his relinquishing those duties, much to his own regret and also that of his colleagues, but the doctor's orders for complete rest and change had to be complied with. Like his esteemed father (the late Mr. H. K. Aspinall) he was also one of the most welcome visitors at the Mission, his sunny genuine smile and kindly words endearing him to all, both old and young. . . . From the organization's earliest infancy the family of Mr. Aspinall has been very closely connected with the work of the Poor Children's Mission. Sunday after Sunday the well-known figure of the late Mr. H. K. Aspinall might have been seen entering the Mission Hall in the old days in Price Street. In times of want and need he was ever foremost, always the same, ready to help, encourage and sympathize with his old friend the late Mrs. Thompson. Not only in health and a lively, but when the end was approaching, his kind visits and words of loving sympathy were a very great comfort to the dying philanthropist as he passed away. The few remaining years of his life he was still as devoted to the Mission, helping and encouraging the daughter of his old friend in every way possible in her efforts to continue her father's life work. In 1908 he also was called, and the Mission felt his loss terribly; but like father like son, the late Mr. W. Aspinall took up the broken link and most faithfully followed his noble sire's example. Everything that was good, noble, honorable, and Christian was found in the character of the dear friend the Mission now mourns. . . .

Cecil Faber Aspinall is the youngest son of H. K. Aspinall, of Chiff Grove Manor, Chichester, and a grandson of Henry Kellan Aspinall. The current edition of Wake's Wales Biographies (1918) contains the following notice of him:—

59. Note by Lachlan Campbell, notary public, of certain infeftments taken by him on Duntroon, Oib, &c. A witness is Ronald C., tacksman of Lochhead. Hugh C. in Slockvulline is mentioned as an attorney. The docket gives the date as 1760.

60. Memorial, requiring Counsel's opinion, by James Campbell of Duntroon, brother and heir of deceased Niall C. of Duntroon, on the subject of a dispute with Patrick C. of Knap. It is stated that Niall having two daughters, his wife's friends got him to make provisions for them, burdening the estate out of all reason, Lamont and Dunardry plying him with drink while Kilduskland prepared the deed; and that, Niall having died "in October last" and his widow, Isobel Lamont, "a few weeks" later, the said Patrick, as husband of the younger daughter, was claiming the fulfilment of the obligation. The memorial begins with the narration of a disposition of Duntroon by . . . Campbell of Argyll (sic) to his brother, John C., in 1420, with remainder to the heirs male of his body, "and by the Investitures of the Estate it appears that these Lands have continued to this day without any alteration of the destination, and have belonged to the male Descendants of the first Duntroon." The docket gives the date of the memorial as 1760. The italics are mine. Seeing that the destination had undergone a pretty sharp alteration in the person of the memorialist's father, who had, as we know, acquired the estate otherwise than by primogeniture, any opinion based on the assertion cannot, one would think, have had much value.

61. Information for Lieut. Niall Campbell of Duntroon to the Arbiters in his dispute with Knap and his wife and her elder sister, Margaret Campbell. It begins: "That the Estate of Duntroon was given by Duncan Nagh,¹⁵ Lord Argyll (sic), as patrimony, to Duncan, his brother, commonly called Duncan Mor, and settled upon him and his heirs male by a Charter in the year 1422." The docket gives the date as 1760.

62. Disposition, dated Duntroon 3 April 1760, of all his property by James Campbell of Duntroon and Oib, grandson and heir of deceased Donald C. of Oib and brother and heir of deceased Niall C. of Duntroon, to his only lawful son, Captain Niall C., with obligation on the said Captain to pay the said James £30 yearly, and also to pay James' wife (the Captain's mother), Mary Fisher, her jointure and the three daughters of the said spouses, Betty, Ann and Jean, their portions. Written by James C. of Rudill. Witnesses: James C. of Raschoille and the said Rudill.

¹⁵ Nagh = fortunate. The second "n" is elided. This is the first documentary evidence I have encountered of the application of Mor to the progenitor of Duntroon, though the family is always called by the Seannachies Sliochd Dhonorchy Mor (Big Duncan's offspring). It will be observed that the writer of No. 61 had better information than the writer of No. 60. See The Genealogist, N.S. vol. xxxi, p. 239.

59. Note by Jacobus Campbell, notary public, of certain infirmities taken by him on Dunston, Old, &c. A witness is Ronald G., tacksman of Lochhead. Hugh G. in Shokkathine is mentioned as an attorney. The booklet gives the date as 1760.

60. Memorial, regarding Counsel's opinion, by James Campbell of Dunston, brother and heir of deceased Nath G. of Dunston, on the subject of a dispute with Patrick G. of Knap. It is stated that Nath having two daughters, his wife's friends got him to make provisions for them, burdening the estate out of all reason. Lamont and Dunstry plying him with drink while Edinburgh prepared the deed; and that Nath having died "in October last" and his widow, Isobel Lamont, "a few weeks" later the said Patrick, as husband of the younger daughter, was claiming the fulfilment of the obligation. The memorial begins with the mention of a disposition of Dunston by . . . Campbell of Argyll (sic) to his brother, John G., in 1430, with remainder to the heirs male of his body, "and by the investitures of the estate it appears that these lands have continued to this day without any alteration of the destination, and have belonged to the male descendants of the first Dunston." The booklet gives the date of the memorial as 1760. The dates are minor. Seeing that the destination had undergone a pretty sharp alteration in the person of the memorialist's father, who had, as we know, acquired the estate otherwise than by primogeniture, any opinion based on the assertion cannot, one would think, have had much value.

61. Information for James Nath Campbell of Dunston to the Arbiters in his dispute with Knap and his wife and her elder sister, Mary Campbell. It begins: "That the estate of Dunston was given by Duncan Naph, Lord Argyll (sic) as patrimony, to Duncan, his brother, commonly called Duncan Mer, and settled upon him and his heirs male by a charter in the year 1432." The booklet gives the date as 1760.

76. Legal opinion, dated 28 April 1763, by Mr. James Ferguson of Fife, on certain questions raised by Neil Campbell of Duntoon, son of deceased James G. of Duntoon. These questions are:—

(a) Respecting a claim by said James C.'s brother, Dugald C., to the lands of Oib, founded on the assertion that the said Dugald's father, deceased Patrick C. of Duntroon and Oib, being desirous of keeping the two estates distinct, had disposed Duntroon to his eldest son, Niall, and Oib to his second son, the said James C., with the proviso that, if James succeeded to Duntroon (as actually occurred), Oib was to pass to Patrick's next son, the said Dugald C. It is stated that there is no trace of this disposition of Oib to James; but it is claimed by the respondent that Patrick had no right to make any such proviso, being restricted by a former charter of Oib from the Earl of Argyll, dated 12 Feb. 1669. It is mentioned that the said Patrick had succeeded to Duntroon "in virtue of a disposition made thereof in his favour by Neil Campbell of Duntroon his Cousin."

(b) Respecting the marches of Niall's lands of Crinan and his fishing rights of the river Add, about which disputes had arisen with Maclachlan of Dunadd, Niall's neighbour on the other side of the river. It is stated that the Add constantly changes its course, causing land belonging to one laird to be situated on the opposite side and therefore to fall into the possession of the other, since the river is the boundary; and that, on the whole, these changes have been greatly to the advantage of Dunadd. Further, Dunadd's fishermen are constantly trespassing on Duntroon's bank, and Duntroon asks what are his rights as possessor of "half the fishing water of the Add."

(c) Respecting a tack¹⁸ of Crinan, granted on 18 Nov. 1738 by deceased Niall Campbell of Duntroon to . . . Campbell, merchant in Edinburgh, "commonly called Gamtroun," for 106 years from Whitsunday 1739. It is stated that Gamtroun became a debtor to Archibald C., merchant in Oban, in consequence of which, on 23 May 1744, he made over the tack (with certain provisional reservations that were afterwards forfeited) to the said Archibald, who went bankrupt about 1747 or 1748 and assigned the tack, on 13 Nov. 1753, to Colin C. of Ederline, one of his creditors. Ederline has agreed to sell the tack to the present Duntroon for £300; but the latter is anxious to know how he would stand in regard to the other creditors of the said Archibald.

(d) Respecting the teinds of Kilmartin, the minister claiming that the teind-victual should be paid according to an old measure, which has been superseded by the sheriff of Argyll. This is resisted by Duntroon.

(e) Respecting the wadset of Balligowan. It is stated that this wadset had been granted in 1725 by Patrick Campbell of Duntroon "to one Doctor Campbell a Relation of his own," with remainder to his son and the lawful heirs male of his body, whom failing, to return to Patrick. The doctor and his son died "some time ago" without any issue, so that the wadset devolved on ¹⁸ This tack was registered in the Sheriff Court Books of Argyll on 27 March 1750, from which we learn that Gamtroun's christian name was Archibald.

(a) Respecting a claim by said James C.'s brother, Dugald G., to the lands of Oib, founded on the assertion that the said Dugald's father, deceased Patrick G. of Dunthoon and Oib, being desirous of keeping the two estates distinct, had disposed Dunthoon to his eldest son, Neil, and Oib to his second son, the said James C., with the proviso that if James succeeded to Dunthoon (as actually occurred), Oib was to pass to Patrick's next son, the said Dugald G. It is stated that there is no trace of this disposition of Oib to James; but it is claimed by the respondent that Patrick had no right to make any such proviso, being restricted by a former charter of Oib from the Earl of Argyll, dated 12 Feb. 1688. It is mentioned that the said Patrick had succeeded to Dunthoon "in virtue of a disposition made in his favour by Neil Campbell of Dunthoon his Cousin."

(b) Respecting the marches of Neil's lands of Grinan and his fishing rights of the river Add, about which disputes had arisen with Macdonald of Dunadd, Neil's neighbour on the other side of the river. It is stated that the Add constantly changes its course, causing land belonging to one land to be situated on the opposite side and thence to fall into the possession of the other, since the river is the boundary; and that, on the whole, these changes have been greatly to the advantage of Dunadd. Further, Dunadd's fishermen are constantly trespassing on Dunthoon's bank, and Dunthoon asks what are his rights as possessor of "half the fishing water of the Add."

(c) Respecting a tack¹² of Grinan, granted on 18 Nov. 1738 by deceased Neil Campbell of Dunthoon to . . . (Campbell, merchant in Edinburgh, "commonly called Gammon," for 100 years from Whituesday 1732. It is stated that Gammon became a debtor to Archibald G., merchant in Oban, in consequence of which, on 23 May 1741, he made over the tack (with certain provisional reservations that were afterwards forfeited) to the said Archibald, who went bankrupt about 1747 or 1748 and assigned the tack, on 13 Nov. 1753, to John G. of Edinburgh, one of his creditors. Edinburgh has agreed to sell the tack to the present Dunthoon for £300; but the latter is anxious to know how he would stand in regard to the other creditors of the said Archibald.

(d) Respecting the tacks of Kilmarin, the minister claiming that the tacks should be paid according to an old measure, which has been superseded by the shorth of Argyll. This is resisted by Dunthoon.

(e) Respecting the wadset of Bellgowan. It is stated that this wadset had been granted in 1725 by Patrick Campbell of Dunthoon "to one Doctor Campbell a Relation of his own," with remainder to his son and the lawful heirs male of his body, whom failing to return to Patrick. The doctor and his son died "some time ago" without any issue, so that the wadset devolved on ¹² This tack was registered in the Sheriff Court Books of Argyll on 27 March 1750, from which we learn that Gammon's Christian name was Archibald.

Niall C. of Duntroon, Patrick's eldest son, who regranted it to James C. of Rudill and his spouse "and the longest liver of them two" for their liferent use only. Duntroon now wishes to redeem the wadset, but Rudill resists.

(f) Respecting dry multures of the mill of Calzebar and mill lands called Gartanvulin, originally granted by the family of Argyll to the McNeills of Taynish. It is stated that Taynish sold the mill on 15 Aug. 1721 to Patrick C. of Duntroon for a complicated reddendo, to which the present Duntroon objects.

77. Renunciation, dated Duntroon 11 Feb. 1764, of his claim on Oib by Dugald Campbell, fourth¹⁹ lawful son of deceased Patrick C. of Duntroon and immediate younger brother of deceased James C. of Oib and Duntroon, with advice and consent of Alexander C., only lawful son of said Dugald, in favour of Niall C., now of Duntroon, for a consideration. Dugald maintains the justice of his claim, but admits that it is extremely improbable that he will ever discover the disposition of Oib to James, by which alone it can be proved. Written by the said Alexander C. Witnesses: George Christie and Duncan Barroch, servitors to the said Duntroon.

78. Back bond, dated Inveraray 12 June 1766, by Captain James²⁰ Campbell, late of the 42nd Regiment of Foot, relieving Niall C. of Duntroon and David C. of Cloichombie of their surety for £400. Witnesses: Archibald C. of Askomil and Duncan C., writer in Inveraray.

79. Four discharges, dated at Inveraray, 6 Dec. 1766, 4 Jan. and 17 Dec. 1768, and 28 Feb. 1770, by Dugald McKellar, merchant in Inveraray, for £25, annualrent on a bond for £500, paid by Niall Campbell of Duntroon.

80. Bond of relief, dated Duntroon 7 April 1767, by James Fisher of Durren to Donald McNeill of Colonsay, James Campbell of Craignish, Niall C. of Duntroon and Alexander McNeill of Oronsay, who became cautioners on the said Durren's bond for £500 to the Royal Bank of Scotland, dated 6 and 7 April. Witnesses: Dougald C., younger of Craignish and Ronald C., merchant in Campbeltown.

81. Two discharges, dated Edinburgh 19 Feb. and 7 March 1771, by Sarah Rankin, widow of Dugald Clerk of Bralucking and mother of deceased John Clerk of Bralucking, relieving Niall Campbell of Duntroon of his cautionary on a bond. Written by John Emslie, clerk to David C., W.S. Witnesses Mr. William Charles Little, advocate, and Anthony Barclay, W.S.

82. Bill drawn by Niall Campbell of Duntroon (for himself and Colin MacLachlan of Craighterve) on and accepted by John C., carter in Inveraray. Dated at Inveraray, 19 March 1771.

¹⁹ As James was always called second son of Patrick, and as the latter had a lawful son, Alexander, who appears to have predeceased his father (see Nos. 20 and 42, supra), we are entitled to assume that this Alexander was the third son. In The Genealogist, N.S., vol. xxviii, pp. 29 and 30, I stated that this son, Alexander, was illegitimate; but as he is styled "lawful son" in more than one place, I must now retract this. It is quite likely, however, that Patrick also had an illegitimate son named Alexander.

²⁰ The signature is that of Duntroon's eldest son.

Niall G. of Duntoon, Patrick's eldest son, who requested it to James G. of Rudill and his spouse "and the longest liver of them two" for their lifetime use only. Duntoon now wishes to redeem the wadset, but Rudill resists.

(V) Respecting dry menses of the mill of Calkebar and mill lands called Gairanvish, originally granted by the family of Argyll to the McNeills of Tayside. It is stated that Tayside sold the mill on 15 Aug. 1721 to Patrick G. of Duntoon for a complicated redendo, to which the present Duntoon objects.

77. Renunciation, dated Duntoon 11 Feb. 1764, of his claim on Oib by Duaghl Campbell, fourthth lawful son of deceased Patrick G. of Duntoon and immediate younger brother of deceased James G. of Oib and Duntoon, with advice and consent of Alexander G., only lawful son of said Duaghl, in favour of Niall G., now of Duntoon, for a consideration. Duaghl maintains the justice of his claim, but admits that it is extremely improbable that he will ever discover the disposition of Oib to James, by which alone it can be proved. Written by the said Alexander G. Witnesses: George Christie and Duncan Baroch, sermons to the said Duntoon.

78. Back bond, dated Inverury 12 June 1766, by Captain Jamesth Campbell, late of the 42nd Regiment of Foot, relieving Niall G. of Duntoon and David G. of Glenbarrach of their surety for £400. Witnesses: Archibald G. of Aisknoll and Duncan G., writer in Inverury.

79. Four discharges, dated at Inverury 6 Dec. 1766, 4 Jan. and 17 Dec. 1768, and 28 Feb. 1770, by Duaghl McKellar, merchant in Inverury, for £25, annuities on a bond for £300, paid by Niall Campbell of Duntoon.

80. Bond of relief, dated Duntoon 7 April 1767, by James Fisher of Durn to Donald McNeill of Glenashy, James Campbell of Craigish, Niall G. of Duntoon and Alexander McNeill of Glenashy, who became cautioners on the said Durn's bond for £500 to the Royal Bank of Scotland, dated 6 and 7 April. Witnesses: Donald G., younger of Craigish and Ronald G., merchant in Campbelltown.

81. Two discharges, dated Edinburgh 19 Feb. and 7 March 1771, by Sarah Rankin, widow of Duaghl Clerk of Hadding and mother of deceased John Clerk of Hadding, relieving Niall Campbell of Duntoon of his cautioners on a bond. Written by John Rankin, clerk to David G. W.S. Witnesses Mr. William Charles Little, advocate, and Anthony Barclay, W.S.

82. Bill drawn by Niall Campbell of Duntoon (for himself and Colin Maclean of Caminterry) on and accepted by John G., carrier in Inverury. Dated at Inverury 19 March 1771.

83. As James was always called second son of Patrick, and as the latter had a lawful son, Alexander, who appears to have predeceased his father (see Nos. 20 and 22 supra), we are entitled to assume that this Alexander was the third son. In The Genealogist, N.S. vol. xxviii, pp. 22 and 20, I stated that this son, Alexander, was illegitimate; but as he is styled "lawful son" in more than one place, I must now retract this. It is quite likely, however, that Patrick also had an illegitimate son named Alexander.

84. The signature is that of Duntoon's eldest son.

83. Hornings, protests, bill of suspension and reply thereto, and other documents, dated Edinburgh, between 11 March and 30 April 1772, respecting a dispute between Niall Campbell of Duntroon and John Munro, tailor in Glasgow, over a bond for £500 by the said Niall to Dugald McKellar, merchant in Inveraray, now deceased. It appears that McKellar died intestate, leaving a sister, Janet, and a nephew, the said John Munro, son of his other sister, deceased Mary McKellar. McKellar's distant relative, however, Niall McKellar of Daill, asserted that the deceased had made a Will, devising his property to him, but that Janet had suppressed or destroyed the Will; and Daill's action against Janet was sub judice. On this ground Duntroon objected to pay half the amount of the bond to the said Munro and produced a letter of relief from Daill to him in respect of £250. Munro replied (with some justice) that Duntroon's contention was frivolous and was merely adopted in order to delay payment of the debt, as Daill's dispute was against Janet only, he having assigned to Munro half his claim against McKellar's estate. I suspect that Daill felt his case to be weak and made this assignation in order to detach Munro from Janet. In any case, Munro was clearly in the right.

84. Letter, dated Edinburgh 18 April 1772, from David Campbell of Belmont to his "brother," Niall C. of Duntroon, informing him that his Bill of Suspension against Munro had been refused.

85. Bill for £5, dated Inveraray 9 June 1772, drawn by Niall Campbell of Duntroon on and accepted by John MacLachlan, late of Ardelay.

86. Bill for £430, dated Stroneskar 7 Oct. 1772, drawn by Niall Campbell of Duntroon on and accepted by Niall McKellar of Daill.

87. Receipt for £81 13s. 4d., dated Stroneskar 7 Oct. 1772, by Niall McKellar of Daill, paid by Duntroon as rent for the fishing in the Add belonging to Daill's brother, Col. McKellar.

88. Horning and poiding, dated Edinburgh 10 Feb. 1773, by Duntroon against Niall McKellar of Daill in respect of his bill for £430.

89. Letter, dated Saddell, 29 May 1773, from John Campbell of Saddell to Capt. Niall C. of Duntroon, offering to sell him his Crinan meal.

90. Letter, dated Edinburgh 22 April 1775, from Patrick MacDougall to Niall Campbell of Duntroon, forwarding copy of Bill of suspension at the instance of Ann Campbell, widow of Niall McNeill of Arichonan, against Duntroon, who had raised letters of horning against her in respect of various debts. Also a memorial for the said Duntroon in reply to above bill. It appears that Arichonan had been a lunatic and that his wife had contracted these debts but now pleaded that a woman was not responsible in law. There is mention of Alexander McNeill of Oronsay and Archibald Campbell of Knockbuy as Trustees of Arichonan; and an only son of the lunatic is mentioned, but his Christian name is omitted.

91. Letter, dated Ederline 1 Aug. 1779, from Colin Campbell of Ederline to Captain Niall Campbell of Duntroon, West Fencibles, Edinburgh, stating that he has, in the absence of his son (who has

83. Hornings, protests, bill of suspension and reply thereto, and other documents, dated Edinburgh, between 11 March and 30 April 1772, respecting a dispute between Nath Campbell of Duntoon and John Munro, tailor in Glasgow, over a bond for £500 by the said Nath to Douglas McKellar, merchant in Laverney, now deceased. It appears that McKellar died intestate, leaving a sister, Janet, and a nephew, the said John Munro, son of his other sister, deceased Mary McKellar; McKellar's distant relative, however, William McKellar of Dail, asserted that the deceased had made a Will, devising his property to him, but that Janet had suppressed or destroyed the Will; and Dail's action against Janet was refused. On this ground Duntoon objected to pay half the amount of the bond to the said Munro and produced a letter of relief from Dail to him in respect of £250. Munro replied (with some justice) that Duntoon's contention was frivolous and was merely adopted in order to delay payment of the debt, as Dail's dispute was against Janet only, he having assigned to Munro half his claim against McKellar's estate. I suspect that Dail left his case to be weak and made this assignment in order to detach Munro from Janet. In any case, Munro was clearly in the right.
84. Letter, dated Edinburgh 18 April 1772, from David Campbell of Belmont to his "brother," Nath C. of Duntoon, informing him that his Bill of Suspension against Munro had been refused.
85. Bill for £5, dated Laverney 9 June 1772, drawn by Nath Campbell of Duntoon on and accepted by John Macdonald, late of Ardsley.
86. Bill for £130, dated Stronsaker 7 Oct. 1772, drawn by Nath Campbell of Duntoon on and accepted by Nath McKellar of Dail.
87. Receipt for £81 12s. 4d., dated Stronsaker 7 Oct. 1772, by Nath McKellar of Dail, paid by Duntoon as rent for the fishing in the Add belonging to Dail's brother, Col. McKellar.
88. Hornings and bonding, dated Edinburgh 10 Feb. 1773, by Duntoon against Nath McKellar of Dail in respect of his bill for £430.
89. Letter, dated Salsburgh 29 May 1773, from John Campbell of Salsburgh to Capt. Nath C. of Duntoon, offering to sell him his Orman meal.
90. Letter, dated Edinburgh 22 April 1773, from Patrick Mac-Dougall to Nath Campbell of Duntoon, forwarding copy of Bill of suspension at the instance of Ann Campbell, widow of Nath McNeill of Arichonan, against Duntoon, who had raised letters of homing against her in respect of various debts. Also a memorial for the said Duntoon in reply to above bill. It appears that Arichonan had been a lunatic and that his wife had contracted those debts but now pleaded that a woman was not responsible in law. There is mention of Alexander McNeill of Ormsay and Archibald Campbell of Knockby as Trustees of Arichonan; and an only son of the lunatic is mentioned, but his Christian name is omitted.
91. Letter, dated Edinburgh 1 Aug. 1773, from Colin Campbell of Edinburgh to Captain Nath Campbell of Duntoon, West Fenshles, Edinburgh, stating that he had, in the absence of his son (who has sprained his leg), opened a letter addressed to him by Duntroon and Knockbuy on the subject of an action against Mr. McKellar.

92. Letter, dated Tayloch 4 Dec. 1783, by John Campbell in Tayinloch, to Niall C. of Duntroon, saying he hears Duntroon intends to let Oibmore for nine years and offering to buy the meal to be given by the tenants as rent.

93. Offer, dated Oib 8 Dec. 1783, by Duncan Campbell, tenant in Baryle, John McKellar in Drimfian, and Alexander McAlpine and Archibald Black, farmers in Oib, for a nine years' tack of Oibmore. Also copy of Duntroon's acceptance.

94. Letter, dated Duntroon 22 Dec. 1783, from Donald Ruthven, crofter in Taynacraig (a part of Kilmorie), acknowledging that he had taken from Duntroon a tack of that croft for one year from Whitsunday 1784.

95. Ditto (Glasgow, 18 March 1785), about a year's tack of Lagganuary taken from Whitsunday 1786 by Duncan McLean from Duntroon.

96. Inventory, dated Edinburgh 24 Dec. 1785, of tacks of sundry farms given by Niall Campbell of Duntroon, including a missive tack of the feuduty of Ellanrie, which contains a mutual tack of the teind-victual of Duntroon's property in Kilmartin parish during the incumbency of the Rev. Mr. Hugh C.²¹ dated 16 Nov. 1769.

97. Copy of the minutes of a meeting, held on 26 Dec. 1786, of Duntroon's creditors, wherein it is stated that he has written to his wife announcing his arrival in India, and that he hopes to borrow money from his "brother." Therefore, since they cannot get a good offer for Duntroon estate, it is decided to postpone the sale.

98. A large collection of letters, accounts, bills, &c., dated between 1771 and 1798, disclosing business transactions between Capt. Niall Campbell of Duntroon, his brothers-in-law, Mr. David C. of Belmount, W.S., and Ronald Campbell, merchant in Campbeltown, and (maternal) cousin, Duncan C.,²² writer in Inveraray, afterwards Mr. Commissary Campbell and later of Ross. Also some letters (1799 to 1803) from Captain James C. of Duntroon²³ and his brother, Lieut. Niall C., later of Duntroon, addressed to Mr. John C., W.S., St. James' Square, Edinburgh. There is disclosed an appalling lack of business method, it being obvious that Capt. Niall had been in the habit of issuing notes of hand in lieu of petty cash and never keeping an account of what he had outstanding.

²² I think Sir Archibald Campbell, Governor of Madras, was his brother-in-law, though I am unable to lay my hand on proofs. Duncan Campbell of Ross was Sir Archibald's brother, and both were first cousins of Capt. Niall, their respective mothers having been sisters.

²³ In a letter, dated 28 Oct. 1797, to John Campbell, W.S., James says he has heard news of his grandmother's death at Kilniver. And John Campbell, W.S., in a letter of 4 Jan. 1799, addressed to John Campbell at Barslinsnach, factor of Oib, states that James' mother "died about a fortnight ago."

92. Letter dated Tayloch 4 Dec. 1783, by John Campbell in Tayloch, to Nathl G. of Duntoun, saying he hears Duntoun intends to let Odmore for nine years and offering to buy the meal to be given by the tenants as rent.

93. Offer, dated Oib Dec. 1783, by Duncan Campbell, tenant in Barty's John McKellar in Duntoun, and Alexander McKellar and Archibald Black, farmers in Oib, for a nine years' tack of Odmore. Also copy of Duntoun's acceptance.

94. Letter, dated Duntoun 22 Dec. 1783, from Donald Hutcheon, brother in Taymach (a part of Kilmorie), acknowledging that he had taken from Duntoun a tack of that estate for one year from Whitsunday 1784.

95. Dittie (Glasgow, 18 March 1785), about a year's tack of Laggan-ary taken from Whitsunday 1785 by James McKellar from Duntoun.

96. Inventory, dated Edinburgh 24 Dec. 1785, of tacks of sundry farms given by Nathl Campbell of Duntoun, including a massive tack of the lordship of Ellendie, which contains a mutual tack of the tithes of Duntoun's property in Kilmorie parish during the incumbency of the Rev. Mr. Hugh G.² dated 18 Nov. 1769.

97. Copy of the minutes of a meeting held on 26 Dec. 1786, of Duntoun's creditors, wherein it is stated that he has written to his wife announcing his arrival in India, and that he hopes to borrow money from his "brother." Therefore, since they cannot get a good offer for Duntoun estate, it is decided to postpone the sale.

98. A large collection of letters, accounts, bills, &c., dated between 1771 and 1785, disclosing business transactions between Capt. Nathl Campbell of Duntoun, his brothers-in-law, Sir David G. of Edinburgh, W.S., and Donald Campbell, merchant in Edinburgh, and (unnamed) cousin, Duncan G.² writer in Inverury, afterwards Mr. Commissary Campbell and later of Ross. Also some letters (1792 to 1803) from Captain James G. of Duntoun² and his brother, Lieut. Nathl G., later of Duntoun, addressed to Mr. John C. W.S., Sir James Spangar, Edinburgh. There is disclosed an appalling lack of business method, it being obvious that Capt. Nathl had been in the habit of issuing notes of hand in lieu of petty cash and never keeping an account of what he had outstanding.

"Hill, John" is apparently a transcriber's error for "Hill, John" of the will of John Hill, father of testator, 419 Chichester, i. and ii. 241, 242 registers "Hill, John" as executor. [This correction is verified by the will of Henry Kyndell, P.C.C. 241, 242 registers "Hill, John" as executor.]
